PRESIDENT'S LECTURE.

Arrested Development the Theme of a Scholarly Discourse.

The opening address of the term was delivered in Bucknell Hall Monday morning by President John Howard Harris.

The address was another one of those intellectual treats of which we are all so fond.

As has been the case since the first Chapel Friday morning, the seating capacity was taxed to its utmost. The President chose as the subject of his lecture "Arrested Development" and discussed it to the entire satisfaction of all present.

He said that development depends on the physical condition of the individual. Smallness of brain, false methods of study and false methods of teaching all tend toward arrested development. First, Development may be arrested at the point of memory. The Chinese learn very readily; they can take up the history of the United States, the names of the presidents, dates of their birth, term of office, date of death, etc., and repeat almost verbatum after one reading, but their mental power ends there; they lack the power of thinking out the matter for themselves.

Children like the Chinese are receptive; they can be "stuffed." In short, they become the prodigy of memory. They are fully developed in memory but their development and training are arrested at this point. A good example of a well developed memory is afforded in the case of a man in Western Pennsylvania who could reproduce dates covering a period of forty years. But he had no further mental development; he was the victim of mechanical memory.

Second, Development may be arrested at the point of associated reasoning. So that one may not be able to make inductions. He can not apply what he has learned and is utterly helpless so far as arriving at a general principle is concerned.

Sometimes it is the case that persons who have good memories want to take more studies because they are misguided by that memory. They lack the essentials for getting out a lesson properly. They must get at the underlying principles. They must think it out and exercise their power of reason. One needs the element of time in the study and preparation of a lesson.

The importance of originality can not be over estimated. The student must strike out in new paths. Every man is a genius and he sees the world in his own way. Good examples can be taken from Geology and Botany. Originality is best brought about by rebellious students. Rebellious students are not those who show a hostile spirit toward a teacher, but are those who rebel against false principles and false methods. Men such as Lord Bacon.

The student has great need of expression. It has been clearly pointed out that we do all our thinking in language and to gain good expression it devolves upon the individual to do good thinking. He will master the instrument of thinking and the instrument of expression by the study of language. The careful study of latin leads to good language. Cicero is a good example to follow and he is also a model of expression. The University has arranged its curriculum so as to place the study of latin in the early part of the student's course. He will then very early gain the mastery of expression and the instrument of good and correct thinking. He will be better prepared for the study of science which is to follow later.

Development can be further arrested in regard to its breadth; whenever a subject becomes easy for a student it is time for him to adandon it and take up some matter that will engross his attention to a greater extent. There is danger in aiming to be too thorough along some particular line. An individual who reads upon some one line, who always talks along that same line will eventually become one sided and mentally overbalanced. He is overwhelmed with a narrowness of interest and insanity arises from narrowness.

Development can also be arrested in regards to feeling and will.

Do not shut yourself up from your fellowmen. The student is compelled to look at the social factor in his College education. He cannot make the best of his course by solitude.

The contact of mind with mind aids in social development. It trains you to suffer defeat cheerfully. In other words it prepares you for the storms of the world. College is designed for elementary training for the professional. It is the student's duty to give attention to liberal study instead of professional study.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

Prof. Phillips, formerly a teacher in the Academy addressed an open meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in Bucknell Hall on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The object of the meeting he said was direction for the coming year and he based his remarks on Gal. 5 from the 13th verse on. His subject was, "The Life of the Spirit." Among other things he said, "The life of the spirit is the Life of God, of Christ and of Fellowship with God. The Life of the Spirit is the life of a person, the life of the best in you. Love is the law of the life of the spirit. The life of the spirit is dependent upon Bible study. It is active and passive. God expects you to use your will as directed by him." A number of those present made remarks after Prof. Phillips had concluded.

Dr. Rudolph Schwill, Instructor in French and German last year, has gone to Yale, as Instructor in German in the Scientific school. To take his place, Bucknell has secured Prof. Theodore Hamilton, a graduate of Harvard and the Missouri State University, where he was a Teaching Fellow. Prof. Hamilton comes well recommended as an instructor and has had some years' experience in the work. He is well equipped to meet the demands of this rapidly growing department of the College.

Weymouth, 1900, half-back on last year's Varsity team, has decided to enter Yale this fall.

Y. M. C. A. Reception.

The annual reception of the College Young Men's Christian Association to the new men was held in Theta Alpha Hall on Saturday evening. The object of the reception was to become better acquainted with one another and to help make the new men feel more at home. Each man wore a card, on which was written his name and class numerals. Mr. Alexander, '01, the president of the Association, gave a short address of welcome to the new men and gave them a cordial invitation to attend the meetings of the Association and take part in the work of the Association. Prof. Hamlin had been asked by the committee to give an account of his trip through Europe during the past summer and he was introduced as the next speaker. The account of his trip was a rich treat and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present. In a most entertaining manner he related many incidents occurring during his trip some of them very humorous and amusing and described different scenes along his line of travel. After this address the four classes gathered in the different corners of the hall and made the air vibrate with the noise of their yells. These were followed by the Bucknell yells given in a hearty manner.

The reception would not have been complete without refreshments so the committee had provided an abundance of nice palatable apples and pears and several large baskets of sweet luscious grapes which the boys attacked in a most hearty manner. When all had their fill they slowly separated, all feeling that they had spent a most profitable evening.

B. U. 23. L. A. C. 0.

On Saturday afternoon Bucknell lined up for two short halves, against the Lewisburg Athletic Club. The halves were only of 15 and 10 minutes duration, too short for the 'Varsity to show their real strength. One noticeable feature was the formations and gains of the 'Varsity around the ends. The L. A. C. boys deserve great credit for their tackling and for the manner in which they stopped the heavy rushes of the 'Varsity.

Miss Helen Schillinger, a graduate of Kee Mar College and the King School of Oratory, is filling Miss Hanna's place as teacher of elocution at the Institute during the latter's leave of absence in Europe.

F. D. Simpson, '95, is teacher of sciences in the Academy in place of Mr. Rentz, who is teaching other subjects this year.

Football.

The football prospects are most encouraging and from all appearances Bucknell will have a good, strong winning team. With the exception of a few, nearly all of last year's gridiron warriors have returned to college and the new material is showing up well. Coach Hoskins has sole charge of the training and coaching of the team. The candidates are not much heavier than last year but considerably faster. Of the candidates, Sweet will undoubtedly again occupy his former position at centre, with Gillus at his right side, while Taylor, and Lenhart are striving for the other position at guard. Gray, and Wilcox, have been playing tackle. Barrett, Susquehanna University's great end rush. Freudenberger, who played right end last season, Johnson, and several others are candidates for the ends. Stanton will play his former position at left half and captain the team. The candidates for the other half, for quarter, and for fullback, are Prichard, Doolin, Catterall, and Teufel. Mathewson, Bucknell's great fullback of the last two seasons has returned to college and his ability in punting and drop-kicking will greatly strengthen the team. Most encouraging as the prospects are, the team needs the assistance and co-operation of the entire student-body. Games are being arranged for the scrub team and from the material in college there is no excuse for not having a fast scrub team. Everybody is invited to come out and try for a place.

Improvements at Bucknell.

The most gratifying and pleasing spectacle that presented itself to the students upon their return was the many improvements which were noticed on every hand.

West College, the large new dormitory building was found ready for occupancy: the main college building had been renovated: a new recitation room had been placed in the Laboratory and a large study hall, with the latest improved school furniture, was put in the Academy. Work on the large electric light and steam heating plant had also been begun.

The path leading from the end of west wing to the laboratory was carefully straightened and graded and the double stone walls on either side of the stream at the Lab. gave it a look that bespoke skilled workmanship. When these walls are extended from culvert to culvert and ivy is allowed to twine about and droop over them, they will add much worth to the now almost unsurpasable beauty of Bucknell's campus.

The new goal posts were conspicuous as the student was busily climbing college hill.

To-day Bucknell is inimitable in her scenic grandeur and her graduates can look with just pride upon alma mater.

Frank Stanton, '02, has been elected captain of the 'Varsity team, in place of Capt. Reimer, who did not return to college. Stanton has played on the team for two years and has proved to be one of the best half-backs Bucknell ever had. He will make a most efficient captain.

The ORANGE AND BLUE again offers its greetings at the opening of another college year and the fifth year of its existence. We earnestly solicit the hearty support of the student body in order to keep pace with the marvelous growth of the University both in equipment and number of students. It is the duty of every new student to acquaint him or herself with the institution they have entered as soon as possible, and get in touch with its various customs. There is no quicker or better way to do this than to subscribe for the college publications. All current events will be fully recorded on the pages of the ORANGE AND BLUE from week to week with editorial comments. Every student ought to feel it his duty to subscribe for the college weekly, or if he does not feel able to do so, he ought to "go halves" with his room-mate, so that if it is not possible to have the paper in the hands of every student it will be at least in every room.

The manager will be around to see you if he has not seen you yet. Be ready with your subscription and your dollar. It will be much easier for you to pay now than it will be later. College publications are always what the students make them and cannot be conducted successfully without their hearty support, financial and otherwise. The editors have always tried their best to please their patrons and will try to do so in the future. If you have any suggestions to make, come to them and they will make the most of them. They are always ready to profit by good advice.

The incoming Freshman class does not quite come up to expectations in point of numbers, but is fully as large as last year's class.

To offset this the new dormitory is ready for occupancy with the third and fourth floors almost filled. It is sure to draw large numbers of students in the future and is a building to be proud of and would be a credit to any institution. In finish and equipment it cannot be surpassed.

OUR TEAM meets the giants from Wyoming on the college gridiron next Saturday. This will really be the most important game on our grounds as it will determine the strength of our men against a team whose size and weight at least equals, if not exceeds, that of the largest college elevens.

A heavy expense has been incurred by the management in securing the Wyoming team, and it is hoped the student body to a man will support the game.

Owing to the unpatriotic conduct of some students in the past, who watched games from their windows or the college paths, the finance and advisory boards have decided that hereafter the name of every student so offending shall be taken by the ticket sellers and published in the ORANGE AND BLUE. This step has been taken on the theory that there is not one man in college who is so poverty-stricken that he cannot afford 25 cents for a football game; if there is, his place is on the railroad track, not in college or on the grandstand.

Wyoming Seminary vs Bucknell University, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Admission 25c.

Edward Bell, 1900, has been elected to the position of teacher of mathematics in the Academy. Congratulations Ed.

Koch, '98, who was principal of the Curwensville schools for two years, has secured a good position in the Williamsport schools.

The new regulation goal posts, designed for the protection of the players, have been adopted by the Advisory Board and placed on the athletic field.

The campus has been much improved during the summer and all the returning students are much pleased with the changes.

Ezra Lehman, '99, was married to Miss Lula Lane at the home of the bride's parents, at Huntingdon, on Sept. 18, by the Rev. Dr. Applegarth, a leading Baptist minister of that place. Mr. Lehman is a member of the Shippensburg State Normal faculty.

The racing at Brook Park this season is assured to be the greatest show of horse racing in Central Pennsylvania. There are one hundred and one horses at the fair this fall. In connection with this the celebrated Japanese family as a special attraction makes the fair a success beyond a doubt.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1900. No. 2

Bucknell, 36. Wyoming, 0.

On Saturday afternoon the Bucknell University football team took the strong Wyoming Seminary team into camp to the tune of 36 to 0.

A greater part of the game was played in a drizzling rain, which caused the ball to be heavy and slippery. This was the cause of a good bit of fumbling.

All the players deserve great credit for their work in each play. The long kicks and rushes of Matthewson, the long runs of Barrett and Catterall, and the plunges of the linemen deserve special mention. It was also pleasing to note the brace Bucknell took in defensive work during the latter part of the game. The few weaknesses shown in the beginning of the contest will undoubtedly be greatly reduced with another week's practice.

It was fully 2.30 P. M. when the game began. Matthewson won the toss and took the east goal, with the wind in his favor. Gillus gained 3 yards and Matthewson went over for a touchdown. Catterall kicked goal. Score, B. U. 24, Wyoming 0.

Taggart kicked to Matthewson, who returned it to Wyoming's 44 yard line. Wyoming gained nothing on the next 2 downs when time was up.

The second half opened with Doolin at left half and Wilcox at left tackle. Matthewson kicked out of bounds, and on the second attempt kicked to Wyoming's 5 yard line. Wyoming fumbled and Catterall carried the ball 25 yards for a touchdown and also kicked the goal. Score, B. U. 30, Wyoming 0.

Pastor Judd's Donation.

The Athletic Association and Advisory Board desire, through the columns of the ORANGE AND BLUE, to thank Rev. J. T. Judd, pastor of the Lewisburg Baptist church, most heartily for his very generous donation of the new regulation goal posts which were placed on the Bucknell gridiron at the beginning of the present term.

The pastor has always been a staunch supporter of athletics and this is only one of his many outward manifestations of the same.

B. U. A. A. Extends Thanks.

The thanks of the Athletic Association are gratefully extended to James Stuck, the Market street restaurant man, and chief of the Lewisburg Fire Department, for his kindness in superintending the sprinkling of the athletic field on Friday and for his gratuitous loan of the company's hose. Thanks are also due J. H. Reed, the genial baggage master and expressman, for free drayage of the hose to and from the field.

Y. M. C. A.

The cabinet held a meeting on Saturday afternoon and discussed the various phases of the Association work for the year. Plans were discussed for making the meetings more interesting so as to interest the new and old students.

The first regular meeting held on Tuesday night was a Bible study rally and was led by Ulmer, '02, who spoke about the benefits of systematic bible study. The courses to be pursued by the different classes were explained. The studies will be interesting and instructive and well worth taking up. The leaders for the classes will appear later. The classes will begin regular work in a very short time.

Goodman, ex-'03, of Lewisburg, has entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania.

A Retraction.

It is very rarely the case that a newspaper makes a retractile statement in support of any article which may have occurred in its columns in previous editions. The ORANGE AND BLUE feels itself duty bound however to make an exception to this general rule and give some explanatory statements in reference to the article which appeared on second column of editorial page in last week's issue.

This article was not written by any member of the staff and had the editor known that it would be interpreted in the manner it was it would have been entirely eliminated from our columns.

We were acting on the supposition that each and every article that was handed to us was backed with a full mensure of authenticity. This paper is run and supported by the student body for the student body and its friends. Had this article been official, as was the supposition, it was only right and just that the students know it. On these grounds it was inserted and no harm whatever was meant.

Our students are invested with the proper amount of judgment to know in what manner to deal with their individual finances and we feel sure that our games will have due recognition at their hands.

We would ask that you attach no blame to us for this article, but constantly remember that we are earnestly striving to give you a paper that is fair and just in all its relations and no one will be more glad to receive suggestions or advice than your servant. THE EDITOR.

The work of another college year has fairly begun and all classes and other work are in full swing. Although it is not our purpose to preach sermons in these columns a word of advice would not be out place, especially to new students. Habits formed in the Freshman year generally stick to a student through his whole course particularly the habit of carelessness in the methods of study. The careless student may think that it is all right as long as he gets through with a fairly good mark but when he gets further along in his course he will see the folly of his ways, but by that time he has formed his habits which can be overcome only by special effort in that direction. Latin and Greek are often considered only as a grind and hardly worth the effort but only those who have made a careful study of them can appreciate the benefits derived therefrom. Nothing can surpass these as culture studies. Haphazard methods of study are worse than nothing and when the careless student is through with these he has nothing to show for the time expended on them and his time is little better than wasted. The same thing is true in other studies as in those mentioned. The habit of "cutting" classes is pernicious and exceedingly hard to break when once formed, not to speak of the consequent reductions in the term grade. Above all, start right in your religious life. Carelessness in this respect is very rarely overcome in a student's upperclassman days. Either he starts right when he enters college or never starts at all. It is deplorable that so important a phase of student life should be neglected. Carelessness in this respect leads, to carelessness in the students whole moral life.

Do not arrest your development at the beginning of your course. Make some effort at least to overcome the tendencies spoken of and you will never regret it and by the time you can appreciate the results you will be surprised at the contrast.

President Brown, of Lehigh University, said in his opening address last week: "It is fitting and becoming and according to all good college traditions that Freshmen should be modest and not think themselves more highly than they ought to think—and particularly not to show that they do." Coming from so high an authority as President Brown, such advice cannot well be passed by. Though we have seen very little of what Dr. Brown speaks of in Bucknell except in a few cases, a word in passing might not be amiss.

No college organization is more worthy of support than the literary societies. No man's training is complete without the ability to speak in public. Training in this respect cannot be secured anywhere in college as the literary societies. The cost is merely nominal while the benefits derived from active work in this line are incalculable. They have certainly not received the support they deserve in the past, but let us hope for better things in the future.

The work for the year promises to be very interesting and instructive. Every effort will be made to make it a decided success.

BUCKNELL UNIVERSITY.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1900. No. 3

Cornell 6, Bucknell 0.

On Saturday afternoon Cornell and Bucknell struggled for supremacy on Percy Field, Ithaca, before a large and enthusiastic crowd of spectators. All who witnessed the contest were treated to a battle royal from start to finish. Cornell expected a very hard game and their expectations were more than realized.

With the exception of Starbuck, their captain, Cornell had on the field the strongest team available from her sixty or more candidates. Their team averaged about fifteen pounds heavier than Bucknell. With all this against them, the Bucknell boys deserve the greatest credit for the wonderful game they put up.

"Big John" distinguished himself, first by having his jersey torn off, leaving him bare from neck to waist, which brought a howl of laughter from the throng of spectators, and then afterwards by charging through the line and stopping the man before he could advance the ball an inch.

Another feature was Matthewson's punting. On nearly all of his kicks the ball went far over the head of Cornell's full-back. Christy was considered a wonder. The ends also deserve special mention for the manner in which they went down the field under these long kicks of Matthewson.

The game was called at 3 P. M. Matthewson kicked off and the ball was fumbled by Cornell on her 45 yard line. During this entire half Bucknell kept the ball in Cornell's territory. Cornell secured the ball only two or three times during this half and then only to relinquish it to Bucknell again, who carried it down the field, gaining from three to seven yards on each rush, until they reached the seven yard line, where they fumbled. Cornell returned the ball to her 40 yard line when time was up, neither side scoring.

During the second half Bucknell did not seem to put up the game she played the first half. Matthewson and Coffin exchanged kicks in which Matthewson gained about 20 yards. Cornell finally secured the ball and just before the close of the half carried the ball over for a touchdown. Our boys speak very highly of the royal treatment they received while at Ithaca.

C. E. Social.

The annual social given by the Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavor of the Baptist church was given last Saturday evening in the chapel of that church. This is usually a very pleasant occassion and this year it did not fall short of the regular standard. From 7.30 to 10 o'clock the company spent an enjoyable time together. Many of the students from the College, Academy and Institute were present, as well as the friends and workers of the society from the town. Everyone present seemed to have a pleasant time. The first part of the evening was spent in collecting autographs, by which means those present were made acquainted.

A prize was given to the person collecting the most and was won by Miss Josephine Lawshe. The prize was a very appetizing cake. About 9 o'clock the company was requsted to be seated and were then entertained by the College Girls' Mandolin and Guitar Club in a very acceptable manner. Miss Edith Schillinger, who has taken up the instruction in elocution at the Institute, was present and gave several humorous recitations. Those present will be glad to hear her again at the first opportunity.

The last part of the evening was given over to the committee in charge and no one will complain of the way they were treated at this time. The committee had provided ice-cream and cake which were freely distributed to all present. After this part of the evening's pleasure had been enjoyed as much as possible the company dispersed. Such an occasion as this near the beginning of the year gives an excellent opportunity for the new students to become acquainted with the old students and with our town friends.

PRES. HARPER, of Chicago, Univ., has issued an order that all students who are working their way through that institution, shall wear a uniform and badge as a sort of mark of servitude. This order is very offensive to the finer sensibilities of people who believe that brain and ambition are the chief and indispensible requisites to those who seek to get an education in our colleges and universities. Such a mark of servitude is degrading in its purpose and would tend to give unpleasant conspicuousness to those students who are unable to meet the expenses of a college education without working while they are in college. It is contrary to the American spirit of independence and if generally applied would drive some of the best talent out of our institutions of learning. It is to the credit of the students of the University of Chicago that they are up in arms against President Harper's order, without regard to financial or social condition, and are trying their best to have the order rescinded. We earnestly wish them success in their efforts, and prove to President Harper the seriousness of his mistake.

THE foot ball management earnestly desires all students who possibly can, to accompany the team to Lehigh next Saturday. A large number have already expressed their intention of going, and if a sufficient number will go, a special car will be chartered. It is needless to speak of the encouragement this would give the team, as everybody knows what it means to a team to have a crowd of rooters on the side lines. Bucknell is playing fast, snappy ball, as Saturday's score testifies. and is sure to win. No student will regret it if he goes. It is requested that all who intend going hand their names to R. G Pierson, asst. foot ball manager, at once so as to expedite matters.

While we are speaking of football it would be well to remember that it is less than four weeks until the State game. Great preparations are being made for this the greatest of all games and already the prospects are very eagerly discussed among the students. All of our football songs have been used for four or five years and are not of the best at that. Nothing can raise so much enthusiasm at a mass meeting or at a game as a good spirited song. There is certainly enough literary ability in the college to write some new songs that can be sung to some familiar spirited air. Let everybody who can, try his hand at it and the best will be printed and distributed before the game. There is a movement on foot to have the band at the game again this year and they ought to have some time to learn the tunes to the new songs so that they can accompany the singing.

AS HAS been the custom the subscription list for the maintenance of foot ball, will soon make its appearance. The money raised by this means will go toward defraying the expenses of maintaining Coach Hoskins in his official capacity.

The invaluable work of Mr. Hoskins needs no comment, as Saturday's team work shows, and we earnestly urge that you be as liberal as circumstances will allow.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1900. No. 4

Lehigh 12, Bucknell 6.

On Saturday Bucknell and Lehigh played their annual game of football. Lehigh had the great advantage of having the game played on their own grounds and thus winning the first victory over Bucknell in the last four years. Lehigh, instead of playing a clean game of football as is characteristic of Bucknell, was determined to win their laurels by resorting to a slugging match. Gearhart, Lehigh's captain, led the fray by assaulting Stanton and thus bringing the contest to what seemed to be a free-for-all fight.

Bucknell was greatly weakened by having some of her players on the hospital list. Both Matthewson and Teufel were out of the game. On this account a number of changes in the line up were necessary. Doolin took Barrett's place at end, while the latter took half back. Catterall played fullback and Prichard was shifted over to quarter back. These changes put a number of the players out of their regular positions and thus weakened the team. Capt. Stanton was also greatly handicapped in his work during the latter part of the game on account of a badly sprained ankle. It was certainly a great game and no one was able to pick the winning team until time was called ending the game with Lehigh six points ahead of Bucknell. It was during these last few seconds of the game that Lehigh got the touchdown that won the game. The first half in all respects was Bucknell's half and all the work was done in Lehigh's territory. Lehigh did all her scoring during the second half, which seems to be Bucknell's fatal half.

When the Bucknell players appeared on the field they were given a rousing cheer from the three hundred or more of Lehigh enthusiasts, showing the good feeling and respect of the crowd towards our team.

The game was called at 3.30 P. M. Bucknell kicked off. After a few rushes Bucknell got the ball on downs and rushed it to within one yard of the goal line and fumbled, Lehigh securing the ball. Lehigh in return fumbled, and Sweet secured the pigskin for Bucknell. Bucknell then rushed the ball for two downs sending Stanton over for a touchdown. Catterall kicked out to Stanton and Prichard kicked a beautiful goal. Lehigh kicked off to Frendenberger. After a few unsuccessful rushes Catterall kicked for 25 yards. Lehigh now began to rush the ball, gaining from 1 to 8 yards until they reached Bucknell's 2 yard line where Bucknell held them like a stone wall and secured the ball on downs. Catterall kicked and Lehigh fumbled the ball which was secured by Sweet for Bucknell. Bucknell now began a series of rushes, gaining from 1½ to 10 yards on each down. At this time of the contest Stanton badly sprained his ankle. A few more rushes were made by Bucknell and Lehigh secured the ball on downs, but before Lehigh could gain anything, time was up for the first half. Score Bucknell 6, Lehigh 0.

The second half was played in a drizzling rain. Lehigh kicked off. On the second rush Gillus lost the ball. Lehigh now began to advance the ball toward Bucknell's goal line gaining from 1½ to 8 yards on each rush until they reached the 20 yard line where they were held on downs. Catterall then kicked 30 yards. Lehigh's captain then resorted to a hair-pulling match, which almost cost a free fight. Lehigh then kicked and the ball was blocked, losing 25 yards. Bucknell then got the ball on her 30 yard line. Bucknell gained about 20 yards and lost the ball on a fumble. Lehigh now by several double passes and plunges carried the ball to Bucknell's 4 yard line and then sent McCormick over for a touchdown. Gearhart kicked the goal.

Bucknell kicked off and Lehigh by a series of rushes and double passes carried the ball to Bucknell's 2 yard line. Farabaugh was then pushed over for a touchdown just as time was up. Gearhart kicked the goal. Score Lehigh 12, Bucknell 6. All through the contest Catterall outpunted McCormick, Lehigh's star punter.

Dr. Perrine's Lecture.

Last Thursday evening Dr. Perrine delivered a lecture before the Shakespeare Club. The professor gave an outline of Shakespeare's works, classified as drama, tragedy and history. First, the names and derivations were taken up and explained in a very pleasing and instructive manner. Then the works, as classified with respect to the divisions of the author's life, were discussed. The earlier plays are full of life and action: the heroes are all young men: as he advances in years his plans change: the plots are more intricate and the characters deal more with older men, thus showing that the feelings and sympathies of Shakespeare were in accord with the time of life in which he wrote.

The Doctor advised the Club to read Othello as the first selection first, because it appeals to the sympathetic nature of young people, and second, because the character Iago is perhaps the arch villain of all characters in literature. Then again Othello is a play of action not of reflection, and is comparatively easy reading.

Laurelton, 5. B. U. Reserves, 0.

The Laurelton football team defeated the Bucknell Reserves on the former's ground on Saturday afternoon by the score of 5—0.

The Laurelton boys can not claim any special distinction from the score, however, because our players were decidedly at a disadvantage on account of weight and the roughness of the gridiron.

Captain Smith took the team over in a hack and saw that they were provided for while away.

The boys report good treatment and with equal environments would easily have won the game. The score stood blank until almost the end of the second half when the home team carried the pig skin over the goal line for a touchdown.

The real cause of defeat was the fact that Burns, a former Dickinson star, played at full back. His daring leaps over and through the line were impossible to stop and by continual plunges of this athlete Laurelton managed, two seconds before time was called in the second half, to score a touchdown, the kick for goal being a failure.

The line up follows:

B. U. Reserves.	Positions.	Laurelton.
Watson	right end	G. Pursley
Snow	right tackle	H. Pursley
Heidenreich	right guard	Braucher
Thompson	centre	Hoffman

A good turn out was the predominating feature of the first band practice held in the Laboratory last Thursday evening.

Department of Mathematics.

Beginning with the current year the Department of Mathematics at Bucknell offers nineteen courses of study.

These are: 1, Solid Geometry; 2, College Algebra; 3, Higher Algebra, (Honor); 4, Trigonometry; 5, Descriptive Geometry; 6, Analytic Geometry; 7, Linear Perspective (Lectures); 8, Mechanical Drawing, (Honor); 9, Differential Calculus; 10, Integral Calculus; 11, Higher Analytics; 12, Determinants; 13, Quaternions; 14, Surveying; 15, Civil Engineering; 16, City Surveying; 17, Descriptive Astronomy (Lectures); 18, General Astronomy; 19, Practical Astronomy.

To these should be added the courses in Mechanics, to give a complete view of what Bucknell is doing in the line of Mathematics.

An examination of the catalogues of more than a hundred of the leading colleges, discloses the fact, that at Bucknell there are offered more courses than in nine-tenths of the Colleges, and only three or four colleges are offering more.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The first regular meeting of the Chemical and Physical Society for the college year will be held in the lecture room of the Laboratory on Thursday evening at 4 o'clock. Prof. W. G. Owens will discuss the subject of Sulphuric Acid. New officers for the year will also be elected and any new propositions for membership will be entertained.

All those interested in science or scientific topics should identify themselves with this important organization. Every one is cordially invited to be present.

L'Agenda Notice.

Yeneer Weidensaul, manager of 1902 L'Agenda, will wait upon you in the near future for your subscription to this year's Annual. Last year our subscription was second largest in the State of Pennsylvania and there is no reason why we cannot claim the same distinction again this year. Please be ready for him when he calls upon you.

Academy.

Thayer was the guest of Prout over Sunday at the former's home in Wiconisco.

Clyde Heddens, who was enrolled at the 'Cad last year, is teaching school near his home.

Mr. Zimmerman spent Sunday at his home in Shamokin. He was accompanied by Mr. Bittenbender.

The Caleopean Literary Society was re-organized last Friday evening when the following officers were elected: President, J. Coverdale; Vice President, Harry Monroe; Secretary, W. Walsh; Treasurer, B. Barton.

The Literary Society meetings were well attended on Friday evening. Interesting programs were rendered. Theta Alpha discussed the Philippine question and developed a lively debate on this much discussed question. Enepia discussed the immigration question in a very able manner bringing out many good points.

Dr. Aviragnet is organizing a Mandolin and Guitar Club among the men of the College in the same energetic manner as he organized the College Girls' Mandolin and Guitar Club last year. Bucknell has been somewhat weak in musical lines in the past, but there is no reason why she should be in the future. There is enough talent and ability in the College but the fault seems to lie in a general lack of interest along these lines. Dr. Aviragnet has offered to furnish instruction to anybody who wishes it, and all the music free of charge, and also to lead the club. What stronger inducements could be offered? All he asks is a little work and sacrifice on the part of the members. The club has been organized, though somewhat imperfectly on account of the small number who came out, and the time is announced for the first practice in another column. Let everybody who has an instrument come out and try to make the club a success.

It is somewhat disappointing to note the indifference with which the announcement of the Senior and Junior debates was greeted by the upper classmen. Outside of the Literary Societies there is no opportunity for a Senior to get any training in public debate and oratory. This is especially true since the intercollegiate debates were discontinued. We do not know why the annual debates with Franklin and Marshall and other colleges were dropped last year, nor do we wish to discuss that matter here, but it is true nevertheless that no opportunity was given a Senior to appear as a public speaker before commencement. President Harris is trying to create an interest in debate and has offered strong enough inducements to make it worth the while of any upperclassman, aside from the training that is to be secured from it both in public speaking and reasoning power. Let everybody who has any ambition in this line, put forth his best effort to secure a place on the final debates in the Spring Term.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1900. No. 5

D. C. & A. C., 29. Bucknell, 0.

On Saturday Bucknell lined up against Duquesne Country and Athletic Club for their annual football contest in Exposition Park, Pittsburg. The D. C. & A. C.,—all stars—completely outweighed and in many respects outplayed our collegians. Capt. Stanton, who is still nursing a sprained ankle, was unable to accompany the team and the boys were under the captaincy of Catterall. With many odds against them the wearers of the orange and blue put up a most worthy game against the heavy boys of the red and black. Bucknell was the first to appear upon the gridiron and they were given a rousing reception by the 2000 spectators.

The day was an ideal one with the exception of being a little warm for football. Duquesne insisted on 30-minute halves and by means of her weight was able to run up the score at the latter part of the game when our boys became fatigued. It took Duquesne sixteen minutes before she were able to rush the ball over Bucknell's chalk-line for the first tally.

Matthewson's punting was a feature. He outkicked Bird in every respect. Sweet distinguished himself greatly by his all round work, which proved to be a feature of the game.

Capt. Jackson won the toss for Duquesne and chose to defend the east goal. Matthewson kicked off to Jackson, who carried the ball back for about 40 yards before he was downed. Duquesne, by a series of rushes, carried it 28 yards further into Bucknell's territory when they fumbled and Barrett fell on the ball for Bucknell. Barrett then gained 12 yards. Bucknell was then held and forced to kick. Matthewson punted 50 yards to Bird. After several rushes Duquesne fumbled and Sweet fell on the ball. After a few unsuccessful attempts to advance, Matthewson kicked out of bounds on Duquesne's 33-yard line. After one rush Bird punted 40 yards and Matthewson returned the kick to Duquesne's 30-yard line. Bird carried the ball back 15 yards before he was downed. Jackson failed to gain and Bird punted 40 yards to Matthewson, who carried it back 20 yards. Bucknell kicked to Pratt. Duquesne by a series of rushes, advanced the ball to Bucknell's 15-yard line. Rayl, the giant tackle of Duquesne, was then shoved 15 yards for a touchdown with the entire team on his back.

Score, D. C. & A. C., 6. B. U., 0.

Thus far through the contest our boys played a great and fast game and were stopping Duquesne's many and fierce rushes in a praise-worthy manner.

When play was resumed, Matthewson dribbled 14 yards, Hedges securing the pigskin. Bird punted to Matthewson, who made a great 30-yard run. After 2 downs "Christy" kicked to Duquesne's 25-yard line. The pigskin, in a series of rushes and punts, was carried to and fro and was finally landed on Bucknell's 25-yard line. Schoch then got 7 yards and Bird made a fine run around left end, gaining 18 yards, with a touchdown at the end of it. He also kicked the goal.

Score, D. C. & A. C., 12. B. U., 0.

Matthewson again kicked off, and after a number of rushes and kicks time was called with the ball on Bucknell's 47-yard line.

During the latter part of this half, Teufel was slightly hurt and forced to retire. Prichard took his place at quarter and Doolin took Prichard's place at right half.

Pratt kicked off in the second half. Catterall carried the ball back 15 yards Matthewson kicked to Duquesne's 40 yard line and by a number of rushes the ball was advanced to Bucknell's 25-yard line and secured by B. U. "Christy" kicked and Freudenberger secured the ball and carried it to Duquesne's 30-yard line. Matthewson missed field-goal by one foot. Several other attempts at field-goals were futile. Both Matthewson and Sweet were forced to retire during this half on account of injuries. Duquesne finally managed to secure 17 more points by hard rushes ending the game with the score of 29 to 0 in their favor. Our ends made beautiful runs on "Christy's" long punts and the boys won great admiration by their many fast plays.

Berwick, 17. B. U. Reserves, 0.

The Reserves were defeated at Berwick Saturday by the strong Y. M. C. A. team of that lively town.

The Reserves held the rushes very well. Berwick secured the ball on Bucknell's 3-yard line and held their opponents for two downs without gain but on account of holding on the part of the Reserves, Berwick was given one-half the distance as penalty. On the next rush a touchdown was made. Two more touchdowns were made in the first half, making the score 17 to 0 in Berwick's favor at the close of the first half.

The second half opened very lively, the Reserves being the aggressors. Gain after gain was made, but unfortunately time was called before the Reserves made a touchdown which appeared to be in sight.

(Lack of space forbids the line-up.)

The appeal for new football songs to be used at the State game, made in these columns several weeks ago has, as far as we know, fallen flat. Nobody seems to take enough interest in the matter to deem it worth the effort. The necessity is so great that the football management has offered a prize of a free trip to Williamsport including a ticket to the game to the one writing the best song. A second prize of a year's subscription to the ORANGE AND BLUE has been offered by the manager. All manuscript must be handed to the editor-in-chief by the end of this week and the board of editors will act as judges. The best songs will be printed on a song sheet to be used at the mass meetings next week and also at the game. The songs must be written to some familiar and stirring tune so as to raise all the enthusiasm possible.

The team has a hard task before them and needs all the encouragement the student body can give it. Let every man on the team know that you are interested in their success and that you appreciate their efforts. Remember that they are working for the school, and that means for you. Probably a football man works harder for the college with less reward than any man here. Frequently the complaint is heard that their efforts are not appreciated, and they have every reason to think so as very few show it. You may say you do not believe in petting a man and carrying him around on your hands just because he plays on the football team. Neither do we, but we do believe in rewarding everybody as they deserve and that is the only way you can show your appreciation. Come out on the side lines, not on the field, to the daily practice games and cheer their efforts, and don't deride them when the "scrubs" gain on them. Of course they need encouragement too for their thankless task, but try to do that in another way.

Do the best you can by the team and they will reward you with their strongest effort, which means to defeat State. We earnestly hope that the prizes offered for songs will arouse the desired interest in the matter and that our editor will be flooded with manuscript. Although the time may be very short, it is sufficient if you concentrate your efforts. The contest is open to everybody, therefore let everybody compete.

The Bucknell Dramatic Club has again started rehearsal for a play to be given in the near future. May they be successful in their new undertaking as they have been in the past. It is practically a new organization and is worthy of encouragement.

A large number of college and seminary students attended the social given in the Presbyterian Church on Saturday evening.

Why not begin to stir up some enthusiasm for the State game? It would not be too early to place a copy of the football songs in the hands of each new student.

The College Bible Classes had their regular meetings last Monday evening. Rev. Judd has charge of the Senior and Junior Classes; Ulmer, '02, of the Sophomore Class, and Johnson, '01, of the Freshman Class.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1900. No. 6

Bucknell, 39. W. W. C., 0.

On Saturday afternoon the Bucknell football team defeated the Williamsport Wheel Club, 39 to 0. The game was virtually a practice game for Bucknell and served to point out her defects prior to Saturday's great contest at Williamsport. Both Bucknell's defensive and offensive work was good. The principle defect on the part of Bucknell was her fumbling which has to be eradicated this week. In spite of this it was pleasing to see the manner in which the B. U. boys smashed up the formations of the Williamsporters and also their aggressiveness when on the offense. Not once during the entire game was Bucknell held for downs, and only on a few occasions was Williamsport able to gain a first down. Matthewson's punting and the manner in which the ends went down the field under these long kicks were features of the game.

The reason that the score wasn't higher was because most of the regular players were taken out of the game at the end of the first half.

It was fully 2.30 p. m. when the wearers of the red and white appeared upon the field amidst the applause of hundreds of Bucknell rooters. Bucknell kicked off and secured the ball on a fumble and the next rush Barrett went over for a touchdown. Catterall kicked the goal.

Williamsport kicked off and "Christy" returned the kick. After a few fumbles and scrimmages, and before the Wheelmen could collect themselves from the effects of the first touchdown Barrett again went over the chalk-line for the second tally. Catterall again kicked the goal.

After several long kicks on which Matthewson put his team on side and secured the ball an attempt for a field goal failed on account of a bad pass.

A few more rushes were made and Gates was pushed over for a third touchdown and Catterall kicked another goal.

In a few more minutes of playing Doolin and Matthewson had added ten more points to the score. Both goals were missed. This ended the scoring for the first half.

The second half opened with only a few of Bucknell's regular players in the game. For several minutes the ball changed hands on fumbles and kicks when finally Taylor crossed the goal line for a touchdown. Prichard missed the goal. This half was especially noted for fumbles. Bucknell at last secured the ball and Doolin carried it over for the seventh and last touchdown. Prichard kicked the goal, making the final score: B. U., 39, Williamsport, 0.

Visit to Dale's Cave.

The greater part of Dr. Groff's geology class visited Dale's cave on Saturday morning. The party drove out in Weidensaul's coach as the walk is rather long.

The party, including several ladies, went through the chambers and tortuous windings of the cave eagerly looking for any specimens that might be found. The progress was comparatively easy in many places while at others the descent was abrupt and ropes were necessary. The cave is very beautiful and is well worth the trouble of going through it. The experince was rather novel to the ladies but they enjoyed it very much. All returned much pleased with the trip although literally covered with mud. A kindhearted farmer supplied the party with sweet and appetizing apples while on the way home.

Seminary at Home from 4 to 6 next Monday afternoon.—All friends cordially invited.

Mass Meeting.

The success of an athletic team depends greatly upon the loyalty and encouragement of its supporters. The loyalty of the Bucknell students towards the football eleven was demonstrated on Thursday evening when they met in a very enthusiastic mass meeting in O A Hall. A complete and thorough organization for encouraging the team at Williamsport next Saturday was affected. Prof. Fisk, who so ably led the student-body during last year's contest, presided at the meeting and was re-elected Chief Marshal. The following were selected as class marshals: Senior, A. M. Smith; Junior, John Davis; Sophomore, W. H. Senn; Freshman, Chas. Shepard; Preps., J. J. Owens. Coach Hoskins addressed the meeting, dwelling on the duties of each student during this week. Mr. Hyatt, '91, who is well versed on Bucknell athletics during the past fifteen years, gave a very able and encouraging talk on football progress at Bucknell. Cheer after cheer was given for the warriors who lowered State's colors last year and let this be kept up at Williamsport next Saturday. Remember to-morrow's mass meeting, and also that it is your duty to stay with your marshal at Williamsport and drown out State's rooting.

Lectures by Dr. Moss.

Dr. Moss delivered the first of his lectures before the Literary societies of the University in Bucknell Hall on Friday evening. President Riley, of Euepia, in a few well chosen words, introduced the speaker who really needed no introduction to Bucknell students. Miss Halfpenny, President of Zeta and Trax, President of Theta Alpha occupied seats on the platform. The subject of the lecture was "The Square Man." The figure is not a new one, but was used by Plato and Aristotle and is also found in the old Testament writings. The geometric figure, the quadrilateral, represents the square man and the sides of the figure represent essential qualities of the square man. The first quality is simplicity of character which consists in transparency, directness, honesty and sublimeness of character. This is a quality which characterizes the greatest men. Among the strong examples are the Duke of Wellington and Julius Caesar. The second quality is veracity or truthfulness. To observe strict veracity may be considered easy but in fact it is very difficult. Elocquence and truthfulness are not well adapted to each other. Truth being or truth living is the important thing. Truth, according to the Greek, is that which reveals itself clearly so as not to be misleading.

The third quality is reverence or respect for the reality of things. Fear is not reverence. Cowardice is often mistaken for reverence. Reverence brings consciousness of responsibility. Moses was reverent. Lincoln is the best modern example of reverence.

Courtesy forms the fourth side of the quadrilateral. Courtesy is genuine thoughtfulness concerning others. The Apostle Paul is the great example of courtesy.

On Saturday evening Dr. Moss delivered his second lecture in Bucknell Hall, choosing for his subject "Abraham Lincoln." Having been personally acquainted with Mr. Lincoln, Dr. Moss is an exceedingly interesting lecturer on the life of the great statesman, consequently the audience enjoyed a rare treat.

The speaker first made a comparison between Lincoln and Gladstone. Lincoln's youth was passed in most unfavorable conditions, amidst poverty and hardship, with few advantages for gaining an education. Gladstone, on the other hand, grew up surrounded by circumstances nearly opposite. Lincoln's political life and career as a statesman may be said to have been embraced in the ten years just preceeding his death. Gladstone's political career did not begin until after Lincoln's death.

Lincoln is everywhere known as a great story-teller. However, he never told a story for the sake of the story itself but rather to illustrate some point forcibly or to serve some other useful purpose. It was one of the methods he had of giving deliverance to his pent-up feelings and lightening the heavy burden that was on his heart, especially during the latter part of his life. This burden was indeed hard to bear. For instance, it is hard to conceive what a hard strain was upon him from the time of his election until his inauguration. While the government was in the hands of those who were in full sympathy with the South, Lincoln had to remain quiet for four months after his election and watch the onward drift of what he felt sure would lead to open rebellion.

Mr. Lincoln was a deeply religious man. He continually looked to higher power for guidance in his arduous task. Men have slandered him, and probably some may continue to heap abuse upon his name, but, as time goes on, the greatness of the man will be seen more and more, and his acts justified.

Dr. Moss delivered the third of his series of lectures at 8:15 yesterday morning. Prior to this lecture, Dr. Harris announced that an honor would be given in these lectures, the honor to consist of a complete analysis of lectures, the reading and analysis of Thompson's "The Divine Order of Human Society" and a thesis on some subject to be chosen later. Mr. Moss chose as his subject "The Christian Doctrine of the Destiny of Man as effected through Social Institutions." Aristotle made us familiar with the subject of causes. There are four kinds and they are illustrated by the building of a house.

(1.) The material cause as represented by the material for the house.

(2.) The formal cause as represented by the plan of the architect.

(3.) The efficient cause as represented by the builder or director.

(4.) The final cause as represented by the occupier of the house.

The destiny of man or his final cause is that he may know God. Character is the embodiment of many elements and finds satisfaction in the knowledge of God. The essence of eternal life is knowledge and this end must be wrought out through society.

After giving several very pretty illustrations, Dr. Moss quoted from Fisk as follows: "The doctrine of evolution shows how the creation and perfecting of man is the goal toward which nature's work has been tending from the first." Also "Man, human life, is the chief object of devotional care, the consummate fruition of that creative energy which is manifested throughout the knowable universe."

He also read from Schale's "Study of Life and Death" and closed with the statement that man is of the genus "God."

At 11.15 yesterday, Dr. Moss continued his lecture on the destiny of man. Space forbids us giving lectures further space this week. In our next issue they will be concluded.

The rooting at Saturday's game was the best and most united that we have heard at any game on the campus durthe last three years. Why can we not have the same at all games?

The Sophomore and Freshman classes are practicing daily for an interclass football game which will be played in the near future. Both classes hope to win, so a good game is looked for.

Rev. Joseph Wood, Bucknell, '94 and Crozer Theological Seminary, '97, visited his Phi Kappa Psi brothers on Friday. He is at present serving a congregation in Philadelphia.

We are pleased to have Dr. Lemuel Moss with us again. Dr. Moss has gained a well deserved popularity among our student body. The large crowds in attendance at his lectures are the best testimonial of the high esteem in which he is held by both town and gown. It is the earnest wish that Dr. Moss may be with us often.

In less than a week the State game will be a thing of the past. Will we win? Whether this question is answered in the affirmative or not depends to a greater or less extent upon every man in the college. Of course the first requisites are a good team and a first-class coach. We are fortunate in having these, but this is not all. We need the support and enthusiastic encouragement of every one. The team might win without this aid, but with it they are almost certain to triumph over the Centre county boys.

To-morrow night we have our second mass meeting. The first one was the best held at Bucknell for a long time. Let us make the second one a record breaker. Turn out to practice, but remember to keep on the side lines. Everybody go to the game, you will regret it a thousand times if you do not. Don't let the "farmers" cheer you down. Keep together, watch your marshals, and then "whoop her up for Bucknell." If these directions are followed victory is assured.

Just a word of caution before leaving this subject. There are members of the team rooming in almost every hall of both dormitory buildings. For their good let us keep our enthusiasm for the mass meetings, and for the game, and at an early hour each night see that quiet reigns in the halls. The players must have rest, but this is impossible if the noise continues until a late hour, or rather until an early hour, as was the case after the last mass meeting.

As Others See Us.

Extract of letter received by manager S. C. Smith from Carl C. Law in reference to Duquesne game.

"I want to congratulate you on the showing of the team and the favorable impression made on the Pgh. people. You don't hear the inquiries now as to wohere Bucknell is from. She is making a reputation for herself. I heard a very complimentary remark from the Grand Stand in reference to one of the players when some one asked the question as to "what was the matter with him." The response came quickly. "We will have you here on Duquesne next year." I wish I could be on hand for the State game."

A friend of Bucknell and a graduate of a sister college has written to a friend here concerning the Duquesne game in which he speaks of Bucknell's part in the game as follows;

"The way your centre man went through the Duquesne's centre called forth all sorts of favorable comment along the side lines. Bucknell put up an excellent game, considering the odds against them, and there was no disgrace in the defeat, I assure you, for the Duquesne team is much heavier, and its members resorted to a style of play that reflects no credit upon them, and there were a number of cases where they should have been penelized when they were not. I congratulate Bucknell on the team they have."

B. U. Prohibition League.

D. Leigh Colvin, president of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, delivered an able address in Bucknell Hall last Thursday night in the presence of a number of students.

The object of this Association is to awaken an interest and impress the importance of the Prohibition Question upon the young men of America, and to r ga nize a Prohibition Society in every institution of learning.

After Mr. Colvin's forcible address on the Evils of the Liquor Traffic the Bucknell Prohibition Society was organized with the following men as officers:—President, E. H. Myers; Vice-President, W. E. Ruch; Secretary, R. F. Bresnahan; Treasurer, M. F. Forbell.

At the meetings of the local organization speeches will be made by different members on the Prohibition question.

A number of books and papers will be secured by the Society for the purpose of bringing this question more prominently before the student body.

STATE GLOATS OVER BUCKNELL'S VICTORY.

Actual Score Bucknell, 12, State, 5.

Referees Decision—State, 6, Bucknell, 0.

Pennsylvania State College left Athletic Park, Williamsport, last Saturday gloating over a victory which was theirs by an unfair decision, but which was Bucknell's when considered from the standpoint of justice, fairness and proness.

For years the chief gridiron attraction of Central Pennsylvania has been the annual football game between Bucknell University and State College. This year, hundreds of football enthusiasts within a radius of fifty miles of Williamsport were anxiously awaiting for November 3. The Merchant's Association of Williamsport, the various railroads entering it and the two rival colleges had everything arranged to make this year's meet surpass all previous ones as far as crowd and enthusiasm, etc., were concerned. The two teams seemed to be about evenly matched in strength, vim and dash.

Several days prior to the game full back, Matthewson was protested. State did "work" University of Pennsylvania but she did not entrap the royal supporters of the ORANGE AND BLUE.

Recognizing our position as final and seeing their weakness State imported one of their graduates from Medico-Chi. for this game, who did not play however.

As things now stand all athletic relations between Bucknell and State College are at a close. In the eyes of P. S. C., Bucknell may appear "easy" but she vindicated herself from any such presumptions on Saturday last.

Now for the data:

The State team with its trainers and coach arrived in Williamsport in the morning and quartered at the Park hotel. The Bucknell eleven came in on the Reading at 10 a. m. and registered at the Updegraff. The Beech Creek and Reading specials, which came in at a later hour, each brought hundreds of enthusiastic rooters.

By 1 o'clock people were swarming into the park enclosure, and by 2:30 the usual crowd seemed to be present, with a constant stream still coming.

Bucknell's strong team, accompanied by Coach Hoskins, came on the field at 2.15 and received a vociferous welcome at the hands of her supporters, who were lined up on the west side of the gridiron.

State's team did not appear until 2.45 when their rooting began.

It was 3:05 when Martin, left half for State, put the ball in the center of the field and with a long drive kicked it off to Gillis on the 10-yard line. The Bucknell guard hesitated not a moment, but passed the ball swiftly to Matthewson, and with a punt that sent the pigskin 10-yards past midfield the Bucknell players were down the field. It was State's ball on her 45-yard line.

Scholl essayed to go through B. U's. forwards, but could not even dent the line. The ball went back for a loss of four yards, and was fumbled, Bucknell gaining possession in midfield. Barrett plunged through right tackle for a gain of five yards, and Matthewson was hurled in the line for a 1½ yard gain. Stanton made another first down about right end. Taylor fumbled, and it was State's ball on her 25-yard line.

Scholl skirted left end for three yards, and the same player made the required distance for the first down by a plunge through center. Taylor broke through State's forwards on the next play and threw Ruble for a loss. By a double pass Martin hustled around left end and secured a gain of 15-yards. Bennett fumbled the ball after plunging five yards, and Fruedenberger fell on it. It was Bucknell's ball on State's 45-yard line.

Stanton skirted right end for 15 yards. Barrett, on the next play, made a sensational run of 32-yards around State's right wing and, with every man on Bucknell team aiding in the interference, rushed over the goal line for the first touchdown. Catterall kicked goal. Bucknell 6, State 0.

Martin drove the ball to the 15-yard line. The sphere was run back 10-yards and then given to Matthewson, who punted 45 yards. Scholl and Martin were unable to make any impression on Bucknell's line, and in attempting to punt Martin made a bad kick. Taylor got the ball with but a 5-yard gain for State. Stanton made no gain in successive plunges on State's line, and it was State's ball on her 20 yard line.

Scholl pushed his head through left tackle for 3 yards, and Cummings aided matters materially with a 10-yard plunge through center. Scholl secured another first down on a 5-yard gain, but Martin was thrown for a loss on account of the tackling propensities of Prichard. State could not gain, and the ball was Bucknell's on downs.

Barrett immediately skirted Bennett's end for 20 yards. Martin brought him to earth on State's 20-yard line. Prichard then worked a quarterback kick which netted 10 yards, but Gillis touched the ball and it was brought back and given to State.

Cummings was given the leather and he squirmed through center for a 25-yard run.

But was finally brougt down by the fleet-footed Sweet, who grabbed his sweater in one desperate plunge. Martin and Scholl failed to advance the leather, and a quarterback kick, which Hewitt attempted, was blocked by Matthewson.

It was Bucknell's ball on her 45-yard line.

Matthewson punted 35 yards, and Ruble was buried in the grass before he could start. Ruble lost 5 yards on the next play, but Scholl was pushed through center for 6. State could not advance and Martin punted. Matthewson returned the ball to State's 5-yard line by a strong punt, and Hewitt, who attempted to catch the pigskin, fumbled. Freudenberger grabbed it and went over the line for the second touchdown. The goal was kicked and the score stood Bucknell 12, State 0.

Matthewson returned Martin's punt for a big gain. Guardsback plays netted State 15 yards, but the ball was fumbled. Time was called just as Matthewson had punted to State's 30-yard line.

SECOND HALF

Pritchard began operations in the second half by a kick to State's 20-yard line. Hewitt got back five yards and Scholl added another first down on a gain of six yards through left tackle. Guardsback was now State's play Scholl, Cummings, and Martin made gains of 10, 3 and 5 yards respectively. Masses on tackle resulted in gains of from three to seven yards at a time. The ball was carried to Bucknell's five-yard line, where interference lost the ball for State, and Gillis fell on the ovai. Matthewson punted out of danger.

Sweet was hurt and Wilcox took his place at center.

The ball was State's in midfield. Martin Made 15 yards around left end, and for off-side play, Bucknell was penalized 10 more. In a series of plays State advanced the ball 20 yards when Scholl took the pig skin over for State's first and only earned touch down. The trial at an easy goal failed Score, Bucknell 12, State, 5. Scholl caught Prichard's kick-off and returned six yards. Martin went around left end for 15 yards and carried the ball out of bounds. It was at this point that State worked the trick that caused the dispute. State kicked the ball while time was out being downed on Bucknell's 10 yard line.

The Bucknell players would not return to the game on the strength of the referee's partial decision but walked from the field choosing to forfeit the game rather than to submit to unfairness of her chronic kicking rivals. The referee had to be escorted from the field by police. When the game closed fourteen minutes of the second half had elapsed and eleven minutes were left to play.

F. Miller	Left Tackle	Gates

Trustee James Buchanan Dead.

Judge Buchanan, who died on Oct. 31, at his home in Trenton, N. J., was born at Ringoes, N. J., June 17, 1839, and received his early education in the schools of his native town. He began the study of law in the office of ex-Vice Chancellor John T. Bird, and in 1864 was graduated from the Albany Law School, being admitted to the bar of New Jersey the same year. He was made reading clerk in the New Jersey Assembly in 1866. In 1868 he was elected a member of the Trenton School Board, serving for two years. Judge Buchanan was a member of the Republican national convention which renominated President Grant in 1872. In 1874 he was appointed law judge of Mercer county, succeeding Judge now Vice Chancellor, Reed. Judge Buchanan was a member of Trenton Council in 1883 and 1884, and in 1885 he was sent to Congress serving there four continuous terms, or until 1893. During his Congressional career Judge Buchanan was a member of the most important committees. He was chairman of the committee on manufactures, and was a member at different times of the labor and claims, judiciary and patents committees. He was in the Curtin committee which investigated the Gould railroad strike, and was also a member of the committee that investigated the Standard Oil, whiskey and sugar trusts. Some of Judge Buchanan's speeches in Congress were published and given wide circulation. For many years Judge Buchanan was a member and President of the Board of Corporators of Peddie Institute, and since 1887 he has been a very efficient trustee of Bucknell University.

Hallowe'n Parade.

The college boys celebrated, "All Hallowe'n," on Wednesday evening in a true college style. About ten o'clock the boys assembled at the main entrance arrayed in, "robes de nit," of purest white and provided with brooms made a real witchlike appearance. Preceeded by a big drum they marched to the seminary and serenaded the fair Bucknell girls and made the night hideous with college yells and songs. The march was then resumed down town and the different professors were visited and loudly cheered. Going down Market street the boys gave the celebrated serpentine dance while the air continually reverberated with the echoes of their yells and songs.

John Wilson, Bucknell, '97, visited his Φ Γ Δ brothers during the past week and took in the State game on Saturday. Mr. Wilson was a member of the football team while in college. After leaving Bucknell he entered Harvard University.

Dave Elliot, 98, came on Friday afternoon to visit his brother, Cal, '02, and see the game. Mr. Elliot is an old Bucknell football player. He graduated from the Boston Institute of Osteopathy last year and is now practicing his profession.

"Kid," Hoffa, '03, now a student at the Medico Chirurgical College in Philadelphia, came up to see the State game.

Such actions as were witnessed at the State game on Saturday are fortunately rare now a-days in the football world and are justiable only in rare cases, but under the circumstances it is difficult to see how Bucknell could do otherwise and still retain her dignity and self respect. The referee virtually admitted to Coach Hoskins and several of the players that he was in the wrong in making his decision. This fact alone would justify Bucknell in her action, not to mention the various rumors which do not have enough foundation to be discussed here. Captain Stanton however has the undivided support of the Advisory Board, the student body, town people and every disinterested spectator. Everybody agrees that State was determined to win by fair means or foul and seeing she could not win by fair means resorted to foul, which were evident to everybody before the dispute arose that ended the game. It is exceedingly fortunate that the threatened free-for-all fight was averted after the game and the students are to be congratulated on their good sense in not trying to get revenge in that way. Bucknell at least has the satisfaction of virtually if not technically defeating State College.

All athletic relations between Bucknell and State has been severed in consequence of Saturday's event. It is unfortunate that a feeling of such intense hatred should take the place of friendly rivalry. It will be a source of regret to many but under the conditions neither college could do otherwise, Bucknell on account of the treatment she received, and State on account of the statements she made before the game.

Dr. Moss' Lectures Continued.

In his second lecture Dr. Moss continued the series introduced by the morning talk by trying to answer the question, what is the destiny of man according to the teaching of Jesus Christ, in which he succeded to the satisfaction of all present. He said in part. "Jesus Christ came to earth in order that we might have life and have it abundantly. By life is meant that essential and vital self having a nature and characteristics of its own, given to us by virtue of being created in the image of God, and for the purpose of working out his designs concerning man. What a thought it was when God thought man! Let Jesus Christ as set forth in the New Testament get into your life as its very essence. The grandness of the thought of the destiny of man is beyond expression, but not beyond experience."

On Tuesday morning Dr. Moss continued his course by discussing the subject "Society." A perfect man can only come through a perfect society and vice versa. This perfect society is one which in all its regulations, rules and influences is in complete harmony with the teachings of Christ. The great end of Christianity is a perfect man in a perfect society. The welfare of the state as of the family depends on the quality of the individual. The swarm is harmed when a single bee is harmed. We frequently hear it said that society owes the individual a living. Society does not owe you a living unless you have earned it, or, in other words, you should return to society what she has ministered to you during all the past.

In his third lecture Dr. Moss took as his subject "The Family." The family is one of the great social institutions through which God is working out Man's destiny. Our conception of the family is entirely different from that of the ancients. As an illustration of this Dr. Moss recited a pretty little poem entitled "Tired Mothers" and said "there is nothing like that in Homer or Virgil or any other pagan poet." It is through Christainlty that this change has been effected. It will be noticed that children have no place in the writings of Shakespeare and not till the days of Wordsworth do they have a prominent place in literature. The influence of the family is greater and more lasting than any other that enters into our lives. As an example of this we have but to notice the early life of John and Charles Wesley.

Sidney Hoffa, ex-'02, came up from Philadelphia to see the State game. He is playing tackle on the Medico Chirurgical College football team in Philadelphia.

H. J. Nogel & Bro. have showed their interest in the welfare of the college by presenting a handsome clock to the library. It was just what was needed and they have the heartfelt thanks of the faculty and students.

There was a marked evidence of hot blood existing between the Bucknell and State students on Saturday. Only the presence of a squad of big policemen prevented a free-for-all fight among the students between the halves.

The "At Home" yesterday afternoon was very well attended. Everybody was royally entertained and reports a good time. The "At Homes" are a pleasant feature of the social life at Bucknell, and enjoy a well deserved popularity.

Dr. Harris presided at the Honest Government mass meeting on Friday and delivered one of his usual forceful addresses stating clearly the prominent issues now before the people, and pointing out the things which need reforming. He was loudly cheered by the college boys present.

L'Agenda, published this year by the class of 1902, has been dedicated by the board to Mr. Harry S. Hopper, of Philadelphia, chairman of the board of trustees of the University since 1890. It is fitting that the tenth year of Mr. Hopper's service as the chairman of the trustees should be observed by dedicating the L'Agenda in his honor. Mr. Hopper has been a member of the board for nearly two decades, and has always manifested a large interest in the development and growth of the University. He has also been deeply interested in athletics. The L'Agenda board is to be congratulated upon the happiness of its choice in deciding to honor Mr. Hopper.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1900. No. 8

Bucknell Defeats Susquehanna.

A large and enthusiastic crowd of spectators braved the cold and stormy weather on Saturday afternoon to see Bucknell play her last game of football on the local gridiron for this season. Susquehanna University, after having kept State down to 17 points, and having made such a favorable showing against their opponents all season, came to Lewisburg to try their strength against Bucknell's football warriors.

Bucknell was greatly weakened by having Capt. Stanton, Barrett and Catterall, three of her football stars, on the side lines. With these players off the team the Bucknell boys were able to score thirty-five points against their opponents in two 20-minute halves.

Only once was Bucknell's goal in danger and then Susquehanna's only chance of scoring was spoiled by having her kick for a field goal from placement blocked.

Matthewson's kicking was again a feature of the game. His wonderful right foot seemed to send the pigskin whirling through the air farther than ever before. He also cleared 65 yards through Susquehanna's entire team for a touchdown.

For Susquehanna, fullback Nichols and quarterback Benfer seemed to do the best work.

Susquehanna won the toss and took the west goal with the wind in her favor. Prichard started the game by kicking off for Bucknell. After a plunge through Bucknell's line for a few yards Susquehanna was forced to kick. In the next scrimmage Matthewson plunged through Susquehanna's entire team carrying the ball 65 yds. for a touchdown. Prichard kicked the goal. Score, Bucknell 6. Susquehanna 0.

Matthewson caught the ball from the kick off and carried it back 70 yards, before he was downed. After two rushes Susquehanna secured the ball from a quarterback kick.

Nichols punted to Matthewson who returned the kick and put the team on side. Bell picked up the ball and carried it over the goal line. The ball on a penalty was brought back and given to Susquehanna who were forced to kick. After a few plunges Gates carried the pigskin 20 yds. for a touchdown. Prichard missed the goal. Score, Bucknell, 11. Susquehanna, 0.

Susquehanna kicked to Doolin. Freudenberger gained 6 and Doolin gained 25 yards, after which Matthewson punted. Freudenberger picked up the pigskin on Susquehanna's fumble and carried it 20 yds. for a touchdown. Prichard kicked the goal. Score, Bucknell 17, Susquehanna, 0.

Susquehanna kicked to Matthewson who returned the favor. In this rush Sweet was hurt and Wilcox took his place at centre. Susquehanna gained a few first downs by sending Nichols through the line and then was forced to kick. Bucknell now began to work the ball towards Susquehanna's goal line. After a series of plunges through the line and around the ends Matthewson was sent over the goal line for the fourth and last touchdown for the first half. Prichard again kicked the goal. Score Bucknell, 23. Susquehanna, 0.

The second half opened by Susquehanna kicking to Matthewson who returned the kick. Benfer, by dodging Bucknell's tacklers, rushed the ball back 20 yds. Susquehanna now began to plunge through Bucknell's tackles and carried the ball to Bucknell's 15 yd. line. Here Bucknell held her opponents and forced them to kick. Nichols tried for a goal from placement but his attempt was blocked. This was Susquehanna's only chance to score.

After a number of rushes and exchanges of punts Teufel and Gillis had scored two more touchdowns. Prichard added two more points by kicking both goals. Final score, B. U. 35, S. U., 0.

All through the game Susquehanna seemed to delay the game and tried to lose time by getting their plays off very slowly and thus prevent Bucknell from increasing the score.

Admission 25 cents. Proceeds for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. of Bucknell College, for the purpose of furnishing the new meeting rooms in the West College.

B. U. Reserves, 7. W'msport. High School, 0.

On Tuesday afternoon the Bucknel Reserves played their annual game of football with the Williamsport High School at Athletic Park, Williamsport. Both teams played good fast ball. The Reserves were a little the heavier while the High School boys had the advantage of playing together for years and having the benefit of a regular coach this year. The best relations and goodwill exists between both teams and this was manifest in the very friendly manner in which the game was played.

The Reserves outplayed their opponents at almost every point and on only several occassions was the High School able to gain first downs. The High School put up a strong game on defense and it was only through a weak place in the right side of the line that the Reserves were able to advance the ball. Johnson and Shepard were sent through repeatedly for good gains and Shepard was finally pushed over the goal line for a touchdown, the only score in the first half.

The second half was almost entirely in Williamsport's territory. Williamsport had her kick blocked in an attempt to kick out of danger and Hoagland fell on the ball behind his own goal line giving a safety to the Reserves.

Score, B. U. Reserves, 7. W'msport High School, 0.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The second meeting of the Chemical and Physical Society for this year was held in the lecture room of the Laboratory last Thursday evening at 4 o'clock. The attendance was very large and everything seems favorable for a most successful year in this valuable adjunct of college work.

The meeting was convened at the call of President Owens, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

A. F. Meschter, '01, discussed the "History of Oil, Coal Oil and Petroleum" in a very interesting manner.

T. L. Williams, '02, followed with a discussion on "Petroleum as Fuel."

"How a Weather Map is made" was next taken up and discussed by C. M. Konkle, '01.

The closing subject "Gas from Culm" was handled by Frank Beven, '01.

Prof. W. G. Owens took a few minutes in outlining some profitable scientific reading and enlarged on some of the remarks previously made.

Society was adjourned to meet two weeks hence.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend these meetings.

Bucknell Girls' Dramatic Club gives first Production.

The Ladies' Dramatic Club, organized a month ago, now numbers fifty members. Their first entertainment was given in the school room of the Institute last Friday evening. The audience consisted of invited guests—ladies from the town and students of the College and Institute. The platform was appropriately furnished with screens and the necessary stage fittings.

The first number on the program was a recitation by Miss Hazel Fiske, a special student in elocution. The rendering of the tale of shipwreck showed appreciation of the dramatic strength of the situation and careful training in expression. A pantomime performance by Misses Baer and Rogers, representing the auction sale of some luckless old bachelors, was exceedingly funny. A scene from The Taming of the Shrew, with Miss Elsie Seller as Kate, Miss Jane Fowler as Petruchio and Miss Thomas as Baptista, was next enacted. Fidelity to the Shakespearean conception was noteworthy in the rendering of each part.

The presentation of a farce entitled "The Economical Boomerang" concludedthe program. The caste was as follows:

Mr. Dabbleton	Miss Sheppard
Mrs. Dabbleton	Miss Browning
The Doctor	Miss Martin
Mr. Plover	Miss Long
Mrs. Plover	Miss Emerick
Maggie, the Irish Maid	Miss Allen

Mr. Dabbleton's attempt to economize by encouraging his wife to make her own clothes is frustrated by the embarrassment he suffers when she insists on using him for a dummy. All the characters were very well represented. Mr. Dabbleton, the doctor and Maggie "brought down the house" by the amazing agility of their performance.

To Miss Schillinger, the instructor in elocution, the highest praise is due for the highly creditable debut of the new society.

B. D. C.

Practice is progressing very nicely and a clean production can be expected.

It is hoped the organization will have the support of the student body.

We append the caste of characters:

James Jones	C. F. Bildelspacher
Beatrice, his young wife	Harvey
Eva, his daughter	Hottenstein
Tom Blane, his nephew a student of medicine	Sam. Smith

The editorial comment that appeared in these columns some weeks ago in regard to student who are working their way through the University of Chicago seems to have been based on a misrepresentation of the facts in the "University Weekly," and several Eastern papers. It seems that the order applies only to the attendants in the information office. We are glad to say that such is the case and that the facts are not as bad as they were represented. Such a spirit would not be tolerated in any American institution of learning.

There has been a notable falling off in the interest in football during the past week. This would seem to indicate that the whole season centered in the State game and that that was the only game worth taking any interest in. It is hard to see why State college should have that honor. There are three games yet to be played and it is just as important to win these as any other. Bucknell should win at least two of the three games that remain to be played. The attendance at Saturdays game was somewhat dissapointing, due partly to the cold weather but more to the lack of interest. Let everybody stick to the team and they will be sure to end up the season as successfully as it began.

In the course of an address John Wanamaker said recently. "No other investment can equal the investment in yourself. What other advantage can possibly compare with the education which opens wider the door of a narrow life? How much money would match the wealth of expanded powers, of unfolded possibilities? Can you estimate in dollars and cents, the advantages which your college course has given you? If you have made the most of your opportunities, you are a larger, broader, grander man in every way.'" How few men in college realize the full values of their course until they come to their senior year, when they begin to see what opportunities they have missed of making the most of themselves. Too often we do not wake up to a full realization of what our course means to us until too late.

Of the various congresses held at the Paris Exposition one of the most important, according to the official reports, was that of the Instructors in Modern Languages. A warm debate arose between the partisans on the one hand of the so-called classical method of instruction, namely those who are zealous for a literal, idiomatic translation of foreign authors; and on the other hand the champions of the new methods who argue that familiarity with modern languages cannot be acquired just as one may learn the dead languages.

As a result all the resolutions passed by this congress, composed as it was of many of the foremost teachers of modern languages in all the world, gave decided preference to the new method and condemned the classical method. The effort of every teacher should be, so the resolutions declare, to cause the pupils to understand, to speak, and to pronounce correctly a foreign language, as well as to read and write it. By dint of constant practice the ears and the tongue of the beginners should be trained. Oral exercises are of the first importance.

LITERARY NOTE.

Women are writing and talking about Grace Marguerite Hurd's story, The Bennett Twins. The twins—brother and sister—kick over the traces in a rather happy way; and with the reluctant acquiescence of their guardians. Their experiences in New York are full of fun and heroic work—his as an art student, her's as a singer. They live in a ramshackle old studio building, and go through sore straits before the year is out. They starve and wear out their shoes, but they never lose courage and withal never forget their sense of humor. Miss Hurd seems to have found a field not touched by Miss Alcott or Miss Whitney, yet fully as interesting and wholesome. The book ends as if there might be a love story to follow as a result of the twins experiment.

Subscriptions for furnishing the new Y. M. C. A. room in West College are now being solicited. We hope all who feel that they can do so will help the project along. The room is large and requires a considerable number of chairs to furnish it. It will be very attractive when completely furnished.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1900. No. 9

West Point 18, Bucknell 10.

Bucknell, although beaten, played a star game against the West Point Military Cadets on Saturday afternoon on the Cadets own gridiron. Bucknell, by superb playing, had the better of the game all through the first half of the contest.

Matthewson, with his wonderful kicking ability, was again a great factor in the game. His field goal from West Point's forty yard line was one of the features.

The West Point boys, on account of their constant military training, were able to out-last the Bucknell players in strength. They played stronger ball as the game advanced and thus won the game during the latter part of the contest.

Bucknell, although defeated, put up a game of which her admirers may truly be proud.

FIRST HALF.

Bucknell won the toss and chose to defend the south goal. West Point kicked to Matthewson, who returned the punt. The Cadets were held for downs when Barrett skirted the end for twenty yards.

After an exchange of punts Bucknell got the ball on West Point's thirty-five yard line, when Matthewson received the ball and dropped a beautiful goal from the forty-five yard line. Score, Bucknell, 5; West Point, 0.

West Point kicked off to Stanton and after a few plays "Christy" punted. West Point fumbled punt, Barrett falling on the leather. Bucknell, by steady plunges through left tackle, carried the ball over the goal line for a touchdown, but failed to catch it on punt out.

Score, Bucknell 10; West Point, 0.

West Point kicked off to Matthewson who returned the punt. West Point carried the ball to Bucknell's twenty-five yard line. West Point tried for a field goal but failed, Bucknell getting the ball on the fifteen yard line. West Point secured the ball and by steady plunges through the line, by the tackles and around the ends carried the ball over the goal line for a touchdown. They kicked goal.

Score, Bucknell 10; West Point, 6.

Wilcox ended the features of the first half by making a run of twenty-five yards around West Point's right end.

SECOND HALF.

Bucknell kicked off to West Point, who run the ball back to the thirty five yard line. West Point on a tackle back succeeded in carrying the ball to Bucknell's twenty yard line where they were held for downs and "Christy" punted out of danger. Sweet was injured, Wilcox going in as centre and Gray as tackle. West Point again assaulted Bucknell's line and by steady gains went through for a touch down and kicked goal.

Score, Bucknell 10; West Point 12.

Bucknell kicked off to West Point but Gray brought the man to the ground. West Point tried the line but was thrown back. Bucknell now took a brace and held the Cadets for downs. Bucknell failed to gain and was forced to give up ball on third trial. West Point by constant gains carried the ball to thirty yard line where right half back broke through for a touch down. Goal was kicked.

Score, Bucknell 10; West Point 18.

But three minutes were left to play and this was played in the dusk. The game closed with the ball in Bucknell's possession on the thirty five yard line.

We append the line up.

Do not fail to attend the production of "Why Jones Left Home," which is to be given by the Bucknell Dramatic Club next Monday evening. The boys are getting along very well with practice and there is no reason why this rendition should not far surpass all former efforts. Admission 50c, 35c and 25c.

Trustee Jayne Dead.

Eben C. Jayne, the last surviving member of the firm of Dr. D. Jayne and Son died in Philadelphia on Thursday last. Mr. Jayne was born Nov. 8, 1827, at Sparta, N. J. He began his business life at the age of 13, when he was employed by Jayne & Pancoast in St. Louis, his brother being a member of that firm. Later, for a number of years, he carried on a retail drug business in Philadelphia on Third street, below Market, and in 1850 became a partner of his uncle, the late Dr. David Jayne, in the wholesale drug business, which in 1855 was consolidated with Dr. Jayne's proprietary business, the firm name being Dr. D. Jayne & Son. Dr. Jayne died in 1866, after which the management devolved upon Eben C. Jayne, who was an excellent chemist. Mr. Jayne was a director of the National Bank of the Northern Liberties, one of the managers of the Home Missionary Society and also of the Lying-in Hospital, a member of the Union League and Pennsylvania Historical Society and a trustee of Bucknell University since 1894. He also established the Eben C. Jayne Scholarships for young women in the college.

To-Night's Lecture.

The World famous Tissot Paintings in their original colors, recently purchased by the Brooklyn Art Institution for the sum of $60,000, illustrating the actual outward life of Christ amid the sacred scenery of the Holy Land, depicting artistically, historically and geographically the cities, towns and villages, together with the manners and customs of the people among whom our Savior dwelt during his childhood, ministry, passion, death and resurrection including scenes in and around the Holy City, together with Tissot's marvelous conception of Jerusalem in its grandeur, the whole being the result of ten years of labor in Palestine, will be brilliantly displayed by the Electro-Stereopticon upon four hundred square feet of canvas in the Baptist Church to-night. The reproduction of these realistic paintings will be accompanied by an interesting descriptive lecture by Prof. Welham Clarke, late of the Royal Polytechnic Institution, London. Proceeds will go toward the University Y. M. C. A. rooms. Admission, 25c.

Memorial Service.

A memorial service in honor of the late Stephen Reed was held in the Chillisquaque Chapel, on Sunday evening. Mr. Reed, while in college, conducted the Sunday School in the chapel. He also preached there regularly and had complete charge of the mission during the last year. It was largely through his earnest efforts that the new chapel was erected last summer. Ulmer, '02, was present at the service and spoke concerning the deceased; Burpee, '01, paid a fine tribute to his memory; Johnson, '02, rendered some fine musical selections. Mr. Reed was very highly esteemed by the people of Chillisquaque, and his early death is much lamented.

The Geology class was out several times last week to study the rock formations around town.

We are pleased to note the active interest taken in the Chemical and Physical Society. The attendance at the last meeting was probably the largest in its history and a large number of new members were enrolled. The present age is one of scientific advancement, rather than one of literary production and to be well informed one must watch closely the progress of modern science. It is the object of the society to arouse an interest in scientific research and to keep its members informed of the progress of science, particularly in such problems as are of general interest. The lectures and papers read before the society are not of such a technical nature that the student in the sciences alone can understand them, but they will not only be interesting but also highly instructive to all who hear them. Such a society, well conducted and well attended is not only a credit to the college, but also of incalculable benefit to its members.

The fees are merely nominal, enough to subscribe for several scientific periodicals and it is to be hoped that in the near future the name of every student in the collegs will be on the rolls of the society.

On looking around the Chapel during the daily morning exercises, one might think that they were held only to give an opportunity to students to read the morning paper or to take a last glimpse at their books before class to make up for what they ought to have done the evening before. Instead of an attitude of reverence one would expect during such exercises, the rustle of papers is heard all over the room during the prayer and Scripture reading, and others are seen earnestly poring over their books, not even going to the trouble of getting up to sing the hymns. This ia a habit that has grown upon us so gradually that we have ceased to think of anything wrong in it, and take it as a matter of course—a splendid opportunity to get the sporting news or to look over a point in Psychology or a sentence in Latin. That is just where the trouble lies. If we would only stop long enough to think of why we have Chapel exercises, there would not be one-tenth as many books and papers open in the future, after the President and Faculty go up to open the exercises.

A great deal of interest is being manifested in the next performance of the Dramatic Club and a good house is assured. Although this is one of the youngest organizations at Bucknell, its success and permanency are assured and has already become a prominent feature of the social side of college life. Their entertainments are always of a high order, given for the benefit of Athletics. The object is certainly a commendable one and deserves the undivided support of the student body.

Bucknell and Villa Nova Fail to Score in Saturday's Game.

Bucknell lined up against the strong Villa Nova team on the latter's grounds last Saturday afternoon.

The game was quite unsatisfactory in many respects. Although about our equal in weight they seemed to show no hesitancy in asking for almost any concession and held out until same was granted. The Orange and Blue was at their mercy to a large extent but managed to end the game with a double zero score.

During the second half punting between Matthewson and Capt. Powers seemed to be the chief feature.

On Saturday night Villa Nova celebrated with bon fire, parade, etc., in honor of the game, considering the score virtually equivalent to a victory for them.

This will probably be Bucknell's last game for the season and no one can say ought but praise of the work the boys have done.

We give a partial synopsis of game:

Game was called at 3 p. m. Villa Nova won the toss and chose to defend the south goal. Bucknell kicked to Carlin, who advanced the ball six yards before he was downed. Villa Nova then lined up and their left half back took the oval and tried our left end when he fumbled, Stanton falling on ball.

On the next play Villa Nova charged before the ball was snapped and Bucknell was given five yards. On the next play Bucknell was again given five yards for an offside play. Barrett took ball around left end for six yards. Gates advanced ball three yards; Wilcox was thrown for a loss; Stanton now took ball but was downed and Bucknell not gaining required distance, Villa Nova gained possession of the leather. Villa Nova punted to Prichard, who fumbled, one of the opponent's men falling on ball.

Villa Nova tried several times, but not gaining required distance on third down, a fake kick was tried, the ball being passed from centre to Capt. Powers, who ran by the line of scrimmage, passing the ball to their quarterback who was downed on Bucknell's eighteen yard line.

At this point referee claimed a forward pass and ball was Bucknell's on point where offense was committed.

On coach Hoskins' rainbow trick, Doolin netted fourteen yards. Barrett was tried, but no gain was made. Stanton lost two yards. Matthewson punted, Villa Nova running ball back ten yards before downed.

Bucknell held Villa Nova for downs. It was now Bucknell's ball. Matthewson tried for a field goal but failed, ball going out of bounds on the one yard line.

Villa Nova punted to Prichard who fumbled, Matthewson falling on the ball. Ball was then given to Barrett, who circled left end for a touchdown, but it was not allowed by umpire, who claimed holding. Ball was brought back and given to Stanton, who lost three yards on sideover play. Matthewson punted to Villa Nova's quarterback who was thrown in his tracks by Freudenberger.

Villa Nova now tried some line plunges and end runs but failed to advance ball to any considerable distance.

Ball then went to Bucknell on downs. After a couple rushes game was called with the leather in Bucknell's possession on the thirty-five yard line, neither side having scored.

The line up was as follows:

Villa Nova	Positions.	Bucknell.
Rooney	center	Sweet
Crowne	right guard	Gillis
Carlin	righttackle	Wilcox
O'Rourke	right end	Freudenbg'r
Weir	q. back	Prichard
O'Niel	left half back	Stanton, capt
Connors	right half back	Doolin
Powers, capt.	full back	Matthewson

Referee, Boyle, of Villa Nova. Umpire, Hoskins, of Bucknell. Timekeepers, Pepper, of U. of Pa. and Rowe, of Bucknell. Linesmen, Helihy, of Villa Nova, and Johnson, of Bucknell. Time of halves, 20 minutes each.

Inter-Society Delegates.

The Inter-Society debaters, of Dickinson College, were chosen last Wednesday by each society. Hardesty, '01, A. B. Wood, '01, and Cunningham, '02, with Wright, '02, as alternate, will represent the Belles Lettres Society. Presby, '01, Siegrist, '01, and Amerman, '02, with Comer, '03, as alternate, will represent the Union Philosophical Society.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The Chemical and Physical Society met in regular session at the Laboratory last Thursday evening.

Prof. W. G. Owens presided in the capacity of president. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Prof. Simpson took up the hour in demonstrating Boyle's (Mariotte's) Law by making use of the original apparatus. He pointed out the difficulties attending the taking of exact measurements and showed how same should be done.

He then made use of five readings taken under increase of pressure and three under decrease of pressure. With these readings he constructed four tables of figures from which the law was deduced.

The lecture was highly beneficial from the standpoint of experimental Physics and showed in a technical way how Boyle reached his valuable conclusion.

The meeting was then adjourned to meet two weeks hence.

Quite a number of persons, not members, were present and everything points to the growing favor with which these meetings are received.

The storm on Wednesday broke several of the large windows on the first floor of the Laboratory.

The University of Chicago is planning the erection of a new club house for the use of the students. It will be five stories high and will contain a large banquet and dining hall, which may be used for dancing if desirable. Bowling alleys, billiard tables, and other means of amusement are provided. The cost is to be $200,000.

Bucknell to Meet the Indians on the Gridiron Next October.

Arrangements for a game of football between the Carlisle Indians and Bucknell have just been consummated by Registrar Gretzinger and Professor Rockwood.

Two weeks ago Mr. Gretzinger went to Carlisle to make any arrangements possible for the game. He found the team in practice at Pine Grove Park in the South Mountain, Cumberland County. He secured from Mr. Warner, head coach of the team, an option for a game at Williamsport. Accordingly Mr. Gretzinger went to Williamsport and completed the arrangements for the game there.

The game will be played some time in October next. There is no doubt but that this game will be heralded with joy by all lovers of gridiron sports in this section of the State.

It might also be added that the Indians have scheduled with Bucknell for a baseball game on Commencement day at Lewisburg.

Dr. Hulley delivered one of his interesting lectures in the Third Presbyterian Church, Williamsport, on Thursday evening. A large audience greeted him.

A. M. Smith, '01, left for his home in Kutztown on Friday morning. On Saturday he played with the Kutztown football team against Stroudsburg Normal School team.

A number of the College boys were out to the tollgate on Friday evening, to hear Zaccheus Daniels give a talk on astronomy. The talk was very interesting and instructive.

Miss Roos, 1900, is visiting at her home on Sixth street. Her many friends are glad to welcome her. She is also entertaining her friend, Miss Leary, a very charming young lady.

L. V. Hottenstein, '01, has left school to take up the business profession. He has an excellent opportunity which will not present itself later and thought it best to take advantage of the same, at once. Mr. Hottenstein carries with him the best wishes of his many friends here.

"College and Professional Training."

"The Philadelphia Press" in an editorial under the title of "College and Professional Training" takes a rather despondent view of college training in Pennsylvania. It draws its conclusions from a comparison of the professional and collegiate degrees given by what it styles "The Four Important Institutions in the State." Of these degrees, eighty per cent. are professional and technical, and only twenty per cent are collegiate. But it selects State College and Lehigh which are technological, almost entirely, and the University of Pennsylvania which is almost wholly professional, its college being small. Lafayette, which is chiefly collegiate, maintains a technological department. The "Press" ignores the score and more of colleges which devote themselves, exclusively to liberal culture. We give the attendance by classes for the year 1899-1900 in "the four important" institutions, mentioned by the "Press," and the attendance in four of the others.

	Sen.	Jun.	Soph.	Fresh.	Spec.	Total
State Col.,	4	4	2	7		17
Lehigh,	4	2	3	18		26
U. of P.,	35	52	43	40	8	178
Lafayette,	56	55	57	63		211
Bucknell,	55	72	60	91	15	273
Dickinson,	44	50	73	63	32	262
F. & M.,	39	41	37	47	7	171
Gettysbg,	38	31	42	38	15	182

From this it is seen that "the four important institutions" of the "Press" have in the collegiate department four hundred and thirty-two students, and the four other colleges given have eight hundred and eighty-eight. If all the colleges in the State, which are devoting their resources exclusively or chiefly to liberal culture were included, it would be seen that liberal education is not at so low an ebb as the "Press" imagines.

Friend, '03, will lead the Y. M. C. A. meeting to-night.

Sam Smith, '01, visited friends in Philadelphia last Sunday.

Work on the new drive way is progressing very nicely.

Elliot, '02, in company with several others, is out on a week's hunting trip up along Kulp's railroad.

There was no Y. M. C. A. meeting on Tuesday evening on account of the lecture in the Baptist Church.

Miss Stoner, of Sunbury, is the guest of her sister Mrs. Gretzinger. Miss Stoner has many friends in college.

The football team spent Friday night in Philada., staying at the Hotel Hanover Bucknell's headquarters in Phila.

The curator of the department of ornithology at Princeton University has received from the British Museum a gift of 2000 birds collected from the Malay Islands, India, and different parts of Europe.

The Literary Societies had interesting meetings on Friday evening. Theta Alpha discussed the question selected for the first Senior debate and Euepia discussed the question selected for the first preliminary Junior debate.

Three Princeton Freshmen were fined $30 each for stealing the clapper from the bell of "Old North Church." They intend to have the clapper melted up and made into small ones to be sold as souvenirs, the proceeds to be used for paying the fines.

Perhaps it has never occurred to many of the students that the existence of the ORANGE AND BLUE is due mainly to the financial support of the advertisers and not to the subscription list. An institution of the size of Bucknell could not support a paper by subscription nor does any paper attempt to do so. In our advertising columns will be found the names of those who enable the ORANGE AND BLUE to maintain its position. They are all reliable business men and solicit your patronage. All they ask is that you give them a chance to try to please you. One good turn deserves another. Bear this in mind when you make your next shopping expedition and patronize our advertisers.

A large number of our students, particularly under classmen, seem to be unaware of the fact that there is a small but well selected scientific library on the second floor of the laboratory for the free use of the students. Volumes of reference in chemistry, physics, geology, etc., can be found on its shelves. We should like to see more use made of them. Among other scientific periodicals on its tables is the Scientific American, of which a complete file has been kept. Somebody has taken out of the library three bound volumes of this periodical thus making the set incomplete. Whether the person took them out with the intention of keeping them or returning them we do no not know, as they have been out for some time. We hope the latter and expect to see them returned in the near future. The books have been wanted several times lately, thus greatly inconveniencing several persons (this is abuse of the library, not use). The books in the library are nearly all books of reference and should not be taken out except by special permission.

"The debating societies at Hampton were a constant source of delight to me. These were held on Saturday evening; and during my whole life at Hampton I do not recall that I missed a single meeting. I not only attended the weekly debating society but was instrumental in organizing an additional society. I noticed that between the time supper was over and the time to begin evening there were about twenty minutes which the young men usually spent in gossip. About twenty of us formed a society for the purpose of utilizing the time in debate or in practice in public speaking. Few persons ever derived more happiness or benefit from the use of twenty minutes of time than we did in this way."
BOOKER T. WASHINGTON.

Do not these true and wise words of this eminent colored man put to shame many young men who, with every advantage at hand, avoid or despise the training to be gained in the debating societies? Emerging from the poorest and worst conditions, he stands shining before his countrymen; and in these words he gives the secret of his success both as an eloquent orator and a wise administrator. Is it any wonder that he can command as I am told $200 on any night he may see fit to speak? Without hesitation I say the debating society in my preparatory years was worth to me more than any one regular study; and the one thing I regretted most of all when I went to college was that at Brown University there was no literary or debating society where the students, in greater or less numbers, could practice the various forms of public speech. At Bucknell the opportunity is ample; and he who neglects to sieze and make the most of it—be he special, scientific or classical is striking himself a blow in the face from which he will never recover. Let him take the advice of this remarkable colored man who is the leader of his race and bids fair to add new lustre to the name of Washington.

All College and Academy men are invited to attend the open meeting, of the Zeta Literary Society, in the Institute chapel on Friday evening.

A new fraternity to which students in chemistry alone are eligible, has been established at the University of Illinois. It is known as Phi Lambda Upsilon and has six charter members.

Four of the twenty-three college football captains play at fullback, five at halfback, two at quarter, seven at end, four at guard, two at tackle and none at center.

The students of the University of California who served in the Spanish and Philippine Wars have formed an organization intended to be the nucleus of a national association of student veterans.

Owing to our effort to place the ORANGE AND BLUE in the hands of the students each Monday evening, it will be necessary for us to delay the account of B. D. C's production of "Why Jones Left Home," until our next issue.

The Williamsport Wheel Club football team will play the Burlingame team at Athletic Park, Williamsport, Thanksgiving afternoon. All those interested in football and who can do so, will find a nice exhibition of playing at that time. Both teams would be glad to welcome any Bucknell men at the game.

Preliminary Debates.

Among the most important events of the week were the first preliminary debates of the seniors and juniors. In proportion to the number of debaters in the respective classes more ought to have taken part in these contests. This is the first year that the seniors had the opportunity of an honor debate and five members took part. The juniors had eight members in their prize contest which is far below the average of former years. It is hoped that more students will avail themselves of the opportunity next year and raise the number at least threefold. All the debaters deserve the greatest credit, for their work this year and for the manner in which they rendered their discussions.

SENIORS.

The seniors held their first preliminary on Thursday evening. They discussed the question, "Resolved: That it should be the policy of the United States to maintain the integrity of the Chinese Empire."

The debate was opened by Mr. Bechtel, who argued that the United States should maintain the integrity of the Chinese Empire for the following reasons: First, because the nature of the Chinese demands the preservation of the Chinese Empire. They having a stable government and being a homogeneous people must be kept in unity. Second, partition is very dangerous both to China and to the Powers. The Chinese would be difficult to subdue and the Powers could not divide it peaceably.

The first negative speaker, Mr. Ayres was absent and Mr. Newhauser continued the discussion on the affirmative. He claimed that 1st. The United States policy would not admit partiton. 2nd. It would destroy a commercial centre. 3rd. The United States stands for enhancing humanity's weal and hence could not take form as she would have to do in case of Partition: and 4th. Partition would annihilate a nation.

Mr. Alexander, the second negative speaker, maintained that the United States should not adopt such a Policy. 1st. Because it would be antagonistic to other nations. 2nd. Because the United States would not be able to carry out such a Policy. 3rd. The United States has no constitutional right to adopt such a Policy.

Mr. Burpee, the third affirmative speaker, gave the following three reasons why the United States should maintain the integrity of the Chineso Empire. 1st. Our interests would not permit partition. 2nd. Disintegration of the Chinese Empire would be a commercial loss to the United States and 3rd. The United States would not be in a position to cope with the Powers in the division of China.

Mr. Shields, the third negative speaker, closed the debate with the following three reasons: 1st. The downfall of the Chinese Empire is inevitable. 2nd. Partition at present would be more beneficial to the United States than later, and 3rd. Partition would be profitable to the Chinese.

At the close of the debate, Dr. Perrine gave some valuable information on the presentation of a debate and Prof. Heim on how to work up a discussion.

JUNIORS.

The Juniors had their preliminary debate on Wednesday evening. They discussed the question, "Resolved: That trusts should be controlled by legislation in the interests of the people."

Mr. Ulmer, the first affirmative speaker, opened the discussion" by maintaining that trusts were a great power and therefore ought to be controlled. The best method of control is by legislation. Legislation could remedy evils as patent holding monopolies, &c., grant special powers and also gain greater publicity in the formation of trusts.

The negative was opened by Mr. Boyer, who argued that 1st. Legislative control is insufficient. 2nd. Such control would be directly productive of evil, since capitalists would not invest their money and 3rd. There is no need for control, because they already cater to public good.

Mr. Kyle, the second affirmative speaker, contended that they should be controlled by legislation because they are an economic evil causing poorer grades of goods, closing factories, forming monopolies, destroying competition and lastly because they are a social evil since they discriminate against the individual, against the article and against the locality.

Mr. Johnson, the second negative speaker, maintained that legislative control was neither necessary nor effective. Trusts are advantageous because they give steady employment and lower prices. They make the United States a commercial and financial power and are not contrary to law.

The third affirmative speaker was Mr. McCracken. His main arguments were that legislation should control trusts so that they would be of an economic advantage to the people who give them power through tariff and patent laws. Legislate not arbitrarily but to your uniformity and competition, make trusts do more and establish a permanency that would be better for family, home and state.

Mr. Reilly, the third negative speaker, had his arguments under four principal heads. 1. Trusts are a necessity. 2. Trusts are beneficial. 3. Legislation against trusts not necessary. 4. Legislation in behalf of the people harmful.

The last affirmative speaker was Mr. Robinson, who argued that trusts, although they are an economic growth have a great many evils among them. They cut prices to drive out competition and raise them afterwards. They do not keep a uniform rate of prices in all localities. Federal legislation should remedy these evils by certain restrictions upon trusts.

Mr. Heckert, the last negative speaker, closed the debate. He placed his arguments under five divisions or reasons for not having trusts under the control of legislation. 1. Trusts are already sufficiently restricted. 2. They are a natural growth. 3. Trust are an economic advantage. 4. They are a great factor in maintaining international peace. 5. They have a legal right to exist.

Dr. Perrine then criticised the debate. He pointed out many defects and gave some very valuable suggestions, not only to the speakers, but to all who were interested in the art of debating.

Shakespere Club Banquet.

On Friday evening, December 7th, at the hotel Haag in Milton, the Shakespere Club of the class of 1903 held its first annual banquet.

At about 7.45 the club left the campus gate in Wensel's covered bus enroute for Milton. Yells and songs were rendered on the way through town and at the end of Market street when the carriage stopped for Dr. Perrine, the honorary member of the club, a more enthusiastic yell greeted him

The company arrived at the hotel about nine o'clock and a few minutes later sat down to a beautifully decorated table. Every one was in the heighth of his glory and the several courses were served amid the merry making, jokes and revelry.

Shortly before eleven, the longings of the inner man being satisfied by a menu to long to mention here, toast master, Carl W. Tiffany, began to deal out that which was good for the mind. The numbers on the programme ran as follows: "The American Eagle"—Mandolin duet by D. R. Walkinshaw and U. Bruce Kester: "Our Shakspere Club—Its Past," W. K. Rhodes: "MDCCCCIII," C. A. Lehman: "Chorette," Vocal solo, R. H. Williams; "An Adventure," M. R. Sheldon: "Our Friend William," M. F. Forbell: "The Last Chord,"—Mandolin solo by J. L. Kalp: "Our Shakspere Club—Its Future," C. H. Brown: "Burdock's Goat," W. L. Kalp: "Our Honored Guest," A. M. Weaver: Address Enoch Perrine, Litt. D.: "The Sweet Potato on the Vine"—Ocraina solo, D. R. Walkinshaw.

After this the company adjourned to the parlors where all engaged in a pleasant after dinner chat. Some time later the company broke and the carriage rolled away toward Lewisburg with the seventeen disciples of Shakspere on board. And some one quoting from Hamlet said: "But, look, the morn in russet mantle clad, Walks o'er the dew of yon high eastern hill."

On Nov. 26th the B. D. C. gave its initial performance for the year rendering "Why Jones Left Home." The play was extremely funny, being replete with humorous situations, witty sayings and clever local hits throughout. Sixteen men were in the play, and their work reflects great credit upon themselves and their instructors and those who made them up. All of the boys played their parts well, but the particular stars were Messrs. Sausser, Goodall, Goodman and Smith. Mr. Saussers get up was excellent and the interpretations of his role, being fine indeed. Goodall, as the old musician took the house by storm with his rheumatics, wig and cracked voice. Mr. Goodman made a capital black, getting off to perfection the critics of a negro, with all the accompanying "funnyisms."

Of the other characters we cannot speak in detail, lack of space preventing. However we cannot omit Big "Johns" appearance as the "Cop" and the glad hand given him.

Although the night was stormy and there were rival attractions elsewhere a good house was present, greatly to the encouragement of the players.

A neat sum was realized which was applied to Athletics.

With the annual fall elections less than a week off, politicians are unusually active. Not for a number of years has the excitement been at so high a pitch. While there is now a temporary quieting down, it is sure to break out again in full force by the end of the week. The office of football manager is generally considered to be the highest and most responsible position in the college and the two candidates are working hard to secure the coveted prize.

Everybody recognizes what a great incentive it is for one to know that his friends are interested in him and his work. Many a poor fellow has been encouraged to nobler action by a realization of this fact. Many a man has been impelled forward to a greater effort by this knowledge. On the other hand plenty of people fail from a lack of such encouragement. The students now have an opportunity to show their influence in this direction. Our basketball team is out daily training for later effectiveness. Everyone recognizes the necessity of thorough practice. All of us realize that a victory for our team means much to the University. So why cannot a large number of those interested in the team come out and show their appreciation of its efforts? It will encourage the boys. They will work with a feeling of pleasure when they know that they have the sympathies of the whole college. They do not have practice behind closed doors. There may be those who would become proficient players were they to try. Coach Hoskins will give you an opportunity to make the team. So come out and encourage the boys. If you do not understand the game, take some object lessons, study the practice games and be ready to enjoy the games with our rival college teams when they come.

College Girls' Concert.

The College Girls' Mandolin and Guitar Club was greeted on Friday evening by an appreciative audience.

Being the first organization of the kind at Bucknell composed exclusively of college woman, considerable curiosity and expectation awaited its first public appearance; but none who listened to the concert on Friday evening could fail to express their praise of the Club, as it proved to be a great success and reflected much credit upon its leader, Prof. Aviragnet. All the numbers were finely rendered; but particularly well received were the mandolin solos by Miss Trainer and the mandolin, guitar and piano quartette "Le Biniou," which was played at the Paris Exposition during the past summer. The program was as follows:

PART I.

Largo	Handel.
Club.
Scherzando	Cooper.
Kathryn H. Trainer.
Visions of Rest Waltzes	Baker.
Club.
College Girls	Martin.
Club.

The following men have paid up their subscriptions for the retention of Coach Hoskins since our last report. We urgently request every student who has not already done so to close his account with the management at once, as all financial affairs of the football department must be closed in order to make a complete report next Saturday.

Basket Ball.

Bucknell opened her season of basketball on Friday evening, in a very interesting, although one-sided game with the Milton Y. M. C. A. The large attendance which greeted the players was very encouraging to both the management and the team. Bucknell's work, with a few exceptions, was very good and a winning team can be looked for. One thing necessary, however, to get this winning team is the faithful cooperation of the student body. The players need your assistance; they need your encouragement.

The Milton boys were somewhat lighter than the Bucknell boys and were outplayed at every point. The only redeeming feature on their part was the pretty goal throwing from fouls by Reminsnyder, their captain.

It was fully 8 p. m., when Referee Hoskins called the game. Capt. Reminsnyder, of the Y. M. C. A., won the toss and chose the south goal.

Bucknell started the game fast and strong, passing the ball remarkably well for the opening contest and soon succeeded in scoring a number of goals. Davis proved to be in evidence by throwing several pretty goals from the field, while Reminsnyder and Elliott dropped a number of pretty goals from fouls. The first half ended with the score of 21-3 in favor of Bucknell.

During the second half, Bucknell kept up her scoring and added nineteen points more to the score.

Groff, who replaced Theis at centre, tossed the ball twice through the basket. Bevan soon afterwards retired and English took his place at defence. During this half, the Y. M. C. A. boys received this only goal from the field which was thrown by Kemp, while Bucknell tried to get the ball out of danger.

One encouring feature was the manner in which Bucknell followed the ball and securing it nearly every time it went out of bounds.

The game ended with the final score: B. U. 40. Milton Y. M. C. A., 6.

Stanton Re-Elected.

Last Wednesday, at 11 o'clock, the 'Varsity football team assembled at Ginter & Cook's, and had the official photograph of the players taken.

Immediately afterward Stanton, '02, was unanimously re-elected captain for next season.

Stanton's re-election was but a sign of the appreciation the players had for him in the discharge of his duty. A captain's influence on a team is immeasurable and an unanimous sentiment is bound to produce a good team for next fall.

Subscriptions due to the Y. M. C. A., for the furnishing of the new rooms can be paid to the president, Geo. W. Alexander, any time before the close of the term.

Athletic Association Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting of the Bucknell Athletic Association was held in the Laboratory on Saturday morning. President A. M. Smith was in the chair. The attendance was very much larger than at any previous meeting, the enrollment reaching two hundred and eleven. The interest taken in this election has been most keen for the past three weeks and every man was at his post to take care of the interests of his favorite candidates. The contesting was not so sharp for some offices, the elections being unanimous in several instances.

Coach Hoskins addressed the association in a very able and instructive manner. He presented several things worthy of thought for the student body. Football Manager S. C. Smith, '01, handed in a very encouraging and worthy report of the finances of the last season which will be printed later. Treasurer of the association Weidensaul, '02, made his report for the year. The report shows a decided improvement of the financial condition of the association. The executive committees for football, baseball, basketball and track athletics were reappointed.

The association adopted the following amendments and voted to have new constitution books printed. We append the amendments:

As article III (Present article to be void) in constitution. "Any student of the University may become a member of the association by complying with the Constitution and By Laws; any Professor or Alumnus may become an honorary member without privilege of voting, by payment of the membership fee."

As last sentence in article III of By Laws, present sentence to be void.

"A majority vote of those members of the team who are students of the University and have played in at least three of the games of the season shall constitute an election."

As an additional paragraph to article VI of the By Laws.

"The managers of the different departments may wear the "B" of their respective teams."

The interest of the meeting centered on the football management, Goodall winning over Milligan by a margin of twenty-nine votes.

The election resulted as follows:—
President—McCracken, '02.
Vice President—Forbell, '03.
Secretary—Walkinshaw, '03.
Treasurer—Heckert, '02.
Finance Committee—Eisenmenger, '03, and Tuefel, '02.
Track Manager—Goodman, '01.
Football Manager—Goodal, '02.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The last meeting of the Chemical and Physical Society for the term, was held in the lecture room of the Laboratory last Thursday evening.

Prof. W. G. Owens presided. Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

Walkinshaw, '03, gave a very interesting talk on "Potato Starch." He carefully outlined the steps in its manufacture, amount yearly placed on market, etc.

Prof. Owens then discussed "Other Kinds of Starch." Under this head he included corn starch with its by-products, Gluten, Cake and Corn Oil: Wheat, Rice, Sago, Arrow Root and Cassava Starch. The uses and manufacture of each of these were carefully outlined.

The rest of the period was taken up for the discussion of "Dextrine." Prof. Owens handled this subject and showed how closely Starch and Dextrine are related.

Bucknell Alumnae Club.

The last meeting of the year was held Tuesday evening, December 11th, in the Institute parlors. The topic of discussion was the political history of England of the last half century.

Papers:
Colonial Developments—Miss Annie VanGundy.
Gladstone, the Statesman—Mrs. H. G. Dreisbach.
Civic Discussion:
The Ringing of the Church Bells—Miss Martin.

The music consisted of two piano solos, Haudel's Largo, by Miss Aiken and Haydus Minnet, by Miss Thornton. To the January meeting, the Woman's Club, of Mifflinburg, has been invited. Later in the year, the club expects to make an engagement with Miss Myra Lloyd Dock, of Harrisburg, who has acquired a national reputation as a lecturer on forestry.

The following term will present to us many attractive forms of amusement, such as entertainments and exhibitions of various natures, and chief among these will be the basketball games. While Friday evening seems to be the only available occasion for these pleasures, they conflict with the meetings of our literary societies. As many of the students desire to profit by the training in debate and other branches of the litetary work, and also are interested in Athletics, we believe they should receive some consideration. We therefore suggest a plan, which is at once reasonable and will no doubt be entirely satisfactory.

The managers of the various attractions could no doubt arrange to begin their exhibitions at 8.15, instead of 8.00, thus giving time for literary programme, and causing no inconvenience in other affairs.

During the past year athletics at Bucknell have been uniformly successful from a financial point of view. Both the basket ball and track teams closed the season with a balance on hand. The baseball manager was able to hand the treasurer of the Athletic Association a neat sum at the close of one of the most trying seasons in the history of Bucknell. The football management has established a record by having on hand the largest cash balance in the history of football at Bucknell. After persistent effort, the Association is at last able to cancel the large debt which hung over it for the last four or five years. The unprecedented subscription list aided materially in reducing this debt. In the future we will be able to start the season unhampered by any debt and the close economy in respect to buying equipment for the various teams that has been practised the last few years will no longer be necessary. Keep up the good work; the record of the past year shows that with careful management and proper support of the student body, the Association can be kept out of debt.

Literary Society Elections.

Theta Alpha elected the following officers for the winter term, on Friday evening:

President—Burpee, '01.
Vice President—Bechtel, '01.
Secretary—Bresenhaur, '03.
Treasurer—Taylor, '03.
Critic—Heckert, '02.
Censor—Carringer, '03.
Curator—Hart, '03.

Emepia elected the following officers on Friday evening, for the coming term:

President—John Stephens, '01.
Vice President—Robinson, '02.
Secretary—Cule, '04,
Treasurer—Beaver, '02.
Critic—Weaver, '03.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Livezey, '04.

The Reserves had their picture taken at Ginter & Cook's studio on Monday afternoon.

Roger Edwards, '04, has been appointed assistant baseball manager for next spring.

Dr. Harris was in Philadelphia on Monday, attending the banquet given by the Bucknell Alumni Club of Phila.

The Marsh Mission Sunday school which is under the direction of Singdeiser, '03, Friend, '03, and Williams, '03, held its Christmas entertainment on Saturday evening.

Anderson, '01, delivered an address before the Young People's Societies of Northumberland, last Saturday night. His subject was "Life a Sacred Trust." Goodall, Matthewson, Theis and Pearse furnished music.

The finance committee of the Athletic Association respectfully urges that outstanding subscriptions for the foot ball coach, be paid before the close of the week to the Registrar. It is urgent that this account be closed by the end of this term.

The date for the Indian-Bucknell football game has been finally settled and will take place on Oct. 12. The Williamsport papers are enthusiastic over the coming of the Indians next fall, and they estimate that a large crowd will be in attendance. The student body and the lovers of football in the town are greatly pleased that the game has been scheduled. The date is a most satisfactory one.

Prof. Hamblin's Address.

Prof. Hamblin delivered an address before the Shakespere club last Friday evening. The topic, in substance, was the economy of time that could be obtained by a college man if he would devote more of his leisure to systematic reading. The professor said in substance; We are too apt to spend our time in reading that class of literature which is of no benefit to us. A man should not spend more than twenty minutes on an ordinary newspaper. We should read with a purpose in veiw not permiscuously. Read hard and develop powers to think. If a college man would read ten or twelve pages a day he would in his college course, read forty eight volumes. This is enough to read some of the best literature and cover the history of the world. We should begin to form a library early in life. If you smoke, quite the habit and buy books with your tobacco money.

Basketball.

The basketball season is here and was opened by Bucknell, last term, when the Milton Y. M. C. A. team was taken into camp to the tune of 40 to 5. The prospects are that we, as formerly, will again have a strong and winning team. Among the old players there are Elliott, Davis, Bevan, Stanton, Mathewson, Theis and Goodall, while among the new candidates we find prominent men in Groff, English, Griffith and a host of others who will make good players before the season is over. In order to develop this material into a team there is needed the cooperation of the entire student body. It is the wish and desire of both the captain and coach that at least about fifteen or twenty men will be present at every practice to line up against the boys, who are to uphold the orange and blue throughout the broad schedule that is before them. This will also give the different classes a chance to size up their material and get it into shape for the class games. Manager Burrowes has arranged the following schedule.

Jan. 12.	Quaker City at Lewisburg.
Jan. 19.	U. of P. at Lewisburg.
Jan. 26.	Dickinson at Lewisburg.
Feb. 1.	W'msport. Y. M. C. A. at Williamsport.
Feb. 5.	Syracuse at Lewisburg.
Feb. 8.	Gettysburg at Gettysburg.
Feb. 9.	Dickinson at Carlisle.
Feb. 12.	W'msport. Y. M. C. A. at Lewisburg.
Feb. 15.	Pittston Y. M. C. A. at Pittston.
Feb. 16.	Wyoming Seminary at Kingston.
Feb. 22.	Bloomsburg Normal at Lewisburg.
Mar. 2.	Cornell at Lewisburg.
Mar. 8.	W'msport. Y. M. C. A. at Williamsport.
Mar. 12.	Gettysburg at Lewisburg.
Mar. 15.	Allegheny at Meadville.
Mar. 16.	Homestead A. C. at Homestead.

The following prospective games are being arranged for the Easter vacation:

Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y.
Syracuse at Syracuse, N. Y.
Hamilton at Clinton, N. Y.

Spring Athletics.

This is the term when the preliminary work for the spring athletic contests is begun. Coach Hoskins is at present taking the measurements of the students, after which he will start his regular classes. The success of our field and track athletics depends very much upon the work and training that is done this term. There will undoubtedly again be an indoor gymnasium meet the latter part of the term, which any student has the opportunity of entering and capturing some of the prizes. The baseball candidates will also be given an opportunity to practice in the cage some time before the weather permits outside work. It is hoped that every student will have some time to spare, and take up some work by which he may be able to help his class win a contest. There are many athletes in college who are not aware of their abilities as long as they do not come out and try for something.

Class Games.

This year we will again have the opportunity of seeing the classes struggle for supremacy in basket ball. Coach Hoskins has presented the cup which will be the prize for the winning class. This cup will be contested for annually, and will go to the class that makes the best percentage after having played all the others. This will create a greater interest in basket ball, and will bring out and develop basket ball material which would otherwise remain unknown. The following is this year's schedule:

Jan. 14.	4.15 p. m.	1904 vs.	1902.
Jan. 31.	8.00 p. m.	1904 vs.	1903.
Feb. 13.	4.15 p. m.	1901 vs.	1903.
Feb. 19.	8.00 p. m.	1901 vs.	1902.
Feb. 27.	4.15 p. m.	1901 vs.	1904.
Mar. 5.	8.00 p. m.	1902 vs.	1903.

In The Dickinsonian of December 7, the following statement is made: "During the past month a movement has been started among Lafayette, Lehigh, Gettysburg, Swarthmore, Haverford and Ursinus having as its aim the establishment of an oratorical league." Evidently the author has been misinformed. This league has already been organized nine years.

BY THE TIME a college man reaches the end of his four-years' course, he usually is impressed more or less with his own importance. He has read statistics which prove that only one man out of every hundred in America is a college man, and out of this one per cent. come sixty-nine per cent. of America's successful and prominent citizens. The undergraduate realizes that he will belong to this powerful "one per cent," and understands that he is to be one of a body of men which possesses an influence far greater in proportion to its numbers than any other class of men in the nation. When this thought has obtained possession of an undergraduate, an interesting psychological transformation takes place within him. He has been accustomed to think that a man is rewarded for his honest endeavors, and for nothing else. Lazy men formerly seemed on the way to become "tramps" and vagabonds. All this was before he realized how important a creature was a man with a degree. Now his ideas have been brought up to date. They are no longer the namby-pamby ideas his mother or father taught him. Persistent effort, courageous adherence to duty in the face of apparently harmless relaxations, unyielding determination to do the thing next at hand—all these things that once seemed good and desirable, now appear too stern and binding. "College men are influential merely from the fact that they are college men." Such are the thoughts of the average man at some time or other during his four years at college.

A college man alone can appreciate the strength with which these thoughts attack one, and seek to call him to a life of sloth. Many a man has thrown away his career on the cushions of his dormitory; many a good fellow has succumbed to the insidious temptation to do just enough work to wriggle through college and capture a degree. When such a man meets the world he finds it has no use for him. The American whirligig of politics, business, science, and letters spins so rapidly that the light, airy men are whirled off into outer darkness.

There is no reason, then, why a man should go through college as easily and listlessly as he can. Such a training only unfits him for later usefulness. Often the power of indolent habits will become so strong that he cannot shake them off in his business or professional career, and is therefore forced to take a lower niche in the wall than the one to which his powers entitle him.

The good is the greatest enemy enemy of the better, and nowhere more hostile than in college. Bright men who swim along on a reputation, clever fellows who look pityingly on the plodders, brilliant, lazy men, remember that the hare and tortoise story is not too homely to contain a truth.

THE ORANGE & BLUE greets all its subscribers and wishes everyone success at the opening of a new year and century. If Bucknell continues to develop in the opening years of the new century as it has in the closing years of the old, it will undoubtedly rank among the first colleges of its kind in the country.

Colonial Dance.

The Daughters of the American Revolution gave a reception in the parlors of the Lewisburg Cycle Club, Friday evening. The chief feature of the evening's entertainment was a colonial dance. The dancers were attired in colonial costumes and presented a very picturesque appearance. Amongthose who took part in the dance were Goodman, Sausser, S. C. Smith, and Burrows, of the college.

At the meeting of the Associations of Universities, Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle States and Maryland, recently held at the University of Pennsylvania, one of the most interesting topics considered was the one by Prof. Baker, of Harvard, on Intercollegiate Debating. During his discussion he said that, in the preparation for such a contest, there is danger of losing sight of the fundamental idea of debating—"truth for truth's sake;" but that on the other hand such a debate gives an ever present inspiration and aim to the earnest worker. This is exactly what Bucknell needs. The world demands men and women who can deliver their thoughts extempore, and the aim of the best teachers in oratory is to train men to deliver set speeches with extempore effect, because the masses object to memorized productions. Since the world demands this ability, it is the duty of the college to cultivate it, and the best means of becoming proficient in debating is an intercollegiate debate, and Bucknell ought to arrange an annual debate with a college of equal standing.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1901 No. 14

Bucknell 28; Quaker City 10.

The second game of the season was played on Saturday afternoon when Bucknell defeated the Quaker City team by the above score.

Shortly after 2.30 Referee Hoskin's whistle called the two teams to the floor with Bucknell defending the south goal. In size both teams were very evenly matched and for a few minutes it was a "toss up" as to which side had the advantage. Brown of the Quaker City team, dropped the first basket and was roundly applauded for his good work.

After missing a number of shots Bucknell shortly made a "basket" tying the score. Then for a while the game grew fast and furious. Elliot and Davis each scored twice more before the end of the half; with the score 10-2 in favor of the home team the spectators had settled down comfortably again when Brown gave their nerves a serious jolt by dropping two goals in quick succession making the score 10-6. No more scoring was done during this half which the timers' whistle soon ended.

Quaker City came to the field in the second half determined to do or die. For a short while they infused an amount of ginger into their play that made the game fast and snappy. Bucknell's "fatal hālf" seems to be confined to football, however, and the pace they set in the second half was worthy of a better reward than 18 points. If they had not had the hardest luck possible in goal shooting no doubt the score would have been nearly doubled.

Despite their heroic efforts in this half Quaker City could score but two points, and again the credit fell to Brown who was the only one able to locate the basket.

The pace seemed to be too much for the Philadelphia boys, and they gave up all hopes of winning, as was shown by their half-hearted style of play towards the last of the game.

The game was a very pleasing one to watch, being replete with fine individual work and occasional bits of team work hard to beat. It is rather unfortunate that all teams do not use exactly the same rules; this leads to misunderstanding and sometimes hard feeling in a game. The absence of any such disagreements was a pleasing feature of Saturday's contest, tho the two teams did not observe the same rules concerning dribbling, the use of both hands, etc.

Bucknell's victory is no doubt due to superior team work—the result of faithful practice.

Individually the Quaker City lads were much quicker and played a far snappier game than our boys, and their team work was fine at times, but lacking consistency. Bucknell's, on the other hand, was seldom brilliant, barring one or two fine plays, but was steadier, and well sustained throughout.

Evidently our boys did not have their "shooting clothes" on; so many misses have seldom been seen in one game on the home floor, and had not good team work given numerous chances, the result might have been different. This difficulty ought to be

This game is really the first opportunity given us to size up the team, as it is the first hard game of the season. The result is most encouraging, and tho many mistakes were made it is plain that the boys have the right idea in mind viz: team work.

The small attendance was rather a disappointment and we hope that the game with U. P. may see the house crowded to its fullest capacity. To those who have felt mistrustful of the gallery, we wish to say that it has been newly braced by a number of large wooden beams and iron posts and is now fully capable of holding any crowd that may assemble. Come out and help the boys again next Saturday.

Elocution Recital.

The first of the students' elocution recitals was given in the Institute chapel on Friday evening, January 11th, before a large audience of ladies from town, college and Institute.

The program was as follows:

Star Spangled Banner —Miss Schillinger.
Bugle Song—Tennyson —Miss Elsie Seiler.
A Fleeting Show of Hen—Miss Allen.
Lady Clare—Tennyson —Miss Hazel Fiske.
Archie Dean —Misses Sechrist and Browning.
Marianna—Tennyson—Miss Martin.
a. A R. R. Scene
b. Nine Little Goblins —Miss Olive Schillinger.

These recitals, the first of which was very successful, are to be given frequently throughout the year. That Miss Schillinger is an able and accomplished teacher is shown by the increasing number of students in her department. Under her direction the Girl's Dramatic Club is preparing a play to be given on January 25th.

Institute.

Miss Kline, '00, spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Paterson '03.

Miss May Sowers entertained her sister on Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Bessie Williams, '04, and Miss Gregg, of Sunbury, were guests at the Institute Friday evening.

Miss Louise Gregory, Inst., ex-'00, died recently at her home in Oil City. On account of illness she was compelled to give up her work at the end of the fall term last year. She was a very bright, interesting and ambitious girl, held in high esteem by her fellow students among whom she was a power for good. She was an enthusiatic worker in the C. A. A. in which she held the office of secretary.

Mr. Bentz, a student of Central Pennsylvania college, visited his sister, Miss Elsie, college '01, last Sun-

Inter-Class Basketball.

Last week's ORANGE AND BLUE published the schedule of class games. These class games are important features of our mid-winter sports and should be encouraged by both your patronage and competition for the team. The fact that Bucknell has such good basketball teams is largely due to the class contests which develop and bring out the young players, thus fitting them for the varsity later on. An equally important reason for a large attendance is the finiancial need. The price, 50c for six games, is within the reach of all.

Coach Hoskins has generously donated a cup for annual competition, the winner's name to be inscribed there upon each year. The competition for that honor ought to be spirited and lively. It sometimes happens, as at present, that one class has an apparent advantage. This should not prevent any other class from putting a team in the field. One class can not hold its advantage for ever; victory is never certain until won and it is a narrow loyalty to one's college that cannot over look a possible defeat.

The schedule, as posted, we hope to see carried out, no matter who wins. We are not playing for brick houses but to benefit the college.

Bucknell Alumnae Club.

At the January meeting of the Alumnae Club on Tuesday evening, January 8th, the following program was rendered.

Paper—France under L. Napolion —Mrs. Gretzinger.
Discussion, led by Miss M. Thomas —Lewisburg Sidewalks.
Selections—Miss Schillinger.

David Elliott, '98, has gone to Scranton, from where he and his wife will leave for a trip to Los Angeles, California.

Dr. Harris went to Philadelphia last Thursday to attend the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University.

Watts, ex-academy, who was the guest of Schleier last week, was confined to his bed by illness for several days. He left for Carlisle on Saturday to resume his studies in Dickinson college.

Dr. J. A. Hornberger, '84, is the successful assistant manager of the educational department of Rand, McNally & Co., Chicago. Dr. Hornberger has taken, on examination, the degrees of Doctor of Philosophy and Doctor of Pedagogy, and has also spent some time at the University of Chicago. Since leaving college he has taught and lectured with great

Chemical and Physical Society.

The first regular meeting of the Chemical and Physical Society for this term, convened in the lecture room of the Laboratory last Thursday evening at four o'clock. President Owens was in the chair. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. There being no vice president, owing to the absence of Mr. Simons, the attention of the society was directed toward the selection of a candidate for this office.

Prof. F. M. Simpson was unanimously elected and introduced Prof. Owens who spoke on "Chemistry and Physics of the Nineteenth Century." This discussion was a recapitulation of the work done and the advancement made along these lines during the past hundred years. Draper's Chemistry, under date of 1846, was cited as being one of the first books on the subject; only one organic substance was then known and the book was largely a treatise on physics. Olmstead's Natural Philosophy in two volumes, under date of 1838, was also mentioned. In chemistry much has been done; the close of the century finds 75 elements as over against 22 at the beginning; Bessimer steel was one of the most important inventions of the period; this brought into prominence and improvement ships, cannon, fire proof structures, etc. In 1849 the whole world produced 32,000,000 tons of iron and 20,000,000 tons of steel; iron and nickle plating, the extraction of gold by the cyanide process, aluminum manufacture and the friction match industry were each mentioned and explained as playing their role in the century,s advancement along chemical lines. Under organic chemistry were mentioned the manufacture of organic substances from inorganic elements, anolin dyes, vulcanizing rubber, improvements in sugar manufacture, the nitro compounds, oleo business, ether, chloroform and gas manufacture.

Under physics were discussed among other things, the typewriter, printing press, reaper, phonograph, telephone, steam ship, engines and locomotive. These things have been greatly improved and simplified. The wood industry was explained as was also civil engineering. Photography, color printing, and the spectroscope were discussed under the subject of light. The rest of the hour was used in speaking of the phenomenal advances in electricity.

Meeting was then adjourned to meet January 24, when Prof. Simpson will address the society.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Galbreath, of Franklin, spent Sunday and Monday with their son, Chas. Galbreath, special.

Boilers Arrive.

Two new boilers for the University light and power house arrived and were unloaded on the siding at the house. A strong analogy may readily be traced between a great modern manufacturing establishment and a twentieth century university. Both receive periodically large quantities of raw material and it is the aim and purpose of each to turn out finished articles.

The manufacturer finds some parts of his supplies upon which even the most careful attention produces little effect. We must admit that among our material we also meet similar conditions. Some of us apparently never get beyond the raw material state. We have fellows among us who will neither study themselves, nor permit others to do so. Their uncouth savage souls revel in the rattling of tin pails as they trundle along the halls, chuckling with barbaric glee over the thought that the whole wing is being upset by an action which emanated from their fertile brain. They call it fun, well, perhaps it is. Much depends upon the point of view. A certain portion of our student body have borne with these "tin tin tabulations" night and day all this year, until patience has ceased to be a virtue and vigorous action is recommended.

Non nobis solum runs the legend on our portal. Recruits, this picturesque hill, these varied forest trees, beautiful winding paths and splendid buildings represent the thought and money of many decades of this instition's friends. All these benefits, planned and accomplished long before you were born, have been generously handed over for your enjoyment. Some of us forget the legend and consequently our seats in classrooms are beautifully carved with initials and other artistic designs, displaying the carver's keen appreciation of the teachers efforts.

Our new gradings are run over and destroyed, crude designs upon our paths attract the eyes. Of course, these things may appear trivial, yet they evidence thoughtlessness and selfishness and men's characters are read largely through such trifles.

How can we remedy these evils? The desecration of paths and buildings must, we think, be largely left to the individual to rectify. But he who by causing continual disturbance annoys others and prevents them from studying and by so doing robs them of their rights can and must be dealt with. How! by hazing? No, most of our students have passed that stage. By reporting? That is beneath the dignity of a University man. Let the upper classmen get together. Let them send a committee to wait upon the disturbers, and let the committee impress upon them the necessity of reform and the results of relapse. Lest they forget.

Why has Bucknell no musical club? This is a question that frequently presents itself not only to strangers but to students as well. It is a matter for wonder that in an institution of this size there is practially no interest shown in musical organizations, while there is scarcely one of the smaller schools that has not an orginazation of this character.

This has been the case here for a number of years, and the apparent lack of enthusiasm cannot easily be accounted for. The plea of insufficient time for practice could scarcely be accepted, in view of the time that is now devoted to athletics, shows, and society; nor could it be truthfully said that there is not enough talent in the school.

Probably the real reason that Bucknell is not represented by any musical organizations, is that no person is willing to begin a movement in that direction and take upon himself the responsibility connected with it, which shows a decided lack of college spirit.

It is admitted that an organization of this character is an excellent advertisement for a school, and Bucknell should by all means have a musical club of some kind. Our musicians should consider this matter; something should be done without further delay.

Dillon, '98, and wife, now in London, are rejoicing in the birth of a daughter. They hope to return to America in the spring.

Frank Anderson, '01, J. L. Kalp, '03, and Karl Tiffany, '03, were initiated into the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity last week.

John Sherman, '00, has accepted an unanimous call to the Picture Rocks Baptist church. His pastorate will commence February 1st. Pearson, '01, will take charge of the College Book Store.

A much needed improvement has been made in the Gymnasium. New and substantial supports have been placed under the running gallery, making it perfectly safe for spectators at the basketball games.

As we go to press the Freshmen and Junior class basketball teams are struggling for victory in the Tustin Gymnasium. The freshmen are putting up a valiant fight, but things look rather dubious for them just now.

The friends of Dr. Frederick W. Brown, a former student and subsequent instructor in the University, will be pleased to learn that, during the brief period of six months, he has established an extensive practice in Franklin, his native town.

H. H. Bower, '96, was admitted to the Snyder county bar last week, having passed a very creditable examination. He received the Democratic nomination for Assembly in Snyder county, and although defeated, he succeeded in reducing the Republican majority to a very low figure.

At a meeting of the class of 1902 last Tuesday, it was decided that the class should follow precedent by giving a Junior Ball during the winter season. The date of the dance has not been definitely settled but it will probably take place about the middle of February.

Miss Carrie Halfpenny was elected fraternity editor of the L'Agenda in place of K. C. Pritchard, who has not returned to school.

John Davis was elected vice-president of the class in place of W. C. Gray.

The Wyoming Bucknell Game.

The third game of the local basket-ball series was played in the Tustin gymnasium on Saturday night, when Bucknell succeeded in taking the scalp of Wyoming by the score of 24-10. This is the third successive victory for the home team and speaks well for the future prospects.

The game was called with Bucknell's strongest team on the floor and for a few minutes neither side scored. Bucknell played a fine passing game, but the Wyoming lads were both eager and active and were strictly in the game, frequently breaking up Bucknell's offense, blocking shooting for goals, and in general making things interesting for the wearers of the orange and blue. Bucknell's team work, however, was decidedly the better, few shots being risked until the man was clear under the basket. Wyoming on the other hand, was wild in shooting and Bucknell's superior offense broke up their passing almost immediately.

After several minutes of play Bucknell scored her first tally, and soon lande d a second. The next one was not forthcoming so easily, but at length that too dropped, making the score 6-0. Towards the end of the half three more were made, raising the score to 12, while Wyoming failed to tally.

The second half opened with Wyoming playing much faster ball and the game grew in interest, as the teams appeared more evenly matched. Wyoming shot three goals and Bucknell four, when Bevan retired, Theis taking his place. Each side scored twice more before the half was over, make the score for the half 12-10 and the final score 24-10.

The game throughout was very interesting being full of action and nice team work. Few individual plays were made worth mentioning, the only brilliant one being Taggart's long goal; but then that was mere luck and not good playing. The prettiest work of the evening was the team work of Bucknell; their passing being really fine. In goal shooting they are still deficient, many good opportunities to score being lost by poor shooting. Our boys have reason to pride themselves on their game but can only hope to be victorious in the future by the same faithful practice and general team work.

Line up:

Bucknell	Position	Wyoming
Davis	Forward	Blakslee
Elliott	"	Taggart
Mathewson (Groff)	Center	Nebinger
Bevan (Theis)	Guard	Bryden
Stanton	"	Johnson

Goals from field: Elliott 6; Davis 2; Matthewson 2; Groff 1; Taggart 1; Blakslee 1; Nebinger 1; Bryden 1. Goals from foul: Blakslee; Time of halves, twenty minutes.

Anditor's Report.

Bechtel and Dunlap, the committee appointed by the President of the Athletic Association to audit the Treasurer's account report, the account correct. The sum of $2,892.00 was handled y the Treasurer during the year.

1902-1904 Game.

Despite the fact that 1902 had the advantage of several 'Varsity men, the Freshmen and Junior game on Monday proved exceedingly interesting and grew in interest as the game progressed.

Referee Hoskin's whistle called the two teams to the floor about 4:30 and it was several minutes before either side scored, the game being hotly contested. The superior team work of the Juniors soon had the Freshmen guessing and the goals began to drop with a pleasing regularity, until 14 points had been piled up to the Freshmen's 3. Every point, however, was fiercely contested, and 1904 put up a plucky and gallant defense. Johnson, 1904, was the lucky man who threw the goal for his team, while captain Griffiths added a couple more points by a brace of goals from fouls.

The second half was even faster and more interesting than the first. The Juniors having a safe lead let up a a trifle while 1904 put on a few more notches. The latter frequently developed some very pretty bits of passing in this half which kept '02 busy breaking it up, but they were unable to get another basket, while the Juniors added a couple by way of "cinching" the game.

A fairly good number were in attendance but we hope to see double the number at the next class contest. The class yelling was a pleasing feature—it evidences the right spirit—keep it up. Of the Freshmen we would say they are a fast team and will give some of their rivals a very good hustle to win. The next contest is between 1901 and 1903. All come out.

Line up:

1902		1903
Elliott	Attack	Hoelzel
Davis (Capt)	"	Shepard
Mathewson	Center	Groff
Theis	Defense	Johnson
English (Stanton)	"	Griffiths (Capt.)

Goals: Davis 3; Mathewson 3; Theis 1; Johnson 1 Goals from fouls Griffiths 2: Officials Hoskins and Burrowes. Time of halves, 15 minutes.

Quayites Celebrate.

All faithful followers of M. S. Quay turned out on Tuesday night to celebrate the glorious victory of their candidate. Although sadly lacking in numbers, they made up the deficiency by a show of enthusiasm which has seldom been surpassed at Bucknell. They made the old halls ring with appropriate songs and yells for the Old Man, the machine, the stalwart Republicans and the turn coat Democrats. The celebration ended with a stirring and patriotic speech by Mr. Williams, '01.

Chemical and Physical Society.

At the meeting of Chemical and Physical Society this week, Prof. F. M. Simpson will discuss "The Motor as applied to the Trolley Car." If you want to know what makes the car go, come to the Lab. at four o'clock on Thursday afternoon. Everybody welcome.

Purdy, '98, of Sunbury, called on Lewisburg friends on Saturday night.

Track Men!

Coach Hoskins has issued a call for all track men, especially relay men, to report in the gymnasium at least three times a week from now on; he will assign special work to each man according to his ability and the events he wishes to enter. This preliminary work is very essential to all the track men, for besides keeping up their general health it developes them all around and especially those muscles to be used later on.

Though somewhat arduous, no track man can afford to neglect this preliminary work. Practical work will be done in jumping, vaulting, running and putting the weights, and faithful work now means a much better record later on in the year. The first meet this year will be the Relay Races at Philadelphia on April 27th. Every man is eligible for this team and the coach desires as many candidates as possible. An interclass meet will also be held as a preliminary to our intercollegiate meets when we will face the Indians, Lehigh and probably Dickinson. That is a seasons' work well worth training for and we ask that every man of last year's squad and all the new men who can will endeavor to make the track team. Come out and begin now.

A very vigorous protest has been made against the editorial on musical clubs published in this column last week. As the purpose of the article was entirely misconstrued by many of our readers an explanation will be simply just to all concerned.

The statement that Bucknell has no musical organizations was not intended by the writer as a "false" or "malicious" attack on either the Ladies' Guitar and Mandolin Club or the Mandolin Club of the College. Although it has been suggested that we know nothing about music, we will venture the opinion that both are excellent musical clubs, of which the University may justly feel proud. They reflect great credit on those in charge of the School of Music, particularly Dr. Aviragnet. To his zealous efforts and unselfish expenditure of both money and time, these clubs undoubtedly owe their success.

The writer, however, had something entirely different in mind when he called attention to the fact that we have no musical organizations. He referred to a Glee or Mandolin Club with a permanent organization which, under the direction of a competent business manager, would make tours among the neighboring towns and cities. Bucknell has had a number of such organizations, which met with various degrees of success financially. They were, without exception, splendid musical clubs and did much to benefit the College by spreading abroad in the land the name and fame of Alma Mater. All this happened when the College was about half its present size and there were not enough musicians at Bucknell to compose even a good sized chapel choir. Those who know say that never before in the history of the University has Bucknell had such an abundance of musical talent as at present. The Mandolin and Guitar Club numbers forty-two members. Princeton's musical club, which is recognized as one of the best in the country, numbers thirty-two. We have the musicians; we have competent leaders and instructors. Nothing is lacking but organization and management and it is plainly the duty of the college students to supply this lack.

It seems to us that college loyalty ought to be placed in the list of things that a University man should possess; doubtless we all have it in a greater or less degree but most of us seem to rejoice in our ability to hide it. Before the enemy and ourselves decided to have nothing more to do with each other, it used to burst forth in lurid flashes each November. But that belongs to the past.

Class spirit heightens the color of college life, gives it tone and helps us to bear its exactions more easily than we otherwise could. Of course every man and woman in college is brimful of class spirit. If anyone doubts it let him experiment in that line and find out. Nevertheless, when we pass our Sophomore year we place it away on the shelf somewhere and it never appears again.

Our coach, recognizing the monotony of study, has tried to enliven it somewhat by a series of inter-class basket ball contests. He has offered a beautiful trophy cup to the winner, a prize worthy of the best efforts of every class in the school. The enjoyment and excitement of these contests will be the best entertainment course offered in our midst this season, while the expense is nominal. How have the efforts of the athletic committee in our interests been rewarded? Apathy seems to have spread its blighting cloak around us.

How the mighty have fallen! Only the other winter a certain portion of our student body won everlasting renown for their snow-eating ability. Overwhelmed by superior numbers, perferring death to dishonor, they nobly held the fort against fearful odds. The other day these same people decided not to enter the inter-class contest Has the development of their brain destroyed their brawn? The confession is ludicrous. "We will not enter a team as a class, but we will support the members of our class who contest." The question is raised, in the event of these members winning, to whom would the cup belong?

Mid-Winter Dance.

A coterie of young men, including several students, gave a very enjoyable dancing party in the Armory on Friday evening. Twenty-five couples of young people were in attendance. The music, furnished by Fischler's orchestra, of Williamsport, is said never to have been surpassed in Lewisburg. Among the students who attended were the following: Harvey, '02, Smith, '01, Stanton, '02, Packer, '02, Elliott, '02, Green, '02, White, '04, Galbrath. Hon. F. A. Godcharles Dr. Clinger, James and Harry Chamberlin, of Milton, were also present.

The first of the inter-class contests is over. It was well worth travelling far to see. How the followers of one side did cheer the noble work of their players, causing the gymnasium to rock on its foundations with their encouraging shouts. The representatives of the other class did noble work but it was not appreciated as scarcely any of their class-mates were present to encourage, so their best efforts went unrewarded.

It is not too late to mend this seeming lack of interest. During the remainder of these contests let the members of the various classes come out in strength and shout for their players and encourage them to win the beautiful trophy which will testify to the athletic prowess of the successful class.

Bucknell Victorious.

Bucknell's first college game has been played and won and another scalp now dangles at her girdle, making the chain complete—four games, four victories.

As a result of the closeness of last year's Dickinson games and the reputed ability of that aggregation, a large crowd was present and Bucknell's fastest team was on hand to give the Red and White a good hustle. The gallery was well filled and the circle of animated faces overhead made a fine setting for the struggle below. College spirit was likewise in evidence and each successful shot was rewarded by generous applause, irrespective of the thrower's colors. The building was warm enough to suit all and there was not lacking a single feature that would make the game an ideal one.

Coach Hoskins handled the whistle for the evening, and its first summons brought both teams to the floor shortly after eight, with Bucknell defending the south goal.

A basketball game is more easily seen than described and the best we can say is, the first half was lively. The Dickinson team were hustlers and "slippery as eels," but were lacking in team work, tho at times they developed streaks that made the faithful shiver. It was not that they played poorly, but that Bucknell played better—that's why the first half ended 23-5.

The passing of Bucknell's three forward men and the general team work during this half is worthy of more than mere mention. Without doubt it was the finest exhibition seen on the local floor this season. When on the aggressive, the passing was fast and accurate, the forwards usually uncovered and the shooting more accurate than in any game so far. The defensive work was hardly so good, Dickinson being left uncovered too much. Our backs, however, played well defensively and closely watched their men. Dickinson's small score is largely due to their good work. This half was fast throughout, but not unnecessarily rough, though a number of fouls were called.

Dickinson came on the floor in the second half and started the game with a rush. Their work was far ahead of that of the first half, and their passing very good. It netted them two goals before Bucknell succeeded in breaking it up, and it made the rooters stir uneasily in their seats. Then our boys again settled down and "all was lovely." Groff and Theis were substituted in this half for Mathewson and Bevan, and the score for the second half was 10-4 in our favor, making the total 33-9.

There are numerous features of this game worthy of note. One of the most pleasing was the absence of unnecessary roughness and ungentlemanly conduct on the part of the players, so prevalent among athletic clubs. The Dickinson men were all gentlemen and it is a pleasure to compete with such fellows. Umpire Hoskin's decisions were fair and impartial, which is as satisfactory to Bucknell as to Dickinson.

The attendance was good, insuring the financial end of the game. This as well as the loyalty evinced by the applause and cheers, is appreciated by the players, and they deserve these tokens of appreciation as their victories are possible only through faithful training and hard practice.

We hope to see future games even better patronized.

Dr. Perrine's Lecture.

On last Thursday evening Dr. Perrine delivered another of his interesting and instructive lectures before the Shakespere Club. He spoke on the subject, "Shakespere's Relation to the Dramatic World before Him,".

First, the world's dramatic movement, which reached its culmination in the Elizabethan age, had its origin in the genius of the Greeks. So far as we know there were no models prior to that time. Then he took up the classical drama and the characteristics, which marked it at that time. (1) It took some brief incident of history or the occurrence of a day and presented that only. (2) The characters were few, at first only one. (3) Action was slight; mostly declaiming and choruses. (4) Speaking was largely recitative. Actors were clad in gorgeous robes. (5) The scenery in the drama was almost nothing, the places being designated merely by sign boards set up on the stage. (6) There was no attempt to represent life as it was. (7) They insistedon what they called the "Unities". These were, (a) unity of action, (b) unity of time, (c) unity of place. The unity of action was essential to the drama; those of time and place, accidental. (7) They allowed no mixture of comedy and tragedy. The Greek drama was not a representation of life but was used simply as a means of instruction. On account of lack of time the Doctor did not speak of the modern drama but kindly consented to discuss that in another lecture.

Baseball Captain.

At a special meeting called last week, Yencer Weidensaul was unanimously elected Captain of the Baseball Team for the coming season. All indications seem to foretell a very prosperous season in this branch of athletics.

The University of Chicago this year leads the other American institutions of learning in the number of enrolled students. Harvard has held the record heretofore.

Subscriptions to "The Orange and Blue" are now due. All who have not attended to same please do so at once.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The regular meeting of the Chemical and Physical Society was held in the Lecture room of the Laboratory last Thursday evening at four o'clock. President W. G. Owens was in the chair. The minutes of previous meeting were read and approved, when the president introduced Prof. F. M. Simpson, who spoke during the hour on "The Electric Motor as applied to the Trolley Car." The lecture was illustrated with blue prints of the various electrical appliances showing the manner of their working, etc.

The Electric Motor is characterized by its simplicity, durability and strength. The aim in its application to the trolley car is to secure motion in a complete circle. The manner in which this is accomplished was very cleverly shown by steps, technical yet lucid, leading through magnetic attraction and repulsion, motion on a horizontal axis, in a perpendicular plane, demagnetizing and changing the polarity of the magnet, etc. The making of the electric magnet, armature and commutator together with their several uses were each explained. With these preliminaries the passage of the current through the car, the dynamo system in the power house etc., were clearly set forth.

The talk was very instructive and cleared many mysteries existing in reference to the trolley car system.

The meeting was adjourned to meet Feb. 7.

NECROLOGY.

Prof. Louis B. Sinnette, Class of '97.

Louis Browning Sinnette, Professor of Higher Mathematics at the Keystone State Normal school, Kutztown, died of pneumonia on Sunday morning January 20th. Prof. Sinnette's sickness began with La Grippe, turning to pneumonia which after an illness of only six days resulted in his untimely death.

Prof. Sinnette was a member of the class of '97, and went to Kutztown immediately after graduation, where he assumed the assistancy in the department of mathematics. In a short time he was given entire charge of the chair of higher mathematics and held the same with credit and distinction both to himself and to the institution.

Prof. Sinnette was undoubtedly one of the best mathematicians that ever graduated from Bucknell. He took more courses in this department than any other student who ever left its portals. His influence in this direction was felt throughout the state and his proficiency was acquired by that energy and ambition which constantly characterized his life. During his vacations he took special courses in mathematics in Institutions abroad.

Kutztown, in the death of Mr. Sinnette, is called upon to mourn the death of its second Bucknell professor in this department; Mr. Sinnette having been elected to the faculty to fill the vacancy created by the death of Prof. Herbert Schuyler, '95.

In connection with his regular duties at the Normal he was elected editor of the "Normal Vidette," which is published quarterly in the interests of the school.

Mr. Sinnette was born in Wellsville, Allegheny county, N. Y., July 21, 1873. He is survived by a mother who is residing in Buffalo, and an only brother, located at Leipsic, Germany, studying music. His remains were removed to Buffalo and were interred at Utopia, Alleghany county, N. Y., on Tuesday afternoon. The deceased was a member of the Baptist church and of Huguenot Lodge, F. and A. M., No. 377, in which he was chosen junior warden at the last election. He was deeply loved by all who knew him and his friends who were in attendance during his illness were legion.

Mr. Sinnette had many friends in the University and in the town and his untimely death will be a source of great regret to all his friends and acquaintances.

Amongthevarious societies which help us during our college course one stands out in bold relief from the rest. Although its work is done in a quiet unassuming way, yet its influence is ever present. It would show us the path to the ideal life, while the actions of its members are the standard of manhood in our midst. Still, by far the best feature of this society is its breadth of purpose, since not only our college but also our state, our country, and the furtherest parts of the earth feel the benefits of its good deeds.

Classes have been established where every student has a splendid opportunity, among men of his own class, to study the word of God. Men like Mr. Soper come to us and inspire us by their thoughts and lives to endeavor to attain a higher plane. Meetings are held where all are benefited and from which earnest young men go forth to establish bible-classes Sunday-schools, and to preach the gospel in the surrounding districts.

Mr. Reno of last years' class is visiting the churches of our state in the interest of the students' missionary movement. In him we see a man with a high and unselfish purpose in life. Like the disciples he walks from place to place and sometimes has to sleep in the churches which he visits. For sustenance he is compelled to depend on the gifts of the faithful. Yet despite all the obstacles in his path he pleads for men whom he may never see again. Others go forth from this society each year carrying good news and inspiration to the multitude of men engaged in the lumber trade among the mountains of our state.

The prominent feature of this society's work, as we have seen, is the intense interest it takes in the individual whom it personally touches, hoping through him to reach the vast multitude of people both at home and abroad. Next term it will offer a course on mission work in South America and the methods of reaching those people, a subject which any student would find intensely interesting even if he had no intention of becoming a missionary. But our society has gone further and raised among the students a good round sum of money to help support a working missionary in far off China. Is not such work worthy the support and cooperation of every man in the institution?

College Notes.

Wellesly has recently received $100,000 for the endowment of two professorships.

Pennsylvania won in the intercollegiate debate with Columbia last month.

It is estimated that about five hundred students are working their way through Harvard.

Darthmouth is said to have published the first college paper. Daniel Webster was the editor-in-chief.

Princeton is to have a new up-to-date gymnasium built, which will cost between $200,000 and $250,000.

An attempt is being made to arrange for a four-cornered field meet between Rutgers, Haverford, Swarthmore and Franklin and Marshall.

Dartmouth College is trying to raise the sum of $1,000,000 for a fitting commemoration of the graduation of Daniel Webster, one hundred years ago.

The Yale musical clubs have returned from their extended trip. The trip lasted twenty-four days during which they covered 8000 miles and gave sixteen concerts.

The New York Sun has rated the first ten teams of the 1900 football season as follows:—Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Princeton, Lafayette, Cornell, Annapolis, West Point and Carlisle.

WILLIAMSPORT 8, BUCKNELL 5.

The Williamsport-Bucknell game, in the hall of the former on Friday last, was the most exciting contest witnesssd in Williamsport this season, as well as the closest and hardest game played there. Williamsport, it will be remembered, has not been beaten this year and claim they cannot be beaten on their own floor; so when we consider the closeness of the score, Bucknell is deserving of great credit for their fine game.

The Williamsport floor is hardly an ideal one, being very small in the first place, and having a row of four iron pillars directly in the center. These pillars, the smallness of the room, and the baskets are rather confusing to a visiting team, as open play and passing becomes almost an impossibility and the game assumes the nature of a football game rather than a basketball game, Williamsport allowing more than two men on the ball at once.

Bearing these facts in mind, it will be seen that Bucknell's game was a fine exhibition of defensive work.

The fine record of our own team had created great interest and enthusiasm, so that a great crowd was in attendance, filling the pit and running track, while the noise was deafening.

Play began at 8:15 and was fast and furious from the start. It was almost impossible to pass, so closely did the players guard one another, and several minutes elapsed before either side scored. Williamsport missed several long shots and Bucknell worked the ball up under the goal when Elliott got clear and dropped the ball in amid great applause—score 2-0. Shortly after Bucknell fouled and Stutsman neatly threw the goal, score 2-1. Again the game raged with fury and in the last minute of play Allee made a lucky goal from the field the ball bounding off a pillar into the basket—score 2-3. The whistle blew with Hoskins calling a foul and Bucknell was allowed a free throw but missed, and the half was over with a very close score of 2-3 in favor of Williamsport.

Williamsport started in the second half with a terrific spurt. After three minutes of play Stutsman threw one from the field and the score was 2-5. This seemed to give Williamsport inspiration and they played like fiends but Bucknell was on hand and the best they could do was one more goal made by Turner. Score 2-7. Then came Bucknell's turn and for throwing Mathewson Allee was penalized and Davis made the goal giving Bucknell one more point. Shortly afterward Davis missed a basket but recovered and threw to Mathewson and after a series of beautiful passes between them the ball went to Elliott, who was clear and neatly tossed it in, making the score 5-7. Enthusiasm increased but it was impossible for the game to be any hotter as the pace was already terrific. When the ball went out of bounds the players dove for it, and when in bounds they fought for it savagely. Still there was no element of intentional roughness or brutality in it. It was about at this stage that Bevan went headlong into the stone wall and was several minutes in recovering; however he pluckily finished the game. Time was almost up when Bucknell fouled and Stutsman again threw the goal, making the last tally of the game, the final score being Bucknell 5, Williamsport 8.

A Tie Game.

We are at a loss to know how to describe the first Freshman-Sophomore basketball game, but are strongly reminded of the title of that humorous comedy "A Box of Monkeys." To describe a basketball game in detail is next to impossible, especially when the players are inexperienced. The first half opened good and strong with ten active fellows on the floor animated by the strongest kind of partisanship and the fray was lively. It was almost impossible to call the fouls for obvious reasons, so that few free throws were allowed. Neither side succeeded in scoring for several minutes, and in fact neither side shot for the basket during the first five minutes. The only score in this half was made by Johnson, who very neatly dropped one basket and barely missed a couple of others. There was little passing from the fact that every man was fairly smothered the minute he got the ball.

The half was twice delayed by men being hurt, but they shortly took their places again and the game proceeded. Darlington and Capt. Griffiths afforded much amusement for the crowd by the manner in which they mixed it up, as well as gave their opponents several free throws for carrying the roughness a trifle too far. The freshmen were rather unlucky in shooting, as they missed a number of good chances to increase their lead, the score being 20 in their favor at the end of the half.

The second half began with only one change having been made—Hoelzel replacing I. Shepard. This half was more exciting than the first from the fact that tallies were made more frequently and the score remained very close. The same style of play was in evidence, but both teams appeared a trifle fagged. Darlington dropped two goals, Glaspey one and Capt. Reimensnyder two goals from fouls, while "Judge" Little dropped two from the field for 1904, making the score 8-6. The game grew in interest as the time grew short and partisan yells and cheers only added to the excitement.

Then, shortly before time was called "Judge" got in his third goal (which by the way, was a beauty) and tied the score. Neither side scored afterward, though both tried hard, but time was shortly called, and the tie was allowed to remain, no extra play being held to settle it. Line up.

How It Was Untied.

The game on Saturday evening was by far the most interesting and hard fought game seen on the local floor in a long time, even surpassing in fierceness and closeness that famous game of Monday evening.

The gymnasium was crowded to its utmost capacity, Sophs and Freshmen occupying different ends of the gallery and class yells, horns, bells and colors were decidedly in evidence.

The first half started with a rush, as most such games do, the Sophomores making good use of the time. Inside of three minutes Reimensnyder had landed the sphere in the basket and one great paroxysm of joy spread over the south end of the gallery. Reimensnyder's goal was shortly followed by Johnson's phenomenal tally while sitting on the floor and then the north end of the gallery rocked and quivered with enthusiasm.

On a foul Reimensnyder scored one, and Little shortly followed suit, making the score 3-3. Another goal from foul by Reimensnyder and a long goal by Glaspey netted the Sophomores 3 more, while the best 1904 could do was one point by Little on a foul, closing the half with 1903 two points to the good.

During the intermission the classes exchanged places, to be over the goal for which their men were contending.

The second half opened strongly Sophomore, with all the play in Freshmen territory and Reimensnyder for the fourth and last time was on hand with his little goal, putting the Sophomores 4 points ahead. The Freshmen took a brace, Shepard getting a field goal, Johnson one from a foul and Little tied the score by another free throw. Then the whistle blew.

Both captains agreeing, five minutes of play was held, fouls to count, but no one fouled and neither side scored. Then another 5 minutes was played and in the last minute or so "Judge" Little again did his stunt—the same that saved the day on Monday—and this time won for the Freshmen, the final score being 10-8.

DAY OF PRAYER SERVICES.

The customary services were held on Thursday, the Day of Prayer for Colleges, under the leadership of Dr. Campbell, of New York City. Dr. Campbell's addresses were eloquent, earnest and helpful. The meetings were well attended by the students and the services of the day undoubtedly did much to strengthen the spiritual life of the college.

The morning sermon was delivered in the Baptist church. Dr. Campbell took for his text John IV: 42. "Now we believe, not because of thy saying, for we have heard Him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world."

The question of belief in the Bible is of the utmost practical importance. If the Bible is of God, important consequences must be brought before us. Other nations have had bibles and gods. Can we determine with certainty whether our God is the supreme God?

A comparison of our Book with the books of Heathenism can leave no doubt of its infinite superiority. The inscriptions of Babylon and Egypt, now being unearthed, confirm many of the truths of our Bible. Additional evidence is furnished by the fulfilled prophecies.

Our belief in Christ is founded principally on (1) the testimony of others.

We have the life of Christ set forth in the gospels. The objection has been raised that these things occurred nineteen hundred years ago, in a superstitious age and before uncertain witnesses.

On the contrary, the age in which Christ lived was an enlightened age. Rome was at the height of her glory and intellect reigned supreme. It was an age of doubt, deceit and skepticism. Moreover, the disciples could not have been deceivers. They were persecuted and martyred for their belief, yet not one recanted.

We are in a better condition to judge of the truth of the gospel than were those who lived in that day. One may be too near an event to appreciate what it means. In the time of Christ there were multitudes who scorned him, laughed at his doctrines and attributed his powers to Satan. On the other side there was only a little band of disciples. We have all that the disciples had and much more. We know what the religion of Christ has accomplished since that time, what the Bible has endured and triumphed over.

Another foundation for our belief is personal experience. In order to know anything I must first supply the necessary condition. If I would learn History, Medicine or Mathematics, I must seek authorities, read text books, work out the propositions. So, if I would know Christ, I must supply the necessary conditions, must give myself up to Him. Taste and see that God is good.

The afternoon service was held in the Chapel. Dr. Campbell spoke about the change of heart as necessary for salvation.

A dead soul cannot enjoy Heaven. Heaven is a prepared place for a prepared people.

Ever since that exciting contest which ended in a tie game, there has been an abundance of class spirit on the hill. Some of our friends, calmly meditating upon the charms of Livy, others peacefully agreeing with the ideas of Pancoast, have been rudely roused from their reveries by war-whoops and the call to arms, mostly false alarms, to be sure. Nevertheless, banquets and rumors of banquets seem to be in the air these days, and it is doubtful if peace will come again until these festive gatherings are things of the past.

We notice that a new idea has come among us with the advent of the century. Other classes have hats and caps and various devices for showing their year. Truly, some have indulged in stout blackthorns, but they were always of the masculine persuasion. Lo! now it seems the fashion for ladies to carry canes and we welcome the idea as something distinctively novel.

Day of Prayer Services.

Education and culture will not change a man's heart any more than cultivating a tree will change the nature of its fruit. Change of environment and moral life, likewise fail to effect a change of heart. There must be a complete turning about and advance in the opposite direction. God alone through Christ, is able to accomplish this result.

In the evening Dr. Campbell spoke from Ephesians 3: 14, 15.

He said that sin introduced into the world broke up the human family, and it could be reunited by no human agencies. The blood of Christ, the love of God, the Holy Spirit's influence alone could bind all humanity together.

Taking the earthly family as a type of the heavenly he developed,

(1) The unity and permanency of the family, the existing relationships of which nothing can ever destroy.
(2) The diversity of the family.
(3) Its universality, and
(4) The heirship which this relation secures, that as christians we are heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ.

Glee Club Organized.

At a very enthusiastic meeting in Dr. Aviragnet's rooms on Tuesday last the Bucknell Glee & Mandolin Club was firmly established. The organization consists at present of 18 members, including soloists and reciters. Several trips are now being arranged and if the present interest is manifested throughout the season, it is safe to predict that Bucknell will really have a musical organization second to no other college; certainly we have the material, and a competent, energetic Musical Director.

Practice will be held at regular periods and every man is confidently expected to be on time, unless excused by the leader. Punctuality at rehearsals must be faithfully observed, if we wish the organization to be a pleasure and success instead of a drag and failure.

The following officers were unanimously elected:

Sam. C. Smith, '01, Manager; John A. Hague, '01, Leader: Lee M. Goodman, '01, Librarian; Accompanist, David A. Sausser, '01; Musical Director, Dr. E. Avirngnet.

The vocalists are:

1st tenors: Hague, '01; Pettibone, Mullen, '03; Goodall, '02: Williams, '03.

2nd tenors: Theis, '02: Knapp, '01; Galbraith, '04; Goodman, '01.

2nd bass: Rowe, '01; Senn, '03; Meschter, '01; Edwards, '03; Bond, '03.

Instrumental: Theis, Knapp, Sausser, Galbraith, Goodman, Senn, Meschter, Wolfe. Recitations, Stanton.

The University of Chicago this year leads the other American institutions of learning in the number of enrolled students. Harvard has held the record heretofore.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1901. No. 18

Three Great Collegiate Victories in One Week.

Bucknell Wins From University of Pennsylvania, Gettysburg and Dickinson. All by Decisive Scores.

Bucknell defeated U. P. on Tuesday evening in one of the most interesting games seen here this season, by the above score. This is Bucknell's fifth victory, only one game having been lost.

Several things conspired to make this game especially interesting. In the first place every one wanted to see the U. P. men play, and a good crowd was in attendance. Then, as Penn plays one set of rules and Bucknell plays another, it was necessary that an agreement be made whereby one half should be played under one set of rules, and the other half under the other set of rules. This of course, was something of a novelty, and added interest as to what would be the final outcome.

Our boys were fast and active, but in this particular they were hardly in the same class with the enemy. What Bucknell lacked in activity, however, she made up for by good team work, and this was the point wherein Pennsylvania was sadly deficient. The first few minutes of play, as is usually the case, were productive of no score, and then Bucknell shot one amid great applause. The passing of our forwards and the defense work of Stanton and Bevan was very pretty indeed. Captain Elliott was troubled with an injured eye, and it plainly bothered him; but notwithstanding this, he succeeded in landing his share of the baskets. Davis shot some fine baskets during this half, and Mathewson was rather in hard luck, making them bounce all around the rim, but not in, from some shots at long range. Bevan as usual, got in his one goal. When the half was up, the score stood 19-2 in our favor.

The second half, played according to the visitors' rules, which permitted dribbling and then shooting without passing, was more interesting than the first. This gave the visitors a chance to show themselves at their best and they started in at a great rate. Baillie shot three goals in as many minutes, and things looked alarming, as Bucknell seemed to be lost; but it was only for the minute, and after the home team did settle down, U. P. did not score again, while while 13 points were added to our end of the score.

The only weakness shown by our team has been a tendency to loose or slow play at the beginning of the second half, and it is just there that most of the scores have been made against Bucknell. On the whole, Tuesday night's game was very pleasing and satisfactory and the boys are to be commended on their good work.

Line up:

U. of P.	Bucknell.
Baillie	Forward — Elliott
Johnson	Forward — Davis
Susser	Centre — Mathewson
Davidson	Guard — Stanton
Darraugh	Guard — Bevan

Goals from field, Mathewson, 6; Elliott, 5; Baillie, 4; Davis, 2; Bevan. Goals from offence, Elliott 2; Darraugh. Referee, Hoskins.

Bucknell, 30; Gettysburg, 11.

The first of the two games scheduled with Gettysburg resulted in a fine victory for Bucknell, our boys winning out by the above score. The victory is the more pleasing, inasmuch as the game was played on the Gettysburg floor. At the same time this is Gettysburg's first season at the game, and they have not yet become experts.

The floor on which the game was played is considerably smaller than our own—scarcely more than half as large—and a row of pillars encircles it, supporting the gallery. All this crowded the players together somewhat, preventing open work and the finer points of the game; nevertheless our boys did their usual nice passing, and shot well. All three forwards played a great game in advancing the ball and the backs covered their opponents in fine shape. Davis had the misfortune to run into a post, head first, which hurt him severely, though he still continued the game. Our old friend "Beef" Kase was in evidence with his long shots, but only one of them took effect. Only three fouls were called and the game was free from rough play and all unpleasant features, and the best of feeling prevailed throughout.

Elliot scored the first goal almost as soon as play began, and got another shortly afterward. Christy followed suit and then Bevan got in his usual goal. Gettysburg braced, Rugh shot one, then Leffler another and things waxed interesting. Leffler got another and that ended their scoring for the half. Bucknell's team work began to tell at this point and some neat passing gave us four more goals, making the score 14-6 at the end of the first half.

Davis scored first in the second half, then Leffler, then Elliot. A foul was then called and Rugh threw the goal for Gettysburg. Play was resumed and Mathewson threw the prettiest goal of the evening, tossing the ball over his shoulder. Elliot got another, and then Rugh scored the last tally for Gettysburg by a nice goal from the field. Before the half closed Elliot scored again and Mathewson landed 3 more, making the final score 30-11.

Line up:

Gettysburg.	B. U.
Rugh	Attack — Elliot
Kase	Attack — Davis
Speer	Center — Mathewson
Bardy	Defense — Bevan
Leffler	Defense — Stanton

Goals Elliot, 8; Mathewson, 5; Rugh, 2; Leffler, 2; Kase, 1; Bevan, 1; Davis, 1.

Goal from foul, Rugh, 1.

Officials, P. B. Krout, Edward Burrowes. Alternate, Referee and Umpire, Timers, Goodall, Leisenring. 20 min. halves.

Bucknell 28; Dickinson 14.

Next to the Williamsport game, the game on Saturday, with Dickinson ranks in point of interest and the fierceness of play. Inasmuch as we had beaten them on our own floor, the game was doubly interesting—and all the more so because Dickinson was determined to win and used effort to do so. Their play was hard and fast and they fought with desperation but never succeeded in heading Bucknell once. On the other hand Bucknell had everything against them, with only themselves to depend upon and it is doubly to their credit that they won—and they won only because, during this entire season, they have not put up as hard fight, determined, cool and heavy a game as at Dickinson.

The Dickinson gymnasium is about as large as ours, but only one small light serves to illumine the interior and a boundary line runs around the whole floor, under the edge of the track above. The baskets, however, appear much higher than ours and are probably higher than the regulation ten feet.

The star contest of the evening was between MacGuffee and Mathewson. The farmer it will be remembered is their "pride" and great things were expected of him, but Mathewson made him look like "30 cents," McGuffee threw four goals, one of which was made after the whistle had blown and both teams had stopped playing. "Christy" threw nine goals, only seven of which appear on the official score. Davis put up his usual game, despite the hard knocks from Gettysburg, as his goals will testify. Elliott was against Dickinson's best guard, and tho he threw but one goal, was in the game from start to finish. Many of the other goals were due to his good playing.

As for Stanton and Bevan the highest praise they can have is that Dickinson's forwards threw only one goal on their own floor, backed by a crowd of rooters and when playing their hardest. Taken altogether it was the finest game Bucknell has put up this year and a victory that brings us great credit. The play in detail follows. Christy outjumped MacGuffee and the ball was ours to start with. Dickinson covered well and neither side scored for about two minutes when Davis landed the first basket. MacGuffee soon shot one, tying the score. Mathewson broke the tie by a goal shortly afterward and quickly shot another. Then Davis duplicated his goal, making the score 8-2. Powell got the next one and Elliott shot another just before time was called—score 10-4 in favor of Bucknell.

Davis scored twice at the opening of the second half, then Mathewson took his turn, and by way of variety Hess dropped one. Then Mathewson got two more; Hoagland dropped one, Mathewson added another; MacGuffee took his turn and Hoagland was again in evidence. MacGuffee got still another and Mathewson evened up by goal number eight, which was not allowed, nor was his ninth. Davis and MacGuffee each shot one more and time was up. Final score 28-14 in favor of Bucknell.

Line up:

Powell	Attack	Elliott
Schuman	"	Davis
McGuffee	Center	Mathewson
Hess	Defense	Stanton
Hoagland	"	Bevan

Goals Mathewson, 7; McGuffee, 4; Davis, 6; Elliott, 1; Hess, 1; Hoagland, 2. Officials Adamson, Goodall, Timer Burrowes.

DR. HULLEY'S NEW BOOK.

A Criticism of "Slumber Songs and Lullabies."

In the various criticisms of Doctor Hulley's book the mechanical execution of the work has been praised as showing a knowledge of poetics, and a mastery of the technique of expression. It has also been said and deservedly, that the book avoids all bad spelling, baby talk, slang, dialect and archaic spellings, and displays a great versatility in treating the subject of sleep from so many different standpoints, and in clothing the thought in so many different figures of speech. All this is true, but the best features of the book lie deeper. The poems are true in conception: spontaneous, for the most part, in expression; and filled with a rich spiritual content.

Refinement is a marked characteristic of them. There is nothing coarse or vulgar in them. By this is not meant that they merely avoid forbidden subjects. That goes without saying in the case of Doctor Hulley. But my point is that they avoid every sentiment that is unworthy or that is inelegant, or at best unelevating. A delicate sense of refined ethical ideals for children has dictated the choice of the most appropriate diction, and has removed from this book what degrades so much writing of the present day, literary vulgarism.

Soulful sympathy is another characteristic of the book. The songs talk and sing themselves in the most naturual way imaginable. Forced sympathy is nowhere seen. The children are real. Their world is real. Up to the level of the child's mind is that dim unshadowy realm of fairy land that has always been so dear to those little folks who have had the good fortune to dwell there, and so know that it is real. There is no cynicism in regard to these convictions of children, but rather an earnest belief in them. Doctor Hulley believes in ghosts and fairies with all his heart, if this book is any criterion.

Psychological insight is another characteristic of the poems. The full spiritual consciousness of childhood gleams from the book. What a child thinks, and what interests a child, are two elements everywhere present. The author has reached their level, and has put himself in their place, and has known how to give expression to his findings. The gentle tender nature of the child, its simple faith in the things of its world is everywhere touched with reverence. Of course I do not mean that a child is in possession of that knowledge of its world that the book reveals.

Rich coloring is another characteristic of the book. There is a delicate vein of humor running through it, without any attempt to be funny. There are the bright lights of that affection that motherhood bestows upon the child. There are the subtle charms of fairy legend, of natural forces, of home influences, and sweet sympathy in it. There are poetic forms of true artistic finish in nearly all. There are rare bits of portraiture, striking titles, happy ways of phrasing, indescribable and elusive suggestion, and a remarkable command of illustration.

Some men among us seem to think a greater interest would be taken in debate at Bucknell if we had fancy buildings, greater society halls, with public contests every few weeks. Then the latent oratorical and debating ability in our midst would burst forth and blossom. Others say "Give us again the incentive of intercollegiate contest and we will show what we can do." Possibly the interest in debate would be enhanced somewhat by both methods, especially by the latter, which we consider ought to be re-established at the earliest possible date. Still we contend that until the student learns to appreciate the intrinsic value of debate as a factor in his personal improvement, debate will be left in the hands of comparatively few.

We will soon be physicians, lawyers, teachers, ministers, and business men, all of which callings demand trained minds. How does debate minister to such a demand? In preparing debates the investigator meets certain conditions. He must analyse the subject and select the strongest points on which to rest his argument. During this research he coins thoughts based upon the ideas of others. By such means he is led into the paths of individual thinking. Debate exacts vigorous thinking which compels research for ideas in every direction and especially leads into the domain of wide reading, resulting in greater personal knowledge. The kernel of truth is found and every effort is put forth to defend the truth which has been espoused. Debate teaches liberation by impressing upon its devotees the idea, that there always exist two sides to a question and an answerable argument to each side.

The good influence exerted on the speaker during the process of debate can not be fully expressed. It must be experienced to be understood. The individual strives to make his best effort before the audience and is aided in so doing by the spur of opposition. The excitement engendered by the hope of victory sharpens the wits in the detecting of errors and compels the opposition to hedge themselves in with a vigorous defense.

Debate is an intense stimulant. It gives its exponents self-command while under-fire, and a moderate estimate of their own abilites. It demands courtesy to an opponment and frowns upon sarcasm; it widens views, gives command of language, and teaches parliamentary practice.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The regular meeting of the Chemical and Physical Society was called in the Lecture room of the Laboratory last Thursday evening at four o'clock, by President W. G. Owens. The minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

Instead of listening to something of a purely technical nature the Society was privileged to note the connection which this branch of college work bears to that savoring of letters.

By special request Dr. Enoch Perrine addressed the Society choosing as his subject "Science and Literature" —Help Meets."

The Doctor presented the subject in a very interesting and instructive manner and all present thoroughly enjoyed the discussion. He explained how Science and Literature are help meets.

I. Point of View.
   1. Science seeks the facts. Literature looks back to the meaning of the facts.
   2. Science satisfies the head, Literature satisfies the heart.
   3. Science is the base—the frame. Literature is the arches, spires, the color to the temple in which man works and worships, things that appeal to the aesthetic nature.
   4. Science delivers for the moment. Literature delivers forever. Homer, Shakespeare and the Bible are the basis of all literature.

II. Science satisfies one and literature the other side of a man's desires; they are a true development—are help meets. Man should use this dual development in order to round his education.

III. Science may help to produce Literature—they are help meets. How?
   1. Both deal with precisely the same phenomena.
   2. The knowledge that is acquired in Science is the foundation on which Literature builds.
   3. They are both the result of painstaking observation. The powers

4. Science makes up the intellect. Phenomena of nature show design; this points to a designer—When intellect is awakened man begins to give expression to his feeling and he becomes a person of letters.

IV. What should be the attitude of the men of Science toward Literature?

1. One attitude is to despise it. Example, Darwin.
2. When one has gone a long way along this line he can turn around and assume friendly relations with Literature. Example, John Stuart Mill.
3. Never run the risk of becoming atrophied—Follow out both lines at same time. Example, Thomas Henry Huxley.

The Freshmen Banquet.

In spite of the fact that banquets must be publicly announced at Bucknell, the Freshman class out-witted the Sophomores on the evening of the 15th and escaped without the loss of a man. For two days the wiley Sophs had been trying in various ways to capture President Shepherd and the men whom they had reason to believe were to be speakers. Vigilance committees were guarding the ronds leading from town in order to make an escape impossible.

Contrary to all expectations the Freshmen had ordered a special train on the Philadelphia & Reading R. R. The men of the class had assembled in the rooms on the third floor of the West Wing and at the appointed time marched to the railroad at the Gymnasium where the train soon came to take them on board. The Sophomores assembled in the hall and attempted to obstruct their way and capture some men. They were, however, too few in number. The Freshmen forced them down the stairs, and easily fought their way through the crowd to the doors. The Sophomores made another desperate attempt to capture some men while they were getting aboard the train, but the Freshies were prepared to fight them off. The train then stopped at the station where the Freshmen girls were taken aboard, and the train was soon in full speed towards Milton.

At the Hotel Haag an excellent menu had been prepared, and the class spent the evening in feasting, toasting and merry-making. The following toast were delivered in a manner which showed both ability and class spirit:—

Our College.....Thomas E. Cule
The Faculty.....Louis W. Robey
Poem, "The Scrap" Miss Blanche Bane
1904.....William M. Keiffer
Our Flower.....Miss Margaret Groff
Our Motto.....John L. Livezey
The Sophomores....Milo S. Raub, Jr
The Boys.....Miss Viola Hall
The Girls.....Norman D. Sturges
Our Basket Ball Team.....
.....Edwin Patterson Griffith
Foot Ball.....Walter S. Wilcox

The party returned on their train after having held one of the best and most up-to-date banquets that has been held by any class for a number of years

Basketball.

Another game that will be closely contested is near at hand. The strong Bloomsburg State Normal team will play against Bucknell in the Tustin Gymnasum, Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Bloomsburg has a fine record and will make a hot fight for victory. A year ago Bucknell broke their two years' record of continuous victory by defeating them here. Do not miss this game; it will be entertaining. Admission 25 cents.

On Thursday evening, Feb'y. 28th, Hon. Emerson Collins, of Williamsport, will deliver a lecture in Bucknell Hall. The subject will be "Abraham Lincoln." Mr. Collins is well known in town and school and should draw a large audience.

GRANT of Pennsylvania, Hall of Brown and Gallager, Cornell, will run for the two-mile indoor championship of America. Grant won this event last year.

The Invincibles Defeated.

One more victory, and perhaps the greatest victory yet won, is ours. Williamsport Y. M. C. A., the mighty, the boastful, the undefeated went down to defeat on Tuesday night for the only time this year, and at the hands of our own robust lads, the wearers of the Orange and Blue.

Sixteen big points we rolled up while the invincibles succeeded in getting four—all on free throws. Fourteen of our points were from field goals—two from fouls. Seven goals to none is very well indeed, especially against a team which has the record held by Williamsport. But this was on our own floor and is hardly a just estimate of relative strength.

When B. U. played on the Williamsport floor, Williamsport won, 8-5. They scored three field goals and two free throws, we scored two field goals and one free throw; one of their goals was due to mere luck, for the ball after striking a post caromed into the basket. Thus it is evident that the game was almost a tie, certainly very close; and this with all the odds against us—floor, crowd, etc., considering the results of the two games, there can be not the slightest doubt as to the superiority of our own team, a fact that we are glad to publish, since Williamsport has arrogated to itself the championship of all this region. The result of the two games knocks their claim to supremacy higher than a kite.

As for the contest it was a magnificent one. The crowd was on hand to cheer the boys to victory, and give both their moral and financial backing.

The players themselves were in fine fettle and everything was favorable to a great game. Enthusiasm college spirit and college yells were plentifully in evidence; the game itself was a fitting picture for this fine setting—an arena of flashing, bending, turning, swiftly moving figures. One feature only marred the game—one feature that is more than unpleasant, less than gentlemanly and certainly not creditable to any college man much less our own college brothers.

Bear in mind this timeworn quotation "Only geese, snakes and fools hiss." Let there be no more of it.

Mathweson began the game by outjumping Allie and Bucknell at once started her passing. Williamsport covered well, and it was several minutes before either side scored.

Then Mathewson shot the first goal amid great applause. Several minutes elapsed before another score was made, the interim being filled with the most exciting succession of passes, blocks, shots for goal and all the usual features of a fast game.

Davis was the lucky man who threw goal number two. Play had hardly begun again when Bucknell was penalized and Stutsman threw the goal for Williamsport. Bucknell again committed an offence and this time Turner dropped the goal—Score 4-2. Mathewson made one more goal and time was up.

The second half as in all our games, was distinctly Bucknell's and the goals began to drop with a pleasing frequency. Mathewson opened up with a pretty goal, and after several minutes of hard playing Elliot shot one of the prettiest goals of the evening, from under the side gallery and while partly covered. Williamsport then got a couple more points on fouls, Stutsman and Turner being the lucky men. Captain Elliot next threw Bucknell's first goal from foul, and after Mathewson had made another goal, he duplicated the feat. Only a brief space elapsed before the whistle called time, leaving the final score 16—4.

B. U.		Williamsport.
Elliott	Attack	Stutsman
Davis	Attack	Turner
Mathewson	Center	Allee
Bevan	Defense	Speaker
Stanton	Defense	Levy

Goals, Mathewson 5, Davis, Elliott. From foul, Stutsman 2, Turner 2, Elliott 2. Officials, Puffer: Hoskins, Burrowes. Timers, Goodall, Pratt. Twenty minute halves.

Bucknell 10—Pittston 8.

When Bucknell defeated Pittston on Friday, she accomplished what no other team has been able to do this season, viz., win from Pittston on their floor, and when we consider their excellent record and our own, and how fiercely a team contends against defeat on its own floor, it goes without saying that Friday night's contest was one of the fiercest on record.

Bucknell had everything against her; the battle was an up hill one, and our boys are deserving of double credit for pulling the hardest game of the season out of the fire. To begin with the game was played in a dance hall, slippery with wax—a thing altogether new to B. U; secondly, the baskets were not regulation height, one being eleven feet in the air to admit of opening the door below: thirdly, there is no gallery, and the spectators sit along the sides of the room.

The Pittston team itself is a fine aggregation of players, all large, fast and strong, outranking Bucknell easily; our team work alone won.

Although the game was very fast and fierce, it was not a "dirty" game, and Bucknell has only words of commendation for their treatment all around.

We can give but a very inadequate idea of the game. Both sides played close, three men were allowed on the ball, and at times all ten men would be bunched together. When the ball went out of bounds the players dove for it, and altogether it was football on a smaller scale. Our boys put up a magnificent game, and most of the team work of the game was done by B. U. That Pittston could throw but 4 goals in 50 minutes is the greatest praise our team can have. Every man was in his place, every man covered his opponent and every man deserves the greatest credit.

Davis scored first in about four minutes, and was generously applauded. Van Valkenburg tallied shortly afterward and the noise was deafening. Cow bells, horns and megaphones were heard on every side. Mathewson broke the tie shortly after with a neat goal, and then Dodd tied it up again. Before the half ended Van Valkenburg scored again, the half ending 6-4 against us.

Trax opened the scoring in the second half, and the score was 8-4. Things looked rather doubtful, when Mathewson brought the crowd to their feet with the prettiest goal of the season, thrown from a distance of nearly 50 feet. Then things went Pittston's way, but they missed several shots and just before time was called Davis passed the ball the entire length of the floor to Mathewson under the basket. The ball rolled round and round the rim seemingly for minutes, then dropped in, and the score was 8-8.

Both teams were badly used up, but they lined up once more and the ball went up the field by a series of beautiful passes between Elliot, Davis and Mathewson, but the goal was missed, and the game surged down to the other end where Pittston missed; then up and down for ten whole minutes, when Elliot got clear, the ball was passed, in it went and the game was ours.

Line up:

Bucknell.	Pittston.
Elliot	Attack, Van Valkenburg
Davis	Attack, Anthony
Mathewson	Center, Dodd
Bevan	Defense, Scheetz
Stanton	Defense, Trax

Goals—Mathewson 3, Van Valkenburg 2, Davis, Elliot, Trax, Dodd. Officials, Hoskins, MacDonald. Timers, Burrowes, Stewart. Time, 50 minutes.

Wyoming 8—Bucknell 24.

By defeating Wyoming on Saturday, Bucknell won her seventh consecutive victory within thirteen days—a feat never accomplished heretofore by any Bucknell team. Bucknell was treated royally by the Seminary boys, and the team feels very grateful for their kind hospitality. During the game, Bucknell rooters in the persons of Mulkie, '98, and Bunnell, '97, gave vocal encouragement to the players, which was duly appreciated.

Bucknell didn't get into the game at all until the second half and the only redeeming feature of the first half was Elliot's three fine goals. Evidently our boys were feeling the effects of the Pittston game and it took them one half of the game to limber up. Wyoming was quick, active and aggressive, and had the ball most of the half, our boys being unable to break up their passing. But they passed to little advantage, doing entirely too much passing and too little shooting. Consequently the first half, which was a poor one from a Bucknell point of view, ended with Bucknell only two points ahead, 7–5.

In the second half our boys struck their true pace, and played their best game. Every one was in the game, and almost every one in the scoring.

The team work was something worth watching, and when Stanton got a goal, every Bucknell man laughed outright—but the visitors couldn't see the point.

Mathewson opened the second half by a well thrown goal, and then Blakeslee scored one on Bucknell's offense. Elliot next scored on a foul and shortly afterward from the field. Two goals were scored in quick succession by Mathewson from two beautiful pieces of team work in which almost every man had a hand, the ball

The library is held in trust by the University for the benefit of future generations of students as well as for ourselves. Those students who will follow us have as much right to use the library as ourselves. This involves upon us the duty of taking the utmost care of every book upon the shelves. Everyone who contributes a volume to the library has a right to expect that it will receive good usage. How is this right respected?

Turn to any department you desire. Draw a book from any alcove. Glance through its pages and you will be amazed at the multiplicity of forms which students employ in book-marking. Dots light and dark, lines long and short, brackets surpassing in variety the inventive genius of mathematics cover the margins. Add to this heavy lines drawn along the full length of the page, underneath some particular thought that has struck the fancy of the marker and one receives some faint idea of the way we treat our library books.

Certainly the worst form marking books which don't belong to us can take, is that of pressing in along the margins our own ideas of the author's work. Perhaps the wish to elucidate the dark passages to minds less subtle than our own, spurs us on to do the deed, or may be the desire to vaunt our erudition.

By indulging in such work we reflect upon the mental capacity of others. The world is looking for sages and always welcomes their advent, but it never gets acquainted with the sage who jots down his ideas in the margin of another man's book. Publish your ideas by all means and the world will acknowledge your ability, but please refrain from destroying our common property.

being worked from one end of the floor to the other by fine passing. Bryden scored for Wyoming, and then Elliot for Bucknell. On the next play Stanton went forward, received the ball on a pass and made the one and only goal of his career, we believe. Congratulations, Frank. Then Elliot got another and Bevan ended the scoring by a lone goal. Since he threw none at either Pittston or against Williamsport, he is two in arrears—look out for him next game.

Altogether the game was most satisfactory, every man doing his work well.

Mrs. Edwards entertained the C. E. A's. on Thursday night.

The gymnasium presented a gay and festive appearance on Friday night. The occasion was a Valentine dance given by the girls in the building. Jacks and Jills were there in varied costumes; the sound of merry music and the tripping of "the light fantastic toe," made one forget that such things as study ever existed. After the dancing, cooling refreshments were served, and 'ere long the gymnasium was quiet again.

DR. HULLEY'S HOME BURNED.

The home of Dr. Lincoln Hulley, opostie the Seminary was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon, entailing to him a loss of many thousand dollars, on which he had no insurance.

The fire started about half past two o'clock, and was first discovered by themaid. Mrs. Hulley and two children had gone to the bed room for a short rest after dinner, and Dr. Hulley was at the college attending to his duties. The fire originated in the library, supposed from an overheated furnace pipe and when discovered had assumed such headway that the inmates of the house fled for their lives. The alarm was quickly given and an effort was made to save as much of the contents as possible. The fire was a stubborn one and the firemen were handicaped in securing sufficient water supply owing to the main in that part of the town. A plug stream did good work for nearly a half hour until the steamer was put in service when the flames were driven from the lower floors to roof until extinguished. The steamer was compelled to connect with a plug nearly three squares away with a line of hose of over a thousand feet. The building is a brick one and but for this fact nothing would be left but a mass of ruins. As it is there is little left but the walls standing with the interior burned and scorched and blackened.

The contents of the house are almost a total loss. Dr. Hulley had a magnificent library of over 1300 volumes, along with a collection of valuable manuscripts which he has been years in gathering to assist him in his literary work. Among them was the manuscript of a book, "The Psalter," just completed, and which he was at the time arranging to publish. These were totally destroyed. During his travels in Europe he made a collection of paintings and rarities which he prized highly, and they also went to feed the flames.

It is difficult to estimate the loss, so much was destroyed which money cannot replace. The loss will reach at least $5,000 and as there was no insurance, it will be severely felt. Dr. Hulley and his family have the sincere sympathy of the students and the alumni of the institution.

To the students Dr. Hulley will show his appreciation of their services at the burning of his home last week, in some other way, but to the Lewisburg Fire Department, he has already made manifest his gratitude by volunteering to lecture for them. The proposal was accepted at a special meeting of the department on Saturday night and the opera house has been engaged for the purpose on March 5. Dr. Hulley will give on this occasion a humorous literary recital entitled "Sketches in Charcoal." Admission parquet and dress circle, 20 and 30 cents; gallery 10 cents. Let every student be there.

A law recently passed by the New Jersey Legislature provides that hazing, from which bodily harm results, shall be punishable by imprisonment for one year or a fine of $1000, or both.

The Junior Ball.

The Junior class scored a decided success in its annual ball, given in the Armory on Friday evening. No society event that ever took place in Lewisburg was more thoroughly enjoyed. In making the arrangements for the affair nothing was overlooked and the manner in which every detail was carried out stamped the members of '02 as ideal entertainers.

The dancing hall was prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns, American flags and the colors of the class—red and blue. A feature of the decorations was the class numerals in red and blue on white background, tastefully festooned with red and blue bunting. The orchestra stand was banked with large palms, almost hiding the musicians from view.

Upwards of 45 couples of young people were in attendance, including many persons from out of town. The beautiful gowns worn by the ladies were decidedly a feature of the party.

The program consisted of 24 numbers, everyone of which was encored. In addition there were several extra and it was nearly 3 o'clock before the last of the guests had departed.

The music was furnished by Fischler's orchestra of Williamsport, and it is no exaggeration to say that no more delightful or inspiring music was ever heard in Lewisburg. The dancers were loud in their praises of the music and were liberal in their applause towards the musicians.

During the intermission elegant refreshments were served.

Among the guests from out of town were the following: John Smith, D. W. Slocum, H. W. Chamberlin, J. S. Chamberlin, Miss Marsh, Miss Slocum, Milton, H. L. Purdy, R. E. Kelly, Miss Cadwallader, Miss Nickerson, Sunbury, Miss Boyer, Harrisburg, A. W. Mollinson, Williamsport, Miss Beaver, Dr. Gerhart, Danville, Ned Moyer, Norristown, Miss Sieber, Gettysburg, the Misses Serrill, L. Rothermel, Philadelphia.

The following were the patronesses: Mrs. J. C. Bucher, Mrs. T. C. Thornton, Mrs. T. S. Norton and Mrs. Walls.

The following committee had charge of the affair:

Music—Greene, Milligan, English.
Decoration—Matthewson, Packer, Harvey, Weidensaul, J. Davis.
Invitation—Weidensaul, Elliott.
Program—Marts, Packer.
Refreshments—Elliott, Woodard, Theis.

The 49th anniversary of the founding of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity which fell on last Tuesday, was fittingly celebraten by the members of Pennsylvania Gamma chapter in their rooms in the evening. Several members of the alumni responded to toasts. Among those present were Messrs. Fred and Will Godcharles, of Milton, alumni of Pennsylvania Theta, of Lafayette College.

THE Faculty of the University of Pennsylvania have disqualified I. K. Baxter, the famous jumper and pole vaulter. J. B. W. Tewkesbury was finally declared eligible.

Sophomore Banquet.

We are undoubtedly all well acquainted with these words, found in nearly every school grammar, which have taught lessons of wisdom to many a mortal drifting on the sea of life: "One travelling through the streets of by and by, arrives at the house of never." So we use this as a text in describing the events of last Tuesday night, when the Sophomores baffled all the efforts of their verdant foes to obstruct the road to Milton. Freshmen for several days past had been boasting of what they were going to do to the Sophomores when the great day came, but they finally found themselves in the house of never, while their worthy guardians were safely assembled in the Hotel Haag at Milton.

After a series of games and amusements engaged in by all present, the gong was sounded and the victorious class marched into the banquet hall, where a well prepared feast was spread. After all were seated by the round table, the stentorian voice of the president rang out through the halls. "Is Weaver here?" "Aye, aye, sir." "Then let the proceedings proceed."

When the first two courses had reached their destiny, Fetzer gave a fine address on the life of the President, Dr. Harris, in which he placed him before us as a living example of a truly educated man, a goal toward which we should all guide our drifting barks. Miss Burchette followed with "The Revival," describing the one step upward toward success, after which the remainder of the menu was disposed of, when the following toasts were given:

"The palace of arts," by Weaver who, although delayed by the foe ably portrayed some of the many advantages of our college course at Bucknell and how they should be used by the students. Next appears that well known barrel of humor, H. E. Bilger, in "The Ode." Tears of joy were shed as he pursued his discourse, characterizing the race in detailed account. He even performed a chemical analysis of the class and found that the Sophomores were insoluble in class scraps, and turned green Freshmen blue. Brown enumerated the many phases of the class gathered at the "Round Table," prophesying on the future of 1903. Then Dunlap pointed out to us the "Holy Grail," and certainly his was a well prepared toast. By similes, metaphors and excellent climax, the ideal of life was well exemplified. Tiffany showed how great will be the loss when "Our Friends the Seniors" leave these halls of learning, to launch upon the sea of future education. And last but not least, "The Day Dream" was presented by Miss Alif Stephens. The poem was well written, and certainly well rendered and appreciated by all.

After all were gathered in the parlor, the next thing in order was music. Misses Fowler and Coleman sang a very beautiful duet; Frampton, Edwards, Seun and Lehman rendered an original quartette, full of harmony and expression; all joined in the class song after which Misses Ebling, Luchsinger, Allison, Fowler, Coleman, Ayers and Paterson entertained us with two selections on the Mandolin and Guitar. A short time was spent in lively conversation until our chaperon sang the Home waltz. Thus we parted.

Bucknell 18; Bloomsburg 15.

Bucknell won its eleventh victory on Friday by defeating Bloomsburg but there isn't much credit attaching to the victory because the score should have been vastly different. With everything in our favor, Bucknell was barely able to pull out a victory. However, there is some excuse for this, and Friday's poor work must not be taken as proof of a slump. The festivities of the past week had their effect on all the players apparently, and Bevan and Mathewson were both on the sick list, so that the team lined up with Groff and Theis in their places.

The first half was hotly contested and ended in a tie 6-6. Then Mathewson and Bevan, despite their illness, donned their suits and the second half was somewhat better. Bucknell quickly took the lead, but Bloomsburg settled down and did some fine passing, again going to the front. In the last five minutes Bucknell threw two goals and won out by three points.

Line up:—

Bloomsburg		Bucknell.
Reighard	Attack	Elliott
Hayes	"	Davis

Goals from field, Mathewson 3; Killmer 3; Marcy 2; Reighard 2; Groff 2; Elliolt, Davis, Theis. From fouls, Elliott 2; Hayes. Officials Aldinger and Hoskins.

1901 vs 1903.

On Tuesday afternoon the Seniors played the Sophomores and much to the surprise of everybody won out in handsome style. The team work of 1901 was much superior to that of 1903 and it was through consistent passing that the Seniors won this, their first game. Only a small attendance was present.

Line up:

By winning this game 1901 ties with 1903 for first place, placing 1904 second and 1903 last. Following is their percentages.

	Won	Lost	Pct.
1901	1	0	1000
1902	1	0	1000
1903	0	2	000

An entertainment will be given in the Baptist Chapel Thursday, Feb. 28th, 1901, at 7:30 o'clock. The program will consist of vocal and instrumental music and recitations. Dr. Whitman's Lectures.

A large audience of students and town people gathered in Bucknell Hall on Thursday evening to listen to a lecture by Dr. Benaiah L. Whitman, of Philadelphia. Dr. Whitman is a powerful and eloquent speaker and for an hour and a half held the audience spellbound.

The theme was the moral life, what it means, and how it may be attained. Man is made up of many personalities or selves. There is the physical, the social, the political, the moral self. All these selves are thrown together haphazard and our first business in life is to understand them in their various relations and properly adjust them to each other. The crises of life are simply questions of which self shall dominate, shall constitute the real self.

Life is a continuous process of adaption. This adaption looks two ways. It is first, building into the life elements from the mass that is without; and second, the building of life into the great life of God. A man's life is useless taken apart from the movement of the universe, just as the wheel of a watch apart from the watch. Adaption is not a matter of restriction or compulsion. It means regular and right relations with the will of the universe. To attain this right relation to the will of the universe, let the life of God into the soul.

The heart is the criterion of life. Tell me on what your heart bestows its sympathy and I will tell you what kind of life you are living. In illustration of this Dr. Whitman recited Browning's poem, "Andrea del Sarto." He drew the following lessons from the poem. (1.) The inevitable dwarfing of the soul in the choice of anything but the highest. (2.) The lowering of life to that other level when once life is linked to it. (3.) The consequent fading of the ideal in which a man's life lies. (4.) The agony of hope that heaven may make amends. The great business of life is the choice of the highest and the highest is eternal life.

On Friday morning, Dr. Whitman lectured to the students of the University. He spoke on the power and influence of young people in the world to-day. They have this power because they possess in great degree the qualities most needed in life. They are full of enthusiasm and a large feeling of life. They make nature and her laws their servants. Another characteristic of youth is courage. The stout heart is half the battle.

The spirit of youth is marked by intelligence, comfidence and activity.

There is need at the present time for just the reinforcement of life that youth furnishes. Every age has its questions. The pendulum is constantly swinging between periods. We are passing from materialism to idealism, from individualism to collectivism. So the pendulums wings from spiritualism to formalism, from hope to despair and back to hope. No generation since the dawn of time has seen the accomplishment of so much that is worth while as the present generation, yet it is an age of despair, of pessimism. Perhaps it is because we are just moving out of materialism. Or it may be the Anglo Saxon in us. It is an Anglo Saxon trait to look on the gloomy side and then bend the shoulders to the task.

Pessimism is largely a fad but it has a wonderful hold on the world just now. The pessimistic spirit may be due to a mistaken conception of duty, or to an intentional underestimate of the favorable elements in the problem, or simply to a melancholy tempter, a love of darkness.

But life is worth living, and the world's work is worth doing. The men and women who are bringing the world's work to pass are not the pessimists. There is a better way than the way of pessimism. It is (1) the way of intelligence, which insists upon having all the facts. There are dark features in life but don't forget the bright side. An effort to be permanently useful must be uniformly joyous. (2) The way of confidence. This world is no place for cowards. (3) The way of activity, which always marks the spirit of youth, and without which life is worse than lost.

Resolutions.

The following resolutions were crowded out of last week's issue:

Senior Seminary Reception.

Pretty girls, handsome men, and elaborateness of arrangements were the chief factors that combined to make the annual reception of the senior class of Bucknell Institute, on Friday night, a success, excelling, if possible, any of its predecessors. This annual event is always regarded as one of the leading features of Bucknell's social calendar and is looked forward to with pleasant anticipation by the society element of the college and town. In the reception this year nothing was lacking to make it the happy event it proved to be, and the members of the class may view the results of their efforts with pardonable pride.

The parlors of the Institute never looked more beautiful. The artistic hands of the young ladies had transformed them into places of lovliness, the decorations calling forth the highest commendations of the guests. In the small west parlor were three "cozy-corners," cozy in fact as well as name, each prettily decorated, which were very popular during the evening. One of these, designated the "Bucknell Corner," was especially attractive, bearing none but decorations of the college colors, orange and blue.

In decorating the large school room, opposite the main reception room, the young ladies caused it to lose all resemblance of its former self, their being nothing to indicate the use to which it is put the other 364 days in the year. The east and west walls were covered with pretty pictures and flags of different schools and colleges, while the wall toward the north was draped with one immense American flag. In this room also were a number of "cozy corners," one of which was devoted exclusively to decorations of the various fraternities represented in the university. At one end of the room was a wall of palms, behind which an orchestra was stationed. Scattered here and there throughout the room were palms and potted plants.

The guests upon their arrival, were received by Misses Emerick, Magee, Nesbit and Seiler, members of the Senior class, Mrs. Larison, a former principal, and Miss Stanton. For an hour the guests poured in, until the reception rooms were well filled.

The scene presented by the cheerful young ladies and gentlemen in social intercourse, was indeed a happy one. There was a confusion of voices, amounting almost to a tumult, above which the orchestra, which discoursed lively music, could scarcely be heard.

Beginning at ten o'clock, refreshments were served in rooms down stairs, continuing until the guests began to depart for home.

The following young ladies served as aides: Misses Paine, Barton, Shorkley, Kelly, Nesbit and Bower.

The Second Preliminary Junior debate will occur in Bucknell Hall Thursday evening, Mar. 7, at 8 o'clock. Dr. Harris will preside. Dr. Perrine, Dr. Hulley and Dr. Helm will act as judges. The question is, Resolved that an income tax should be made a part of our Federal system of revenue. Each speaker will have ten minutes. The College Girls' Mandolin and Guitar Club will furnish the music.

Senior College Girls Entertain.

On Tuesday evening the Institute parlors witnessed what was without doubt the happiest and most delightful occasion in the history of the class of 1901. It all came about because the Senior girls invited their class brothers to come down to the Institute and spend an evening in social enjoyment. A happy and jovial gathering indeed it was, and the ordinarily stately and dignified Seniors laid aside all their classic dignity, eliminated all thoughts of text books and lessons and did their utmost to enjoy the good things which were in store for them. The Senior girls more than outdid themselves in entertaining the class, reflecting great credit on the excellent training they have received in this line during their stay at Bucknell.

Each one of the boys was pleasantly received as he entered the spacious parlor, and he soon felt perfectly at home, and well might he feel at home, for no strangers were permitted to mar this happy occasion. Small circles soon formed here and there, and the hum of voices and cheery tones of laughter filled the room. Sweet strains of music pleased the ears and moved the feet. An improvised male quartette rendered several selections, which were most highly appreciated. A number of small tables were provided on which a variety of games, ranging from threading a needle to picking beans from a plate with toothpicks, were played. The winners in each case received the decoration of the golden star. At a seasonable time the girls served most tempting refreshments, such as the greatest Roman epicure never dreamed of, such as would have completely eclipsed his grandest feast. After partaking of these dainties, more games including the ever popular Virginia reel and that well known game of bingo were played. This happy occasion would not have been complete without a photo of those present, so Mr. Shields, the photographer of the class, took a flashlight of the group. At a seasonable hour the gathering broke up and all went to their rooms perhaps to live over again the happy hours in dreamland. The boys can speak none but the highest words of praise and commendation regarding the manner in which their class sisters entertained them. They all unite in expressing their most hearty thanks to the Girls of 1901.

N. B. BASEBALL MEN.

The Captain of the Baseball Team urges that every man in the university, who has intentions of trying for the team or who has any ability whatever along this line shall meet in the Gymnasium to-night at 4 o'clock. It is necessary that all shall be present as matters of importance must be determined. Coach Hoskins will be present and will have something to say. Let there be a large turn out.

Three of the new suits for the baseball team have arrived and can be seen at Geo. H. Fisher's. They are dandies.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The regular meeting of Chemical and Physical Society was held in the lecture room of the Laboratory last Thursday afternoon with President W. G. Owens in the chair. After the adoption of the minutes, Dr. Geo. G. Groff was introduced to one of the largest audiences of the year and exhausted the hour with "The Natural Products of Porto Rico." The Doctor's talk was very interesting and instructive.

In the introductory remarks he mentioned the fact that a laboratory had been opened on the island within the past year.

The formation and structure of the lands of the surrounding islands were carefully explained; then the natural products were taken up in the following order:

I. Minerals—Mineral wealth not valuable. Galenite, copper ore, black lead, unctuous iron ore, phosphate rock, guano, white coral sand rock, granite and possibly iron comprise the mineral wealth of the region.

II. Plants—Under grasses were taken up: bamboo, guinea grass and small reeds. The cocoanut, royal, date, wild and traveler's palm all flourish as do about 125 species of other trees, all hard. Many flowering trees grow which include the cotton, fern, Orange trees as well as the Tamarind, calabash and mango.

III. Flowers—Among the flowers mentioned were the jassamine, elephant's ear, water lily, honey suckle, gladiolus, narcissus, rose, morning glory, poppy, geranium, passion flower, orchid, mistle toe, cactus etc.

IV. Fruits—Among the most common fruits were the orange, lemon, banana, mango, plantain, pomegranite, nispero, custard apple, guava, plum, cherry, gooseberry, mulberry, and cocoa bean.

V. Animals—There is no wild life on the island—You may occasionally see a jack rabbit. There are no reptiles and few birds. Some bats, pelicans, the boa and two species of turtle also can be found. 720 species of insects exist. No house flies can be found.

After answering several questions the Doctor dismissed his subject and the society adjourned to meet for the last time this term on March 14.

Recommended by the President.

Frank W. Jackson, who holds the chair of Greek at the Mt. Pleasant Institute, was in Washington Thursday of last week, taking the civil service examination for Consul to Patras, Greece, for which position President McKinley recommended him last week. Congratulations seem in order as there is little or no doubt about his passing alright. With the appointment confirmed by the Senate, he will sail with his wife and child in the early spring.

Baseball Dance.

The informal dances to be given under the auspices of the baseball management are being finally arranged and the first dance of the series will no doubt be given on March 15 in the Armory Hall. All who can should embrace this opportunity. Some one will wait on you for a ticket in the near future.

Lecture by Dr. Downey.

Instead of the regular Monday morning lectures, Dr. Downey, of Madras, India, gave a very instructive and interesting talk to the students on the government of India and the progress of education there.

Dr. Downey said in his introductory remarks that the prejudice existing in America against England on account of the Boer war and the famine in India is entirely unfounded. While many deplorable mistakes have been made in Africa, Britain is in the right and her ultimate success will be a victory for Christianity and civilization.

The methods of British government in India were explained showing that the natives there play an important part in the administration of government. The county is divided into provinces, each ruled by a provincial governor appointed by Great Britain. The cities are controlled by municipal councils made up of natives and Englishmen, part of whom are appointed by the government. The civil service of India is one of the finest in the world. Examinations for the service are open to natives and British alike. An independent body exists, known as the India National Congress, and composed of representatives of the best native population. It has no connection with the government but acts as a sort of a national vigilance committee watching the government closely in the interests of the native population.

The conquest of India by Britain has done much to benefit the country. In the first place, it has given the land peace. Previous to British occupation, India suffered from frequent and barbarous invasions. Government by law has taken the place of the arbitrary rule of despotic sovereign. Hospitals and Medical Colleges have been established in the cities and a magnificent educational system has been established. For purposes of higher education there are five great government Universities. Last year there were 6,000 candidates for admission to the University of Madras, of whom 2,000 passed the entrance examinations.

The government has also established a system of irrigation works by throwing dams across the rivers and turning the water into canals which conduct it to the arid regions. The cause of the famines in India is the failure of the periodic rainfalls, which happens about about every six years.

Railways, telegraphs, and an excellent postal system have also been established, encouraging commerce and leading to the development of the interior.

Collins' Lecture.

The lecture to be given by Hon. Emerson Collins, of Williamsport, will be delivered in Bucknell Hall on Thursday evening March 14th, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Collins will choose as his subject "Abraham Lincoln" and should draw a large house judging from the great number of friends in town and college.

Mr. Collins is an orator, politician and barrister of great renown having had valuable experience before public audiences during the last campaign. Proceeds will be applied to baseball fund. Admission, 25c.

About a year ago one of the leading universities in this state adopted voluntary chapel attendance. What was the result? Scarcely any one went to the morning services. The students never met as a body except on special occasions. All college spirit seemed to die out, since a sufficiently large body of students did not meet often enough to keep it alive. Things around the university assumed a decided calmness. The undergraduates began to seek the cause of this all-pervading quietness and lack of unity in their midst, and decided that the best way to eradicate the evil was to petition the faculty to establish the former order of chapel exercises. The beneficial results of compulsory morning religious exercises were soon felt and our friends in that university have been restored to their former state of unity and declare that nothing could induce them to countenance voluntary chapel attendance again.

It is our duty both to God and our university to attend regularly the devotional exercises prescribed by the faculty. We hurt ourselves most when we either neglect to attend chapel altogether or arrive continually during the singing of the last hymn and attract the attention of every one by our efforts to reach our seats in order that we may be marked present. Several mornings lately not half of our student body has been represented at these morning exercises. Let us all hope to form two resolutions and see that we keep them. First, let us decide to attend chapel every morning, and second, to buy our newspapers when we come out of chapel instead of when we are going in.

Gymnasium Contests

Owing to lack of space the Orange and Blue has been unable to print the result of the last two handicaps in the Gym. on Sat., Feb. 23 and Sat., Mar. 2. In the first meet Gillis broke both indoor shot records putting the 16 lb. shot 35 ft. 5 in. and the 12 lb. shot 41 ft. 7 in. These figures exceed the former records 2¼ ft. and 9 inches respectively.

Johnson with an actual put of over 31 ft. and a generous handicap won first in both events, while Bell with 11 ft. handicap took second at 28 ft. in the 16 lb. and tied with Gillis in the 12 lb. for 2d honors.

In the high jump Pearse won first at 5 ft. 2 in., Theis second at 5 ft. and Sturges third at 4 ft. 10 in., all actual jumps.

Daniels won the pole vault at 8 ft. 6 in. including his handicap of 1 ft. 6 in. Theis, scratch, was second at 9 ft. and Wolfe was third.

In the second contest, only the high jump and pole vault were run off. Thayer and Tiffany tied for first place at 4 ft. 10 in. Kester was second and Sturges third.

Daniels cleared 7 ft. 6 in. in the pole vault, which is 6 in. better than the week before. This with his handicap places him first, Theis taking second at 8 ft. 3 in. Slifer was third.

These events will be held every Saturday indoors until the track is in shape. Let every man who has ability or who will try, compete. In about two weeks an indoor meet will be held, when 9 events will be run off, medals to be given the winners of each event. An entrance fee will be charged and every one has equal chances of winning.

Shakespere Club Election.

The Shakespere Club at their regular weekly meeting on Tuesday evening elected the following officers for the ensuing term:

President—Dunlap.
Vice President—Forbell.
Treasurer—W. L. Kalp.
Literary Committee — Weaver, Rhodes, Friend.

Gettysburg Game.

The last Varsity game of the basketball season will be played with Gettysburg in Tustin Gymnasium, Monday, March 11. Gettysburg has developed a good team and will no doubt make things interesting for our boys. A large and enthusiastic crowd should turn out to witness this the concluding game of what has been the most successful basketball season in the history of Bucknell.

The Girls Glee Club will give a concert in Bucknell Hall, Friday evening at eight o'clock. All are cordially invited.

The Inauguration Day At Home was well attended both by ladies from town and by students. The Seniors appeared in cap and gown adding dignity to the occasion. The decorations were the same as at the Institute Senior's reception, one prominent feature being a large American flag.

It is probable that if the international games between Yale and Harvard, and Oxford and Cambridge be arranged, that they will be held at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo.

Second Preliminary Junior Debate.

Bucknell Hall was well filled with students and town people on Thursday evening, the occasion of the Second Preliminary Junior Debate. In the absence of Dr. Harris, Dr. Perrine acted as presiding officer. Dr. Perrine, Dr. Hulley and Dr. Heim were the judges. During intermissions in the debate the College Girls' Mandolin and Guitar Club furnished inspiration to the debaters and delighted the audience by rendering several very fine selections. The question was: "Resolved, That an income tax should form a part of our federal system of taxation." The question was well discussed each man meeting the issue fairly and setting forth strong and convincing arguments. There was much speculation as to what would be the decision of the judges. Boyer, Kyle, McCracken and Reilly were chosen for the final.

The debate was opened on the affirmative by T. P. Kyle, who spoke from the following outline.

AFFIRMATIVE, KYLE.

The first requisite of any finiancial system is that it secure funds for the government and secure them in such a way as to bear equally on all the people.

The question at issue is, does the Income Tax cover this ground? The affirmative contend that it does and submit the following division of the subject.

1st division.

That the present systems of Internal Revenue and Tariff bear unjustly upon the poor.

1. Because they are levied on the necessities of life.
2. They increase the cost of living.
3. They actually increase taxation by causing an annual deficit.
4. They discriminate in favor of the rich.

2nd division.

A Federal Income Tax is a just tax.

1. According to the law of economics the national production should pass into the possession of the most efficient. If this is right we contend that the people who receive most should give the most to the support of the government.
2. It tends towards the equalization of taxation.
3. It would tax corporations which cost the government and pay nothing to its support.

3rd division.

It is a Necessary Economic and Practical Tax.

1. It is necessary since the government deficit for the six years preceeding 1900 was $280,000,000.
2. It is an economic tax since it costs less to collect than the Tariff and Internal Revenue.
3. It is a practical tax since it was used by the government for 10 years between 1861-1871.

NEGATIVE, MCCRACKEN.

I. An income tax is not suited to our government.

A. Because of our double commonwealth system. Our state and federal governments are supreme in their respective spheres of action. Each asks support from the same source; hence a tendency to conflict. This conflict has been avoided by granting to the state the right to levy direct taxes, and to the federal government the right to levy indirect taxes.

B. Because of our decentralized system of administration in local affairs, making the collection of the tax difficult, as shown by our failure to collect it efficiently during the Civil War.

C. Because of our adherence to the theory of universal suffrage. It is wrong to lay the support of our government upon the industrious classes and give the ballot to the idle.

II. The income tax is uncertain in its assessment as shown by England's failure to assess and collect it satisfactorily.

III. It is unequal in its operation because it can be evaded.

IV. It is not economic.

A. It would necessitate the addition of a whole department of centralized administration to our civil service system.

B. It lifts the support of our government from the shoulders of the idle and places it upon industry.

Since the income tax is not suited to our form of government, is uncertain even under the most favorable circumstances, is unequal in its operation and is not economic, it should not form a part of our Federal system of taxation.

NEGATIVE, REILLY.

There are two alternatives—revenue or reform

1. Revenue is sufficient: if not it could be met by increase in excise.
2. Our system is just and needs no reform; income tax is unjust and cannot refom; our system is expedient and requires no change; the income tax is inexpedient and therefore cannot aid.
3. If present system is just no change is required: if unjust another unjust tax will make it worse; if the former is unjust and the latter is just it is illogical to incorporate the two in one system.
4. Summary—No necessity for revenue; as a reform the income tax is unnecessary and even if necessary is inadequate; therefore it should not be adopted.

AFFIRMATIVE, BOYER.

I. The claims urged against an income tax are insufficient.

A. The claim that it is inquisitorial is insufficient.

B. The claim that it is sectional is insufficient.

C. The claim that it cannot be honesly collected is insufficient.

II. It would make taxation more just, because.

A. It would be the only tax believed in proportion to the wealth of the taxables.

B. It would tax the bond holders.

C. It would tax corporations.

III. It would enable the government to better regulate its incomes to its expenditures, because.

A. It would be more certain and more elastic.

B. Present revenues do not meet these requirements.

Track Athletics.

The call for track men has been fairly responded to but we need more men—twice the number now in training. If you do not play baseball, come out and try for the track team. No man can tell what he can do without trial. Every inducement will be offered to new men competing, so do not stay away because you cannot win the first time. One week from today March 18th the second outdoor meet will be held. Handicaps will be given and silver medals awarded the winners. The handicaps give every man an equal chance to win. Come out and give the scratch men a hustle. All entries must be handed to Coach Hoskins before Saturday at 6 p. m.

Entrance fee 10c or three for 25c. Medals will be given for the following events, and handicaps allowed. There must be three starters in each event or no prize will be given.

12 lb. shot put.
16 lb. shot put.
Standing high jump.
Running high jump.
Pole vault.
20 yd. dash.
Pole climb.
Potato race.
Goal throwing contest.

We want at least one hundred entries.

L. E. THEIS,
Captain.

Baseball Outlook.

During the past week a meeting of the baseball candidates was held in the cage. About twenty men responded and both Captain Weidensaul and Coach Hoskins spoke briefly about the coming season. They outlined the work, impressing upon the men the need of getting down to work and of practicing faithfully.

This was the formal opening of the season's work and since then the cage has been occupied almost every hour during the day. The men are limbering up inside and getting their arms in shape. The snow will soon be gone and the diamond ready for outdoor practice. Baseball prospects are not as bright at present as in some former years, but there is, nevertheless, much good material in the school. Every man has an unusually good chance of making the team. Come out everyone.

L'Agenda Election.

At a meeting of the Sophomore class in the Laboratory Saturday morning, the following L'Agenda board was elected:

Editor-in-chief, Fetzer—Business Manager, Bertolette.

Institute Assistant—Miss Luchsinger.

Literary Editors—Brant, Ch., Miss Burchette, Miss Coleman, Miss Alif Stephens.

Department of classes—Miss Ebling.

Department of organizations—Miss Jane R. Fowler.

Department of athletics—Darlington.

Y. M. C. A. Department—Bresneham.

Department of fraternities—Dunlap.

Artists—Sheldon and Senn.

Class Photographer—J. A. Young.

The New Catalogue.

The fifty-first annual catalogue, just issued, is especially interesting, as showing a marked advance in attendance in all departments of the university, material progress in the matter of buildings and equipment, and several notable changes in the curriculum.

It shows a total attendance of over five hundred. Of these three hundred and twenty-eight are in the college. The Senior class numbers fifty-five. The total property of the Institution now aggregates over $750,000, all of which has been contributed by individuals, no aid having been received from the state.

In the curriculum many elective courses have been added. Mechanics, physics, and astronomy have been made elective in the Junior year and Psychology, Ethics and Theism will be required in that year, thus making the Senior year entirely elective.

A year of German will be required in the Scientific course, Academy, and option of German or French through the Fresdman year of the college in all except the classical course.

In the department of political science, new courses have been added in Railroad Transportation, Municipal Government and Public Finance. In organic science, courses in Cryptogamic Botany, Neurology, Bacteriology and Physiological Psychology have been introduced. In philosophy, courses are offered in Metaphysics and Philosophy of Mind. New courses will be given also in Sanitary Science, Economic Geology, and City Surveying.

The catalogue itself is an improvement on that of last year, being more compact in form and printed in somewhat larger type.

Pan-American Games.

At the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Association in New York in February a resolution was adopted indorsing the Pan-American Intercollegiate games to be held in Buffalo in the spring. These games are to be under the direction of the Committee on Sports, whose members all are college men, and will take place in the Stadium on the Exposition grounds on Friday May 31st and Saturday June 1st. Following, as it does by a week, the regular Intercollegiate Meet in New York and several of the Western track meets, the Pan-American Meet is sure to draw competitors from all sections of the country. Such an opportunity for a thoroughly national meet of college athletes is rarely offered and it is to be hoped and expected that the college men generally will show the interest and give the support that the occasion demands. The meet will be conducted under the rules of the Intercollegiate Association, and all of the judges and officials will be college men of well known reputation and experience. Handsome medals will be given to the first three men in each event and to the two colleges scoring the highest number of points trophies will be awarded.

The Girls' Glee Club concert was postponed from Friday evening to Tuesday evening. It will be given in Bucknell Hall, and every one is cordially invited.

College life is both broadening and narrowing in its tendencies; broadening since it constantly opens up new fields of activity and pleasure; narrowing since, to prevent dissipation of energy, certain things have to be crowded out, and in this process of crowding out, a man must look closely to his own needs and interests. A certain selfishness may be engendered which can easily over-reach itself. That spirit that views everything in the light of the immediate material return which may be gotten from it, is hostile to the healthy life of any community. Unless the students throw themselves unselfishly into all college activities there can be no lasting college spirit. Three departments of college activity, athletics, Y. M. C. A. work, and college journalism, ought to be sustained by every man who is not prevented by stern and absolute financial necessity.

When we enter college, we are given a thorough physical examination, and this is one of the best features of our physical department. But unfortunately the matter ends here. In order that the student may derive the best results from such an examination, his development should be followed, and any weakness that may arise or any tendency toward unsymmetrical development that may become manifest, should be corrected. For this reason, we think it would be advisable for the examinations to be repeated at least once a year—although at many institutions they are held at more frequent intervals—and in this way data would be accumulated that would not only be of great service to the men themselves, but would be of real scientific value. The examinations would doubtless make a great deal of work for the physical department, but we believe that this would be more than compensated for by the great benefits that the students would derive therefrom, and by the increased efficiency it would make possible to the department.

Dr. Hill to Speak.

The Andrew Gregg Tucker post of the G. A. R. has requested the former president of Bucknell University, David J. Hill, to deliver an oration at the unveiling of the soldiers monument in Lewisburg on July 4th next. The post is in receipt of a reply from Dr. Hill in which he graciously accepts the invitation of Post 52. In his letter Dr. Hill calls attention to the fact that his varied duties have prevented him from visiting Lewisburg since he resigned from the presidency of Bucknell.

Collins' Lecture.

Hon. Emerson Collins lectured to a small but appreciative audience in Bucknell Hall on Thursday evening upon the subject, "Abraham Lincoln." The orator spoke of the early life of Lincoln and of the death of his mother and stated that from the nature of his surroundings and early career no one would have expected such a brilliant future. Although we can measure in a degree his power as a statesman, yet the man is unmeasured by all his biographers. It is his personality, that marks him. The speaker then proceeded to describe his traits, stating that we know all the facts in his career. Until the age of twenty-one, he did the work of a boy in a frontier community. He was honest, tender-hearted and thirsted for knowledge.

After he was admitted to the bar he came into collision with the ablest men of his time. Lincoln was never an able lawyer, but was a keen politician. His ethical crusade against slavery developed him. To challenge Douglas to a debate required sublime courage.

When Lincoln was elected he was a comparative stranger to the people of the East. Expediency had nominated him. In executive functions he had no experience. People were shocked at the crudeness and rudeness of the man. The situation was critical. Immediately after his election seven states seceded. The treasury was empty. Credit was gone. Europe was hostile. The President came to Washington unshaken in his faith. He wooed and won the border states. He made the South the aggressor, and when Fort Sumter was fired upon the whole North flew to arms.

He showed no fear of great men, while President. He sought and asked the advice of great men but in the great crisis decided himself. His supreme gift was his oneness to the people.

As President, he always kept in touch with public sentiment and public opinion. Always timed his great measure to the sentiment of the masses. Great as were his achievements, yet he was greater than anything he did. We as a nation, will never forget the leading characters of that period of our history, but the name of Abraham Lincoln will always stand out as the chief figure of that great civil struggle.

Chas. Armour, 1900, is teaching in Liverpool, Ohio, High School. The papers there report him as doing fine work.

We extend our heart felt sympathy to W. G. Murdock, who was called home last Wednesday on account of the death of his sister.

Go to Rippel's at Milton for all sorts of fine work in the Photo line. Look up our work and prices, we can and will suit you.

Bucknell--Gettysburg Game.

Monday's game with Gettysburg closed on of the most successful basketball seasons Bucknell ever had, the team having won twelve out of the thirteen games.

The score of the Gettysburg game was 44-11; despite the great disparity in figures, the game was interesting, as almost any basketball game is on account of its activity, pretty bits of team work, etc.

The home team was in no condition for a fast game, having had no practice for some time; however, they put up a good game especially in the second half and had no trouble in winning.

Gettysburg played a fast active game but were somewhat lacking in team work and Bucknell's passing kept the ball away from them during almost the whole game.

Elliott's and Bevan's goal shooting was the feature of the game.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The last meeting of Chemical and Physical Society for the term was held in the Laboratory last Thursday afternoon at four o'clock with president W. G. Owens in the Chair.—The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Prof. Simpson took up the first part of the hour with a discussion on "Summer Showers." He very lucidly explained the various Phenomena connected with Showers from the standpoint of Physical Geography.

Brown, '03, discussed the "Manufacture of Printers' Ink." Bevan, '01, followed with a discussion on "Steel and Coal Industries." He traced its progress with the progress of civilization showing its various phases.

Frampton, '03, gave a "Review of the Inventions of Mr. Edison." He also spoke of Edison's plan to make a durable record from silver and gold for the phonograph.

Prof. Owens closed the afternoon program with a discussion on the "Asphaltum Industry in the Trinidad Island." He mentioned the presence there of a lake of Ashphaltum covering 114 acres. He further spoke on the Heat Engines used in Los Angeles.

Society was then adjourned to meet the second Thursday night in the next term.

Senior Debate.

The second preliminary for the Senior Honor debate was held in Theta Alpha Hall on Friday evening immediately after the class of the Literary Society meeting.

The question discussed was: Resolved, That the Nicaragua and the Panama Route should be adopted.

The question was debated with the assumption that the United States would construct the canal. The United States is the nation peculiarly interested in the construction of the canal since the canal will benefit her most directly and since she essentially needs the canal for her full development. Under these conditions the United States should adopt that route which offers the best advantages for constructing and maintaining an inter-ocean canal.

The question was well discussed on both sides and the speeches showed careful preperation. The advantages and disadvantages of the respective routes were pointed out and carefully compared. The question was debated largely from an economic and practical point of view. The main arguments in support of the Nicaragua route were 1. Its practicability in construction. 2. It affords a fresh water harbor in the canal, 3. The regulation of the water supply, 4. It is the shortest route from our eastern to our western shores, 5. There is a rich adjacent country, 6. The popularity of the scheme.

The negative side maintained that the Panama route was preferable because 1. It is more feasible. (a.) There are shorter and less deep cuts, (b.) The distance is shorter, (c.) There are fewer embankments and good foundation for these, (d.) The locks are finer and more easily constructed: II. Less time required for passage III. Climates conditions are favorable, IV. Water supply easily controlled, V. No treaty conflicts with any foreign country.

The judges, Prof. Helm, Prof. Hamblin and Instructor Fisk selected Messrs Alexander, Bechtel, Burpee and Shields to appear in the final honor debate which will be in the latter part of the spring term.

1901 vs. 1904.

Saturday's game between 1901 and 1904 proved to be a hot affair, and was anybody's game until the whistle blew. At the start 1901 showed unexpected speed and had four points to their credit before the Freshmen woke up, and neither scored again during this half.

The second half was even speedier than the first. 1904 crawled up slowly and finally went ahead. With less than two minutes to play, the score stood 1904, 12-1901, 8: then the Seniors made a spurt, and only poor shooting kept them from scoring more than the one goal that they did get. As it was, time was called, with the Freshmen ahead, having scored all their 12 points in the second half.

The goal throwing of Little and C. Shepard was the best feature of the game which seemed football rather than basketball.

Girls' Glee Club Concert.

On Tuesday evening the College Girls' Club made its initial appearance giving a most delightful concert in Bucknell Hall. A large and appreciative audience was in attendance, almost every seat in the house being filled. This organization is under the leadership of Miss Knox and reflects great credit upon her as a leader, and upon the young ladies themselves as faithful pupils. The club is very well selected, all voices harmonizing and and the different parts being well balanced; their enunciation, rythm, expression and modulations were excellent.

Miss Lawshe's violin solo was highly appreciated as evidenced by the hearty applause, and Miss Aiken's piano solo also came in for a deservedly large share of applause. Miss Bacon took the house by storm, and Miss Knox beautifully rendered that gem "Nymphs and Fauns," being heartily recalled.

Everyone was disappointed at the non-appearance of the quartette. The future popularity of this organization may be taken as assured after Tuesday's brilliant performance.

Below appears the program.

PROGRAM.

Class Game.

The 1902-1903 class game on Wednesday was very poorly attended, and although the score was one sided, the Juniors did not have their strongest team on the floor, but nevertheless they proved to many for the sophs. the final score being 448; 1903 was unable to score during the first half which ended 23-0. In the second half 1902 eased up somewhat and the sophs. got three fieldgoals and two points from fouls. The team won of 1902 was much superior and 1903 seldom got the ball.

During the past year no effort has been spared in beautifying the the campus and rendering it neat and attractive. The paths have been laid out anew and carefully graded. The enbankments along the paths and about the buildings have been raised and covered with sod. Ivy has been planted along the main college building. The drainage system is complete so that there is now little danger that the grounds will be damaged by heavy showers. On every hand marked improvement in the appearance of the campus may be noted and surely all look on these improvements with a feeling of pride and satisfaction.

Is it not true, however, that this work has not been properly appreciated? Or, is it merely on account of thoughtlessness and carelessness that the students have not manifested greater interest in helping to keep the surroundings in good condition? The latter is likely the more probable reason. Evidence of this may frequently be seen. One need but travel in front of the main college building to be thoroughly convinced of this fact. Is it not the duty of everyone to aid in beautifying the campus? The efforts of those hired by the University must surely end in failure unless the students co-operate with them. Co-operation may be of two kinds: giving active assistance or refraining from anything that would hinder the best results of those who do perform the active work. The latter especially is the method the students should have in mind. Refraining from anything that would mar the appearance of the campus will not only be of advantage to those who try to keep the grounds in order but also add much to the comfort, pleasure and health of everyone.

During the next term let all be a little more thoughtfull in regard to this. If each one does his part we need not feel ashamed of the apperance of our campus. We may truly make it one of the "most favored spots on earth." All that is needed is an honest appreciation of the endervors of others and greater care on our part.

Adademy Notes.

Harry Coryell was home over Sunday.

We regret to announce that Robert Simington was taken home on account of sickness.

A very intresting debate was held by the Calhopean Literary Society last Friday evening. The following debaters were chosen to meet the Bloomsburg team: Messrs. Coverdale, Owens Barton and Klutz.

Thomas Morris, 1900, is very ill of typhoid pneumonia at Nanticoke, where he has been teaching for the past year.

Base Ball Dances.

The first of a series of informal dances for base ball was held in Armory Hall last Friday night. It was a decided success in every way except financially.

Trate's orchestra consisting of six pieces rendered most excellent music. Every one presen reptort a most enjoyable time.

The second dance of the series will likely be held on April 26 and it is hoped that a large number will respond.

Lecture by Dr. Harris.

Dr. Harris yesterday morning delivered his regular term lecture before the student body. His lecture follows in substance:

That all sane human beings regard some actions as right and others as wrong is universally admitted. Even Hume who denies everything that can be denied, says that the person who denies this is a "disengenious disputant." The standard by which we adjudge some actions right and others wrong is the moral law. The moral law may be either stated as abstract principle or incarnate a example. By conscience we mean the judgment of self in the sphere of motive in the light of moral law. Conscience is judicial, not legislative. It does not enact law. Moral law is a revelation of the nature of God. Moral law comes from a person, therfore it has authority. As abstract principle which I understand and approve does not have authority for me. It is in one sense above me; but in another sense I am above it, inasmuch as I know the law but the law does not know me. The law to be moral, to bind my conscience, must come from a moral person: must be grounded in righteousness. It must also be the expression of love, if it is to enlist my affection. It must also be backed by adequate power for ultimate triumph, if it is to have my absolute trust. These three characteristics are found only in the Supreme Being, in God, who is the server of moral law. Moral law is not an enactment but a revelation.

Nor is the function of conscience to apply the moral law to particular cases. That is a matter of judgment, of common sense, not different in kind from the application of general laws to particular laws. It is my duty to vote for the man whose election will be for the best interests of the community. But whether the election of A. or of B. will promote the best interests of the community, is a question of judgment in view of all the facts of the case.

The judgment of conscience is a judgment upon the personal, moral self. It is a judgment in the sphere of motive. If I firmly believe that I should vote for the person whose election will subserve the best interests of the community, and I am convinced that the election of A. will subserve the best interests, and I vote for A., I approve my action. Even if find out afterward that the election of B. for some reason before unknown, would have been better, I do not condemn myself as guilty, though I would reject my error of judgment. But if I thought the election of A. would be for the best interests, and for some sinister reason I voted for B., then I would condemn myself for having acted unworthily, and would feel mean about it. Did I intend to do right or did I intend to do wrong? This is the question upon which conscience sits in judgment, and upon which it acquits or condemns. The feeling of complacency or displacency which follows is not a part of conscience, but is a matter of feeling.

Custer, '04, spent his vacation in Allentown.

Lecture.

Prof. Schaller Matthews, professor of New Testament History and Interpretation in the University of Chicago, delivered a most scholarly and instructive lecture before the entire student body in Bucknell Hall last Friday morning. His subject was the "Duty and Opportunity which comes to an educated man in times of Crises."

Interesting study of pre-revolutionary epochs, but not all transition epochs are pre-revolutionary, (depends on the way in which men of an age guide the signs of their times).

Therefore it is hard for a man to see the signs of his own times. But a man may see the sowing and the growing for a harvest of Revolution, yet such a transition may not result in a revolution for an age may be (1) iconoclastic or (2) constructive.

He divides the discussion into three heads.

I. This is a transition period in Economics—a movement from individual to collective production.

Result of this combination process can not be evil and can not be stopped. But must infuse into it the Christian spirit. The co-operative man is something more than a consumer, exchanger, etc. He is a father, lover, patriot. Can't be an economic man but a man. Opportunity here as a result of the combination process for the educated man of capacity to do something more than a task.

Co-operation in transitional stage is under the law whereas individual production was not. Public opinion can control co-operation inasmuch as public opinion shapes laws: Therefore educated and Christian man can control this by shaping the law.

II. Social change. With rise in large factories. Leaving farms and mills in New England: The New England farm.

Rights of city.—No use to denounce the city. In city every sort of opportunity for the educated man. A man is not lost to the city until he is lost to himself. He must get in touch with the institutions of the city; He must identify himself with some political party or with the church.

Rise of non-partisan leagues in Chicago.

There is a class of men whose chief stock lies in lamentation. We ought to fear the reformer out of a job. We need progressive conservatism. French Revolution tried to destroy the past. We can't make a new present by destroying an old past.

III. Transition in thought really takes in the rest. Unity of three. Publication of Darwin's thought has changed the world.

Here educated man comes in most of all. He must conserve change and direct moral end.

The efforts of education are to make man the bigger rascal and to harden up a man in the thoughts of the past.

What the educated man can do:

1. Be sane.
2. Be honest, sincere and earnest.
3. Be faithful.

We, the intelligently educated masses, are the people to whom the world must look for intelligent conservatism.

Pitts, ex-'02, is visiting friends at the University.

Baseball Prospects.

The chances for Bucknell putting an excellent baseball team on the diamond this season are very bright. The number of candidates for the various positions is larger than in former years and the interest already manifested by the student body is no doubt likely to bring about the very best results; the candidates are taking advantage of every opportunity for practice and each afternoon the athletic field is the center of attraction for a couple of hours.

Last Thursday afternoon all candidates that were back appeared on the diamond in new suits. Saturday afternoon at three o'clock Captain Weidensaul of the 'Varsity and Capt-Smith of the second team called the two nines together and played several innings. From the team work as shown during this game indications seem to point to a strong team this season.

Stanton, the catcher of two year's ago, will again appear behind the bat. Grimminger, Deats and Johnson will make valuable substitutes. Veil, Hess and Little will do the twirling. All three are also valuable men in the outfield. Veil throws good ball, is a heavy hitter and has good control. Hess throws good left hand ball, is cool and reserved and can be fully relied on. Little pitched good ball for the 'Cad last season and will no doubt show up well on the 'Varsity. Edwards is a candidate for first base and is doing faithful practice. Ellis and Roger Edwards are preparing for the same position. Weidensaul and Thiefel are good strong men for second; both are heavy hitters and are always present when the ball comes their way. Carlisle will take care of short stop; in this position he is showing up in fine style. With his batting average of last year he should make a valuable addition to the team. Grimminger is looking after things over on third and with the assistance of Galbreath this corner of the diamond should be well cared for. Capt. Weidensaul, Milligan and Little of last years' outfield are back and will no doubt do valuable work in this quarter again this season. Weidensaul covers a vast amount of territory and is a sure steady fielder. Valuable work was also done by the other two men last season. Sigel, Ellis, Daniels, Smith, Taylor, Carrier, Jones, Deats, Bell, Barrett and Fairchilds are among the other candidates for outfield and from these some valuable substitutes and second team men can be selected.

On the whole the indications are very encouraging and Bucknell will undoubtedly hold her own in College base ball circles.

Manager Konkle announces the following very excellent schedule which we append.

How to Study Shakspere.

PROF. PERRINE.

Shakspere, as Bacon would say, is one of those books to be chewed and digested. A young man, asked whether he had read Hamlet, replied "Once." "O, Iago, the pity of it, Iago!" Having selected a play read, in the following order:

(1) The plot told either by Charles or Mary Lamb in their "Tales." This to avoid confusion and disappointment because of the poetry, quaint expressions, multiplicity of characters in the original;

(2) the play rapidly as developed by the poet:

(3) the play carefully with good notes—Hudson's, Rolfe's, Wright's, the "Arden" and, above all, Furness in the Variorum editions:

(4) the play, grammatically and rhetorically—Abbot's Shakespearian Grammar:

(5) the play, philologically—Skeat's Etymological Dictionary, Craik's English of Shakspere and the like:

(6) the play, with reference to dramatis personae individually and in connection with others as in Gervinus of the Germans, Taine of the French, Castelar of the Spanish, Wendell of the English;

(7) the play for the dramatic action—Dowden's Shakspere: his Mind and Art, Moulton's Shakspere as a Dramatic Artist:

(8) the play, after reading criticism of Lamb and Coleridge, the best in English so far as they go:

(9) Above all, the play, never letting another's "talk" about it take the place of your personal knowledge.

After all this reading one may say with truth that he has gone a short way upon the "ocean that is Shakspere:" about whom Walter Raleigh wrote in his diary: "They are comparing me with Shakspere. I'm not worthy to tie his brogues."

Will attendance upon the theatre when either Garrick, Kean, Booth or Irving plays, be helpful to study? Two views are held. One that it will not—supported by Charles Lamb in his essay "On the Tragedies of Shakspere," a view with which Wordsworth agreed: the other that it will, seen in any defense of the stage. One thing is sure: the more deeply read Shaksperian one may be, the less he will find in the stage to instruct or entertain since the best representation falls far short of the splendid ideal to which the poet has already introduced him.

Chemical and Physical Society.

Chemical and Physical Society will convene for the first time this term on Thursday evening of this week. C. M. Konkle will discuss "The Manufacture of Steel." Everybody welcome.

Reese H. Harris '03, has been engaged to teach this summer in the Everett Normal School, of which Rev. B. C. Lathrop is principal.

The Rev. J. Henry Haslam, Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Williamsport will deliver the annual sermon before the Christain Association.

Prof. Vincent B. Fisk has resigned as instructor of oratory to accept a position with Colgate University. Rev. Bowser, '88' takes Prof. Fisk's place.

With the advent of the opening of the school term there comes to each student that old question as to what he shall study for the ensuing three months. It is an old, old question and yet one that is ever new, because it has to be decided afresh each term by every student in the university.

Bucknell has lately followed the precedent established by all larger colleges in regard to the elective system. The students already feel a greater freedom as to the choice of studies, and in the coming year the change will be felt more deeply. It behooves us to be careful lest we abuse the privileges and advantages connected with the choice of elective studies.

There are two principal ways of viewing an education: the first, as the direct training of the mind for a professional career: the second—and the broader—as the mental, moral, volitional, and, shall we say physical training of a man, which shall better enable him to live.

Taking the first view and supposing that a man's profession is chosen with regard for his likes and dislikes—as it should be—then the direct conclusion is that no one should study what he does not like or what does not bear directly upon the natural bent of his mind. It is not immediately evident that such a course will produce a narrow, one-sided man,—one who will always go through life with but one eye open? Yet many call this the only practical view to take of an education. It is an age of specialization and if one will be a factor in his age he must therefore specialize. But, pray, how can a student specialize with a warped and narrow intellect? No sculptor can produce a work of art with an imperfect chisel; no more can a man produce perfect work along any line whose mind is an imperfect and ineffective instrument. Therefore, be very sure that you calculate accurately how much of your four years' course is needed for the proper development of your mind in order that it may become a perfect and effective instrument.

Certainly it is just the volitional and mental training needed to pursue a subject for which one has no special aptitude and master it. That is obtaining the highest object of an education. Schools do not want to turn out cranks, but men, well rounded, with enough mathematical training to make them clear, practical reasoners, enough history to make them intelligent, enough literature to make them fond of good reading, enough of logic, ethics, and economics to make them capable of grappling the great social problems of the day, and enough of language to make them scholarly. You say this is the ideal student. It is true. Yet we must never cease to strive after the ideal. There is no royal road to learning. Let students not cater so much to their pleasure, but lay a broad foundation for the future which is all an education may hope to accomplish. Subsequent to or in co-operation with such a training specialization finds its true sphere.

Athletics.

During the term there will be several notable athletic events in which Bucknell will take part. Besides the annual relay races at Philadelphia arrangements have been completed for two intercollegiate meets and there will probably be a third; hence it is of importance that everyone who has ability should report at once to the coach for training. In order that we may win in these events it is necessary that we put forth our most earnest efforts. So far during the year Bucknell has made some enviable records and it should be the object of every one interested in the college to make this year's records the best that have ever been made.

The work at present may be said to have fairly begun. The men are training faithfully for the spring meets and everything points to a successful season. The prospects for a relay team are very good. There was a rumor earlier in the season that neither Pearse nor Goodall would report this spring; however both are in training and we feel sure that we will be able to send a winning team to Philadelphia.

Although the work at present is centered on the relay men it is desired that more weight men, jumpers and vaulters report. Training cannot begin to early. It will be but a little more than a month before the first meet and unless the men are in the best condition we cannot hope to win. Let every man be out and let each one train faithfully, feeling that upon him depends the possibility of defeat or victory.

Manager Goodman has arranged the following schedule:

April 27, Pennsylvania's Annual Athletic Carnival at Philadelphia.

May 21, Dickinson College at Lewisburg.

May 25, Indians at Carlisle.

Probably Lehigh at Lewisburg (date not settled.)

The following men are in training: Goodall, Dunlap, Pearse, Tiffany, Young, Glaspey, Theis, Slifer, Lesher, Mauser, Reilly, Griffiths, Rittenhouse, Christ, McNitt, Gillis, Fetzer and Shorkley.

At a recent meeting, of the Freshmen class Robinson was elected Orange and Blue representative to take the place of Sturges.

Y. M. C. A. Greeting.

To the Members of the Y. M. C. A. and other students of the University:

With the opening of the Spring term, the oversight of the work of the Y. M. C. A. in part changes hands; new persons guide the work; fresh and renewed vigor is desired from all. The incoming President would therefore, in behalf of the new administration, ask your sincere and prayerful support.

We are glad because of the number that can be depended upon for active work, but no one would wish us to be satisfied with this. The work which is before us needs the strong and constant support of each member of the association. Possibly some have been faithful in Christian work at other places, but have allowed their interest to wane; let them consider the causes and see whether the difficulties cannot be surmounted while they are still in college and their influence is still potent for good.

Are there features in the association which you would improve? Be perfectly sure that there are no suggestions which would not be thankfully received and considered, no help that would not be most cordially welcomed. If you can but realize that the officers are your officers, the committees your committees, desiring always to help you in any way possible, and hoping for your interest and help, you will appreciate, in some way at least, the way in which our work may be made mutual, and the bonds of our Christian brotherhood be more strongly united.

We hope, therefore, that the following committees will have your earnest support and hearty co-operation:

Religious Meeting.—T. A. Sherbody, Chm., A. B. S. Bechtel, M. F. Forbell, A. G. Karge.

Missionary:—L. J. Ulmer, Chm., E. T. Shields, R. F. Bresnahan, J. E. Hunsberger.

Baseball.

The Baseball Management received word from Syracuse a few days ago to the effect that they had two games cancelled on their Pennsylvania trip and being unable to fill in those dates, they were compelled to cancell the entire trip as guarentees would not permit of their coming. Consequently there will be no game here on the 12th, inst. but Bloomsburg will be here on Saturday April 13. This game was postponed on account of rainy weather from last Saturday and it is hoped that a large crowd will turn out to see Bucknells' team in her opening game. The game will de called at 2.15 p. m. Admission 25c.

Chemical and Physical Society.

The first regular meeting of the Chemical and Physical Society for the spring term was held in the lecture room of the Laboratory last Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock with Prof. W. G. Owens presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

C. M. Konkle, '01, took up the discussion on "The Manufacture of Steel." The remarks were based on information and data gained from a visit to the works of the Pennsylvania Steel Company. The discussion traced the process from the blast furnace including a full description of the same. The ladle cears, pig beds, open hearth and Bessimer furnaces, both acid and basic and the piggery were each described; the open hearth furnace more in detail however. The tapping of the heat, casting of ingots, rolling into blooms, billets and slabs, forging, etc., were each described. The physical test for elasticity, tensile strength, elongation and character of fracture, and the test made in the chemical laboratory were each explained.

Custer, '04, set forth some points in addition as seen at the Bethlehem Works.

Prof. Owens made some valuable remarks after which the society adjourned to meet April 18th.

Intersociety Debates.

During last year two intersociety debates were held between Euepia and Theta Alpha. No doubt much good many arise from debates of this kind and so this is a feature of literary work that is to be commended. It will help to keep up a keen, active interest and leads to wholesome rivalry. The members of each society will be more desirous for the advancement of the organization to which they belong than if no rivalry exists and better debates will surely be developed.

The method used for the selection of those who shall enter the final debates is competative. The preliminary debates are open to any who desire to enter. Those who excel are then chosen by competent judges to represent the societies.

It was decided during last term that one such debate confined to underclassmen, should be held between the societies during the present term. After a preliminary debate Theta Alpha chose Singiser, '03, and Roby, '04, to represent the society. Euepia held her preliminary last Friday evening, when Robinson, '04, and McGiffin, '04, were chosen. The intersociety debate will probably be held in May.

Theta Alpha's Officers.

Theta Alpha Literary society elected the following officers for the ensuing term:

President—J. W. McCracken, '02.
Vice President—M. R. Sheldon, '03.
Secretary—F. A. Sherbondy, '02.
Treasurer—R. E. Carringer, '03.
Critic—A. S. Bechtel, 01.
Censor—E. P. Heckert, '02.
Curator—O. C. Thomas, '04.

Fred W. Veil spent Saturday and Sunday at his home in Williamsport.

A few mornings ago the student body was greeted with a pleasant surprise. It is very gratifying to be relieved from the monotony of the regular order of chapel exercises and actually sing some new songs. The advent of spring, the twittering of the birds, and the new songbooks seem not to be an inharmonious combination on one of these balmy mornings.

Yet the greatest delight of all comes to us in the experience of taking from the rack books that are clean and fresh—books that have not yet come into the contaminating hands of the professional book-marker. This iconoclast has done his work well in the past. The old books were interlined and marked and torn and mutilated and illustrated until they looked more as though they had been the property of some grammar school which boys and girls of ten and twelve are wont to frequent than that they had been used by the young men and women of Bucknell University.

It is one thing to pursue a system of marking your own private library and quite another thing to mark or deface either borrowed or public property. A private library well marked is often worth many times its original book value; but even here it depends on the person whether his marking will make his book an invaluable possession or a nuisance. Yet the one who marks a book that is not his own violates one of the common rules of etiquette. Still worse than all this is it to scribble notes and draw pictures in a book which is placed before you for your temporary use. Far more noble would it be to still the rising artistic inspiration for a more suitable place and to expend surplus nervous energy otherwise than in wriggling a pencil back and forth upon the fly leaf of a hymn-book. There is no doubt, however, but that our new possessions, in-so-much as they are duly appreciated, will likewise be duly respected.

Let the students bear in mind those who are the best patrons throughout the town. There are many who contribute to the welfare of the college in numerous ways. Through the advertising columns of the different college periodicals, by attendance at the games, lectures, entertainments, and in many other ways they benefit us materially. It is no more than right then that we should remember those who contribute so largely to the various organizations connected with the college.

By running over the advertising columns of the college papers, consulting subscription lists, etc., students may easily gain a knowledge as to who those persons are, and to them belongs the largest share of your patronage. Those who manifest little interest in us and give nothing to our aid surely cannot expect much patronage from us. Keep in mind then when making purchases those to whom your support rightly belongs.

Pan-American Exposion Committee Appointed by the President of the L. A. W.

Hon. H. S. Earle, President of the League of American Wheelmen, has announced committee appointments as follows:

Pan-American Exposition Committee—Col. C. Lee Abell, 11 Mooney-Brisbane Bldg., Buffalo, N. Y., Chairman: Thomas D. Haines 1601 Moyamensing St., Philadelphia, Pa.; Dr. A. A. Bryson, 243 Sheridan Ave., Detroit, Mich.; Dr. L. C. LeRoy, 6 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.; W. G. Grady, 113 East Bay St., Savannah, Ga.; John R. Williams, 1933 North St., St. Louis Mo.

This action of the President will undoubtly meet with the cordial approval of every member of the of the L. A. W. as all these gentlemen are well known and enthusiastic workers.

It is the general belief that the labors of the committee will result in a greater gathering of League members than ever before, and that the most successful meet in the history of the L. A. W., will be the one held in Buffalo during the week commencing August 12th.

Aside from the attractions of the L. A. W. Meet, there will be many inducements which will cause cyclists to visit Buffalo at that time; among others, the central location of the city, within easy touring distance of all the principal cities of the Eastern and Middle States and Canada, the cheap railroad fares, the desire on the part of wheelmen to visit the Pan-American Exposition and Niagra Falls, and the fact that a week of International Cycle racing is to be given on the especially constructed quarter-mile track in the magnificent Stadium on the Exposition grounds.

The Sermon to the Christian Associations.

On Sunday morning the annual sermon to the Christian Associations of the University was preached in the Baptist church. Pres. Johnson of the College Association read the scripture lesson from the 24th chapture of Luke's gospel from the 13th to the 36th verse. Rev. Judd offered prayer after which Miss Knox sang an excellent solo. The Rev. J. Henry Haslam, of the First Baptist church of Williamsport, was then introduced.

The sermon throughout was practical and inspiring. The speaker showed the importance of a real enthusiasm or heart-burning in Chritian work and especially emphasized the need of converse with a living Christ. The text on which the sermon was based is recorded in the 24th chapter of St. Luke: "And they said one to another. Did not our heart burn within us while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?" Rev. Haslam spoke in part as follows:

The clearest evidence of a master is seeming indifference. We are all familiar with examples of this. The good musician is the one who, while seemingly indifferent, is a perfect master of the fundamentals of his noble art. The great novelist delights and charms his readers all unconscius of anything that pertains to self. In the person of Christ we come face to face with a master and nowhere can we find a better example of this than in the story of the divine compassion.

Two things are necessary for advancement in the Christian life. The first of these is the cherishing of high ideals. It is well known that no person can climb beyond his ideals. The ideals must always be higher than the attainment of the individual; and while this is true of the individual it is no less true of corporations and organizations. The ideal marks the limit of advancement. Besides, there is needed a permanent enthusiasm that builds the actuals of life over against life's supremest ideals. However, care must be exercised in defining the term enthusiasm It is nothing evanescent or effervescent. It is as Luke says, a heart-burning. It includes not a part but all of man, the physical, the intellectual, the moral and the spiritual, and we may look for the source of permanent strength in Christ; converse with him begets a real enthusiasm. In the wilderness the tempter assails every side of Christ's nature. In the first temptation he appeals to the physical. Power is used in the second to appeal to another side of Christ's nature and presumption in the third. But in every instance we find the great master sustained by a permanent strength, a real enthusiasm. Enthusiasm is not being in God so much as God being in us. One writer said that it is "God radiant in glory through a human life."

There are two great functions of the Christian. The Christian must be a witness. We are too familiar with what is often called witnessing, the mere speaking of words. Witnessing is not a matter of empty words but of a man's life. In the religions of Confucius, Buddha and Mohammed we find much that is good and grand and true;

Rebecca's Triumph.

On Monday evening the Girls' Dramatic Club presented "Rebecca's Triumph" before a select audience. The affair was a great success from start to finish, reflecting great credit upon the members of the organization and upon Miss Schillinger, their instructor. Throught the entire programme there was scarcely a noticeable break of any kind, while some of the acting was very good indeed. Miss Church, as Rebecca, was the central figure and carried her part out well. As crazy Meg, Miss Halfpenny admirably filled one of the most difficult roles of the evening. Her earnestness throughout, and display of genuine feeling gave a reality to the character, as pleasing as it was startling. She was exactly in the right place and aided by a good "get up" proved one of the stars of the evening. Miss Fowler, as Clarissa Codman, made a decided hit winning well merited applause. Her soliloquies were imimitable and greatly delighted the audience time and again. The two servants Gyp and Kittie Conner, in the person of Misses Schillinger and Allen, also came in for their share of applause. Their work was clever in the extreme, lacking all stiffness and being remarkably true to life.

Lack of space alone prevents personal mention of each; we must, however, speak of the excellent work of both Misses Welliver and Shephard who carried out well the parts assigned them.

The members of "Our Club" each did her part well, so that the entire programme passed off smoothly.

The management displayed good judgement in assigning the different roles, as invarably the proper person was chosen for each place.

In view of the very limited experience of each performer, the entire performance was exceptionally well rendered, and the ORANGE AND BLUE extends its hearty congratulations to the Girl's Dramatic Club upon their second successful appearance. We append the programme:

Bloomsburg vs Bucknell.

Bucknell lost her opening game of the season, on Saturday to Bloomsburg in a very close and exciting game. The game was interesting from the spectator's standpoint and was an open question until the ninth inning when Bloomsburg made a two base hit followed by a single and a long drive to right, bringing in the winning runs.

Bucknell showed good team and individual work at all stages of the game and their defeat can only be attributed to the all around good playing of the visitors. As the first game of the season the usual list of errors is in evidence although on the whole the game was well played. Teufel, Hess and Grimminger figured in several pretty double plays. Carlisle at short stop did some fine fielding.

Bucknell began hostilities by taking the bat in the first inning. Carlisle was the first man in the batters box and tallied a single, Tuefel also got his base. Both men advanced one bag and scored on a two bagger by Hess who also scored. Bloomsburg did some good work in this inning by a two base hit and a single scoring two runs. Score 3-2 in Bucknell's favor.

The second inning gave Bucknell two more runs by Carlisle's single and Weidensaul's two base hit. Both teams settled down to a good steady gait during the third, fourth and fifth innings, neither side scoring. Milligan spoiled two nice hits while Grimminger-Carlisle and Weidensaul put up a fine infield game.

The sixth appeared with the score 5-2. Vail made a single, Stanton got his base on balls and Milligan advanced them by a single. Edwards knocked a grounder between shortstop and third scoring two runs. In the last half Bloomsburg made things interesting by making a two base hit and three singles scoring three times. They also scored in the eigth.

The ninth inning brought Bucknell no runs but the visitors by a couple two base hits scored the winning runs.

The features of the game were the fielding of Weidensaul and Carlisle and the pitching of Bloomsburg's Fisher who amused the audience with his playful antics while at bat and in the box.

College Girl's Reception.

Pretty faces, charming manners, dazzling colors and exquisite taste in arrangements combined to make the annual College Girls' reception, on Friday night, a marked success as a social event of the life of Bucknell. Eager and expectant as were anticipations, the event equalled the brightest picture the mind had painted and left only congratulations for the College Girls on the success of their labors.

Seldom if ever have the parlors of the Institute been so tastefully and artistically decorated, and the loveliness of the surroundings called praise from all present. A radical and a most pleasing change was made in the small west parlor. In place of the cozy corners for the benefit of the lucky few who could secure them, this room was filled with beautiful freshly blooming flowers whose fragrance filled the air and an enchanting conservatory was exhibited to the delight of everyone. In the Chapel decorations such taste and skill were shown that no one would ever imagine anything of the prosaic school life which at other times is accustomed to be present there. The decorations though not less pleasing were more characteristic of college life as one saw on all sides class flags, college colors and cushions. One corner spoken of as the sporting corner was filled with trophies of many a well fought athletic field, while near and in conspicuous places were several copies of Christy's typical Bucknell girl which in such close connection with the athletic side may give us an insight as to what has been the inspiration through which these trophies were won. Across the room, half hidden by a bower of palms, the orchestra gently lent its witchery to the already charming scene and few could resist the impulse to sway with the rythmn of the waltz or other measures.

The guests were received by Misses Wells, Ebling and Lesher assisted by ushers Misses Halfpenny and Deppen. For an hour guests kept arriving until the reception rooms were well filled with merry light hearted college men and women.

The witchery of the surroundings soon held the coldest under its sway and little of the stern reserved formality was in evidence and laughing, chatty groups of smiling faces were seen on all sides, while happy hearts gave a ready wit to the most diffident guest.

At ten o'clock refreshments were served in the dinner rooms below and until the hour came to depart there also the merry jests were heard.

The only regrets were that so pleasant an event came only once a year and was so soon over.

The question has been propounded by some who know nothing of college life as to why it is necessary to have topay tuitionand merely to recite their lessons to a teacher. Why not buy these same books and study them at home? To the members of a college community this question seems preposterous, but the self-made man, so called, stands ready to defend the proposition. The question involves in its answer all that is included in the need or uses of the college as a community.

In the professor the student finds himself face to face with a soul, an intelligence, one who has passed over the ground which the student is now traversing, one who in a sense, represents the concrete ideal toward which the student is working. In other words, the student comes face to face with a living text book. If the teacher is one worthy of the name his own personality will be forever inseparable from the subject which he teaches.

In his college mates the student finds those in the pursuit of similar subjects andin similar occupations; but the greatest benefit which he derives from them lies in the power of personality.

There is a class of students who come to college and miss one of the first benefits attendant on college life. He is called in familiar college term the "grind" or "dig." A better designation for him might be the student miser. He lives with his text-book. It is his only companion, his only friend. He may be amassing dry facts but he is starving himself on a diet of dry bread when he might have an infinite variety of good things for the satisfaction of his nature and the development of his entire self. In short, he is not making himself felt as a personality among his fellow students. He is not a living power among them and has no influence in college circles. It might not make so much difference in college if it were not for the fact that the college life is but a miniature of what the future life is likely to become. Hence, not to influence those about you in college by the power of your personality means that you will not be much of a factor in the world when you have passed beyond the college portals.

This indifference and lethargy on the part of a large class of the student body means that many of the college organizations which are invaluable institutions for personal development are to be left to the direction of the few. It is not just to yourselves, college men and women, that you allow one person to dominate half a dozen institutions. This is really the origin of the political boss. You are making one student fill places which perhaps should find occupation for ten men. Be a personality. Enter our college organizations, not as a politican, but to show to college circles that you count for one soul, one life, and that you have a personality, an influence, which cannot and dare not be overlooked. It will not hurt our athletic field, literary societies, and various musical and christain organizations to overflow with men and women who are willing to identify themselves with one or more of these institutions and work in them. Do not leave the management of all these organizations to a very few who are far-sighted enough to see the ultimate value to be derived from identification with college organizations.

The Sermon to the Christain Association.

but there is an essential difference between these religions and Christianity. The latter ts the system of a living Christ while the former are not. Morcovers in the Christian life work is to be distinguished from witnessing and in the midst of complication and complexity one tning is necessary,—converse with a living Christ.

In the lives of the disciples we notice how greatly they were wrought upon by Christ's absence from them. With Christ they had cut away from their old life and afterwards suddenly see a cross looming up before them. In the case of the disciples their lives were entirely unkeyed. Think what your life would be if Christ were removed from it! Would it not unkey your life as it did the lives of the disciples?

The converse with a living Christ gives rise to the true altruistic missionary temperament. One of the most remarkable developments along this line is the Student Volunteer Association. Struggling forthe lives of others is the grandest, noblest work in which man can engage. It unites all in the closest bonds of sympathy and love. In a word, to struggle for the lives of others is to meet Christ.

Academy Notes.

Next Saturday evening the Third Form contest, for the Rev. David Lease prize, takes place.

Prof. Simpson, Clarence Pront, Coryell and Krouse constitute a quartet which furnishes music for the chapel every evening and the boys feeling themselves under obligation to them take this means of expressing their appreciation.

Last Tuesday evening Dr. Stevens called on the students and entertained them with a talk on his Southern trip. He showed how much easier it is to secure an education in the North than in the South and we should be thankful that we have not the obstacles and difficulties to overcome that our Southern friends have.

Our base ball team started for the Diamond Saturday morning with the avowed intention of securing the scalp of the Lewisburg High school team.

During the first few innings it looked as though we were going to secure the precious trophy; but on account of the apparent indifference of a couple of our players it slipped through our fingers. The special features of the game were the playing of Taylor and Harshburger.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, APRIL 23, 1901. No. 27

Bucknell 25, Berwick 3.

Midst mud and rain Bucknell wound up her first trip by defeating the strong Berwick nine by the score of 25 to 3. Rain fell steadily during the whole game making the ground very slippery, nevertheless the Bucknell team started to play ball in the first inning.

Some difficulty was expected for our boys to hit Smith but this proved to be simply supposition for they got on to his two-fingered curves and hit them at will.

That Bucknell had a batting streak shows in the final, twenty-one hits in five innings. Hess and Stanton each got a home run to their credit.

Hess did excellent work in the box, striking out thirteen men in six innings. The game was called in the sixth on account of the rain.

Bucknell vs. Wyoming.

After loosing her opening game on the home field Bucknell established her playing powers by winning both of the games on the first trip of the season.

Bucknell carried baseball warfare into the enemy's country for the first time this season at Kingston where the wearers of the Orange and Blue easily defeated Wyoming Seminary in a very interesting game. Although the day was perfect for baseball our team, owing to the strange grounds and the Wyoming team, did not score in the first three innings.

Teufel opened the game however in the fourth with a two base hit, Weidensaul and Milligan followed with two more two base hits while Stanton and Sebring brought in more runs with singles. Wyoming responded to this spurt by making one run. The Seminary team played ball in the fifth and sixth holding Bucknell down to one run. The seventh was Bucknell's inning. Weidensaul beginning by a single but was put out at second. Milligan made a single, then Veil and Sebring filled first and second in time to come in on Grimminger's three bagger.

Bucknell won the game in the fourth inning and easily kept the lead throughout the game.

1904 vs. Academy.

The College Freshmen team defeated the Academy team on Friday afternoon in a somewhat interesting game from the spectator's point of view.

The first few innings were nip and tug and it was a question who the winner would be. Taylor of the Academy pitched winning ball and had he received anything like support would have proved a strong argument for the young collegians. He was relieved by Ellis who did fairly well. McGiffen who pitched the opening innings for the Freshies was somewhat unsteady and was hit freely. Gilbert took his place and his wonderful speed won for his team a decided victory. A few sensational catches and a number of long drives, of which Taylors home run was the prettiest, were the chief features of the game.

The final score was 21-10 in favor of 1904. These games not only furnish a lot of amusement to the spectators and rooters but bring out the young material which will serve as such a useful aid to the college nine in after years.

The Baltimore Sun, one of the leading dailies of this country, recently inaugurated a department of book criticism, under the direction of Dr. Guy C. Lee, Professor of Literature in Johns Hopkins University, who is assisted by the professors of literature in a number of other universities, including Bucknell. Dr. Perrine has furnished several criticisms, which have appeared in the Sun.

Next Tuesday evening, April 23, Porter J. White will appear at the Milton Opera House. The beautiful story of "Faust" receives an impression recital at the hands of Mr. White.

Third Form Contest.

The annual Third Form contest in declamation for the Rev. David P. Leas prize was held in Bucknell Hall on Saturday evening. In spite of the inclemency of the weather there was a large audience present nor did anyone have cause to regret having ventured out, and all felt amply repaid for coming. The excellent choice of declamations and the able manner in which they were rendered certainly reflect great credit on the contestants and on the instructor in elocution, Miss Schillinger.

The program was carried out most successfully without a break at any point. Every speaker showed evidence of careful and thoughtful preparation. The appearance of each one on the stage was perfectly free and easy, the enunciation was clear and distinct, and the gestures were very natural. Every speaker recited with great earnestness and entered fully into the spirit of his selection. While each of the selections was of a different character, as may be seen by contrasting Mr. Cunningham's and Mr. Munro's, in every case there was evidence of a degree of mastery of the subject. Lack of space forbids us to mention each speaker separately, however great credit is due to each and surely if those who participated continue to develop their talent in this direction crowns of success await them in the end.

The first on the program was a march by Misses Browning and Secrist followed by the invocation by Principal Edwards. Miss Bacon followed with a vocal solo which she rendered in a most pleasing manner. The first speaker was John Cunningham who recited the "Flight of the Auroch" from "Quo Vadis." Harry Clay Monroe then gave a humorous selection entitled "David Harum's Horse Trade." Following this A. Pierce Waltz recited a selection from Green entitled "The Defense of the Bride." The next on the program was a mandolin trio by Messrs. Hart, Walkinshaw and Prout who were heartily encored. John J. Owens was the next speaker who gave "The Bull Fight" from Byron, after which Amos Ethan Barton recited "The Black Horse and his Rider." John L. Young, who was to be the last speaker, could not be present and so the program ended with a piano solo by Miss Swahn. The winner in the contest will be announced on Commencement Day.

Chemical and Physicial Society.

On Thursday evening, at 4 o'clock, Prof. W. G. Owens will discuss before the Chemical and Physical Society "Principles of Wireless Telegraphy, with illustrations and experiments." It is hoped that a good turn out will greet the speaker as it is a subject of great importance and interest. Everybody welcome.

Baseball Dance.

The second informal baseball dance will be held in the Armory Hall on Friday evening, April 26. It is hoped that a large number will be present and lend their support to the management. But one other dance will be given this term.

The Relay Team.

The event which will be of the most importance in the Athletic line for the coming week will be the Annual relay race of the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday next. Bucknell will enter a relay team as usual and should Pearse get in condition he will be entered in the broad jump.

Throughout the past weeks Coach Hoskins has been giving especial attention to the runners. The squad of twenty men who have been reporting every day for the past few days has been cut down to twelve and these have been sent to the training table. Eight men have been kept for the quarter-mile. While some of these men are new at the quarter-mile yet with the track experience which they have had at other distances they should be able to make good time. Goodall and Tiffany who ran on last years' team have showed marked improvement during the last week and were it not that Tiffany was suffering from a bad ankle he should be much faster than last year. Glaspey and Young have both been "subs" in former relay teams and are now showing good form. Fetzer who is practically a new man at the quarter, has not run a shorter distance than the mile and two miles. If during the coming week he is able to develop a little more sprinting power, he is almost sure to gain a place on the the team. Slifer, Dunlap and McNitt are three new men yet have been doing very good work.

Up to this time only one preliminary has been held; the second taking place at the time of the printing of this issue.

Bucknell runs in event number 22, with positions as follows: 1, Carlisle Indians; 2, Gettysburg College; 3, Franklin & Marshall; 4, Dickinson College; 5, Bucknell; 6, State College. The addition of State College to Bucknell has added much interest.

Football Schedule for 1901.

One of our best teachers here at Bucknell has been known to get a great deal of work out of his pupils. When remonstrated with on account of some long assignment, his reply has invariably been, "I want you to learn to work under pressure. You will probably not be able to get over that lesson but I want you to feel that you have on your hands as much or more than you can do."

Isn't this rush, this continual overworking just what we are seeking to avoid as one of the great evils in the college life? Well, perhaps, worry is to be avoided as an evil but there need be no fear of work. A man must be continually worked to his full capacity or that capacity will never increase. This is just what our college course is for to increase our capacity for intelligent work. It sounds paradoxical but it is nevertheless true that to have on hand more work than you can possibly perform is just the condition necessary to increase your ability to work. Herein perhaps there is comfort for the overworked students.

"Procrastination is the thief of Time." How do students procrastinate? Somewhat after this fashion. Says A to B going to class together, "Do you know your lesson?" "No haven't studied it." "What, haven't looked at it!" "No really didn't have time. But then you know I won't be called on to-day and shall have time to study both lessons to-morrow

Oh, my friend, remember that in the streets of By and By one arrives at the house of Never. A lesson left to be studied, a task left to be completed in the uncertain By and By will, in all probability, never be done. No-morrow there will be new lessons, new tasks. If to-day there was a rush there will likely be need of greater hurry to-morrow.

In the not very far distant future there will be examinations to the closing of the term's work. Then the limits of the By and By will be passed and you will be forever poorer through procrastination. The only time to master the difficult lesson or to perform the hard task is now, to-day.

Work Soon to Start.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' monument at the junction of Third street and University avenue, will soon assume some definite shape, and the firm who has the contract for erecting the memorial to the departed boys, will begin its erection. The site has been filled up and raised several feet above the street level, with the ground from the excavation of the Lutheran church. The monument according to contract is to be completed by July first. and to be dedicated on July 4th Dr. David J. Hill, assistant secretary of state, has accepted the invitation to deliver the address at the unveiling. The unveiling will be made a great event in the town. The G. A. R. has charge of the arrangements and will present a big program for the day. The G. A. R. posts from other towns in the section will be present, along with other organizations, civic and military. Extensive preparations are being made for the occasion, and it will be the day for this part of the country. The monument will be a handsome structure, built of granite, with a broad base and surmounted by the figure of a soldier. The county commissioners have voted $10,000 for the monument.

Bucknell vs Villa Nova.

Bucknell lined up against the strong Villa Nova team in her second game on the home field and played a very good game of ball, holding the visitors down to six runs. Villa Nova proved to be the fastest team Bucknell has met this season. The Philadelphia Athletics beat them by one run earned in the ninth, while Gettysburg college and the Carlisle Indians were defeated by the Villa Nova boys.

"Teddie" Carlin and "Mickie" Dolan of last year's team, were with the visitors. "Mickie" played third base last year but showed that he understood how to play at short with his old style vim.

The game opened with Carlisle at bat, O'Neil gave him his base on balls but was caught at first. Teufel and Weidensaul followed with two more outs. Villa Nova then came to bat and took four runs through several costly errors on Bucknell's part. It was these errors that won the game for Villa Nova giving a lead which was kept throughout the game.

The second and third innings were repetitions of the first at bat for Bucknell, but in the field the work braced up shutting out the visitors in the second and giving them only one run in the third. Bucknell came to bat in the four inning with the determination of making runs. Carlisle lined a hot grounder to third but was beaten out at first; Teufel got a hit and took second on Weidensaul's base on balls and Sebring knocked a high fly to right which was missed bringing Teufel in for the first run on O'Rouke's error.

O'Neil's curves began to straighten out in the fifth and sixth innings. Sebring made a pretty two bagger in the sixth but the hits were not bunched so no runs resulted. Hess went in the box in the sixth and kept up Veil's good work. Villa Nova scored their last run in the sixth after a shut out in the fifth. The eighth gave Bucknell two runs. Carlisle opened with a two bagger, Teufel made first on an error. Weidensaul brought in Carlisle by a single and Teufel came in on a passed ball. Little and Sebring did some fine fielding in the seventh and eighth.

The game with the exception of the first inning was very well played, two errors in that inning gave the visitors their lead. Good work was done by Veil and Hess in the box for Bucknell and O'Neil for the visitors.

Bucknell 13; Susquehanna 2.

A large crowd of enthusiastic rooters accompanied the team to Selinsgrove to see Bucknell score a victory over Susquehanna in a rather one sided game. Owing to delay the game was not called until late in the day making the positions at first base and home plate very difficult on account of the sun.

The supporters of the red and yellow, basing their expectations on the game with State, were more than a little disappointed in the final result of the game.

Bucknell took the bats in the first inning and played baseball from the start, making three hits which earned two runs. Veil gave the Selinsgrove boys a surprise when they came to bat by giving two men their bases and then retiring the side without a run and striking them out in the second.

Susquehanna braced and played hard in the second, third, fourth and fifth, shutting Bucknell out. In the sixth Milligan was hit by the pitcher and came in on Veil's three bagger. Susquehanna claimed Milligan cut third base in running the line so he was called out. Susquehanna made their first run in the seventh by a lucky drive to left field.

In the eight and ninth Bucknell gave a pretty exhibition of bat swinging, four two baggers and four singles brought in ten runs making a final score of thirteen. The features of the game were the pitching of Veil and the catching of Stanton, and the good support of the whole team.

The Soiree.

The "Soirees," given annually by the fourth-year girls of Bucknell Institute, are events that are eagerly anticipated by the social element of town and gown, and the one held under the auspicies of the class of 1902 on last Saturday evening proved no exception to the general excellence that has characterized other productions of its kind. In fact, many admirers declare it the best Soiree, that they had, had the pleasure of seeing from a historical standpoint. It was called "Greek Tragedy."

At eight o'clock the members of the class marched into the school-hall, which was filled with a large and intellectual audience, and assumed their places on the platform, to the strains of a sweet melody played by Miss Aiken in her usual artistic manner. Miss Magee and Miss Emerick, acted as ushers. Miss Stanton, President Harris and Dr. Aviragnet lended much dignity and grace to the affair by the wearing of their scholastic caps and gowns.

To describe the fair performers in detail would be to overstep the space alloted this article: suffice it to say that each participant acquitted herself in a manner most delightful and artistic. The selection and arrangement of the gowns, a subject always dear to the feminine mind, showed that the girls of 1902 posessed most excellent taste in this respect. Arrayed in flowing togas of white, variously designed, and with coiffures "a la Greek," the beauty of the maidens was shown in a manner sufficient to win the heart of the gayest college bachelor.

The vocal solo rendered by Miss Knox and the drill accompanyment of of Miss Secrist were well worthy of mention.

All together the evening was a charming one, and after the hour for congratulations had passed, the assembled guests departed feeling proud of the girls who had afforded them so much enjoyment.

In closing our article we cannot resist making mention of the dozen young men who, as the sweet performers were marching from the hall, arrayed themselves along the line of march like so many rubber plants and treated the girls to a profusion of smiles calculated to make you think of home and father. Moral: "Don't."

The following young ladies participated in the tragedy: Grace Brubaker, Mary Bower, Grace Burchette, Marjorie Church, Eva Ginter, Edith Kelly, Rachel Kunkel, Sarah Nesbit, Emma Nesbit, Ruth Shorkley, Bessie Stephenson, Alice Wall.

The Relay Carnvial.

Penn's Annual Relay Carnival, one of the greatest annual athletic events in this country was held at the Franklin Field last Saturday. While in some points this year's carnival cannot be said to equal last year's yet it was a great success. Colleges and schools from all parts of the eastern and middle states were represented. It will be noticed by comparing scores that the time made in, we might say all races is poorer than last year's, in fact the averages for Saturday show that, while the teams were fully as good, on account of the condition of the track the time was about seven seconds slower than last year. Hence we may not be surprised that no great records were broken.

The mile championship which was won by Chicago last year went to Yale on Saturday. However the time was slower by 3 3-5 seconds. Again, in the two mile championship which was won by Harvard the time was 9 seconds slower than last year. Thus a comparison of all scores would show that Saturday was not a record breaking day.

Of all the events that took place the most interesting to us was the race with Dickinson, the Indians and State. Gettysburg and F. and M. were also to be in this race but they failed to appear when time was called, Bucknell had the third place. Tiffany lead off for Bucknell and when near the 100 yd. line took the lead, however he was passed by Wood of Dickinson and also State's man, thus giving B. U. third place. Fetzer next took up the race for Bucknell and came in fourth. Glaspey ran a good race and managed to pass Bloser of Carlisle; however he was much exhausted at the end of the quarter Goodall falling buck two or three yards to meet him.

Although Goodall ran a hard, fast race the lead that State and Dickinson already had could not be made up and so the race ended with State first and Dickinson second. Time 3:41 4-5. This time is 2 2-5 seconds slower than that made by our team last year however we connot judge teams by scores. We fully believe we have as good if not a better team than last year and no doubt the slow time made Saturday was largely due to the condition of the track. Our boys ran a magnificent race. Last year State was in a class higher than this year and so we have no reason to feel discoursged.

Chemical and Physical Society.

One of the largest audiences that ever assembled at the Chemical and Physical society met in the lecture room of the Laboratory last Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The meeting was called to order by the Vice president F. M. Simpson. After the reading and approval of the minutes of previous meeting. Prof. W. G. Owens was introduced and discussed "Wireless Telegraphy." He had numerous illustrations to simplify his discussion and gave a number of experiments to illustrate certain points.

Wireless telegraphy had its beginning when a prize was offered by the city of Berlin for a clear explanation of the relation of the magnetic field and the current in the same. In 1879 work along this line was begun by Hertz, and in 1887 he gave his report. He made use of a Ruhmkorff or Induction coil placed above a resonator. With this instrument he investigated the magnetic field.

Another step was taken in 1895 when a Russian professor made a coherer, with this Prof. Popoff sent a message a distance of five kilometers. In 1896 Prof. Marconi made a pefected Righi oscillator.

That literary work is important is evident when every college requires a certain amount of it throughout their course of study. How ineffectively much of this work is done will peraphs never be known by any other save the professor in charge of the department. Much of this ineffectiveness is due, we believe, to the dearth of subjects in the mind of the student. Scarcely is the Freshman year passed before the student experiences difficulty with the subject for his essays and orations.

Now, there are two reasons for this trouble with literary work. First, the faithful student finds himself bound down to a steady grind of work which is not at all conducive to the wide and varied reading productive of a fertile brain. You cannot drain an empty cup. Even the most talented literary man if he writes much cannot originate everything. He must constantly replenish his mind with a wide rang of reading from the best literature.

Again, the routine of a four years' course does not tend to enrich the character with the personal experience which can only come from long contact with the world and from "roughing it" in all sorts of circumstances.

So the student takes a theme about which he knows little and feels less and the product is tame indeed. Hence, when we read constantly and that reading is suggestive, when our susceptibilities are trained, when we feel earnestly, truly, and broadly, then our literary work will be leterature because it will be, as it were, a page from our very soul.

It you will look into the history of many business men who have risen from places of obscurity to those of prominence, you will find that they were men who were never afraid to do more work than they were paid for.

The world everywhere demands the best that is in a man and only he advances who is capable and willing to give a little more than his salary or position demands of him. The clerk who throws down his pen and leaves his work in the very midst when the clock strikes six will be turned down in place of the one who is willing to spend an additional fifteen minutes in order to leave his work in proper condition. The world seems unfair in thus dealing with men when it gives them a limited number of dollars and cents in return for all the talent and hard work that they are capable of putting into the enterprise. Yet this is a law in the business world and if you do not pay proper regard to it you may be asked to resign and one of the hundred who stand by waiting will receive the position in your stead.

Likewise, the student must be willing to do more than the work requires to obtain a certain grade or degree if he expects succeed.

A student may get his B. A. with but half the work which he should be willing to do if he expects that degree to mean something more to him than an empty title. We merit nothing if we do our duty; it is when we do more than is required of us that we deserve approbation and may expect success to attend our efforts.

Chemical and Physical Society.

When Marconi made his first transmitter he first used a mast. The cylinder then came into use and is used at the present time. With this an electric field 200 miles in diameter is made.

The Professor then described the sending instrument which consists of a Rubmkorff coil with a battery and transmitter and the receiving instrument which consists of batteries, plates, coherer, relay and bell.

The instruments were then set in operation so that the audience could see the method of workings in detail.

After answering several questions the speaker dismissed his subject and the society was adjourned.

Pearse, '01, spent Sunday at Lock Haven.

Rev. Roberts, of the First Presbyterian church of Williamsport, visited his daughter on Thursday.

The Rev. J. F. Brown, father of Mrs. W. E. Martin, died at Mullica Hill, N. J., on Friday last. He was chancellor of this University from 1864 to 1870 and the university conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1863.

Bucknell—Gettysburg.

Once more, in Friday's game with Gettysburg, Bucknell failed to break the spell cast over the home grounds by the former visitors of this season. Gettysburg has been playing very fast base ball this season and supported their honors in a hard fought game.

The visitors played our genial friend, Beef Case, a former Bucknell man, on first base which position he played well.

Gettysburg chose the field and Carlisle went to bat for Bucknell. This inning gave the spectators a severe attack of mental depression which was not dispelled until the third when carlisle opened the game by a single. Teufel got to first on the second baseman's error and Carlisle scored on an error by the short stop.

The fourth gave bright prospects of more runs but Plank pulled himself together and shut Bucknell out.

Gettysburg used the fourth to great advantage Moser got a pass to first, Lantz and Winters followed with singles, Teufel caught Moser on third then White knocked Weidensaul a hot grounder which brought in two runs. Two more singles netted one more run giving a total of three.

The game became very excitlng in the fifth and sixth. In the sixth Bucknell had three out by fly balls. The visitors were treated to two shut outs in the fifth and sixth. The seventh gave them their fourth which was earned by three singles.

Bucknell worked hard in the eighth and ninth but could not score. The work in the ninth deserves especial credit and shows that the game was fought through every stage.

The game as a whole, with the exception of the fourth, was very well played. The errors in the fourth were very costly bnt the loss of the game probably cannot be entirely attributed to that cause. Grimminger played a fine game on third. In the second inning Teufel, Grimminger and Stanton figured in a couble play.

Bucknell 14; Bloomsburg 10.

Bloomsburg Normal fell an easy victim to Bucknell Saturday on the former's diamond Bucknell carried her batting eye and made good use of it giving Bloomsburg a fine chance to try all her pitchers. A heavy wind was blowing during the game making good outfield support impossible. This in a measure accounts for the errors. Bucknell opened the game with a rush and in the first three innings sent two pitchers to the bench. In the first inning Bucknell established a record that ought to stand during the whole season. Carlisle Teufel and Weidensaul began with hits, Sebring and Stanton went to base on bats and Milligan cleared the field with a two bagger Grininger and Veil got passes to first, Little followed by an error of the center fielder and Carlisle walked. Teufel made a two bagger, Weidensaul followed by getting his base on the shortstop's errors and Sebring retired the side at secord Eight runs tallied and three men left on base.

Bloomsburg made two runs making the score 8-2 at the end of the first. The second gave two more runs and a shut out for Bloonsburg. Bloomsburg changed pitchers at the begining of the third and Hayes went into the box Bucknell made no runs until the begining of the eight, the ninth brought the score up to fourteen, while Bloomsburg had ten. Hess went in the seventh inning. Bloomsburg expected an easy victory over Bucknell as we had lost our opening game to her.

The features of the game were the of pitching Veil, Stanton behind the bat, Milligan's home run in the ninth and batting of the team.

VOL. V. LEWISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MAY 14, 1901. No. 30

Dickinson 1. Bucknell 10.

Dickinson College base ball team went down to defeat on their grounds for the first time this season last Wednesday afternoon, the Bucknell nine being the cause of the disaster.

The Bucknell boys left Lewisburg at 7.18, taking the flyer to Harrisburg. They were greeted at the Mansion House, Carlisle, by a contingent of the Gettysburg team who played the Indians on Wednesday.

At 3 o'clock sharp, Umpire Morganridge, of Harrisburg, called the game with Dickinson at the bat. They got but one hit and went to field with no score. For Bucknell, Carlisle got a single, Teufel got hit by batted ball, and Weidensaul scored Carlisle with a three bagger, and was himself brought safely home by a three bagger from Sebring. A two base hit from Milligan brought in our third run. Inning closed with score 3-0 and Milligan on second.

Neither side scored in the second inning. Cannon knocked a three bagger for Dickinson in the third inning but died on third. For Bucknell Teufel knocked a single, got to second on a single from Stanton and scored on a double from Milligan. Stanton and Milligan scored on three base hit from Hess who was left on third.

Fourth inning closed with no further scoring, Hunt replacing Morton as pitcher for Dickinson.

In the fifth inning McGuffie knocked a pretty three base hit out in extreme left but died on third, Dickinson's score still being "nit."

For Bucknell, Sebring, Stanton, Hess and "Grim" scored, the two latter coming in on a three bagger from Little. No further scoring was done until in the ninth inning when Dickinson got a lone run from an error on our part.

To say that our victory was a surprise to Dickinson is but a very mild way of putting it. The news was received here with rejoicing and the team was met at the bridge on their return by a large crowd of students who paraded down the main thoroughfare of the town, to the Seminary and up to the hill, cheers and yells being given at each stop.

Bucknell vs. Dickinson.

Dickinson for the second time this week met defeat at the hands of the Bucknell team on the college campus on Saturday. Bucknell played a fine game and broke the spell of the home grounds. The game, although one-sided, was very interesting to watch. Good pitching, good support and grand stand plays held the interest of the spectators from start to finish. The visitors played a good game with the exception of the first inning.

Dickinson was first at bat. The first man up made a hit, the second man was caught out by Carlisle, Veil threw the next man out at first and struck out the third. Bucknell in her half opened the game for two runs made by the errors of Dickinson and two singles. In the third inning Weidensaul got to base on Adamson's error: Stanton scored him by a three bagger and came in on Milligan's single. The fifth netted Bucknell three more runs. Teufel walked, Weidensaul singled, and Sebring brought them in with a pretty three bagger. Sebring scored on Veil's double.

The seventh and eighth were full of grand stand plays, Adamson figuring in a sensational one hand catch, and Weidensaul in a pretty catch after a hard run.

The visitors made their first run in the fourth inning by a double followed by a single. Teufel, Veil and Weidensaul figured in a pretty double play retiring the side. The seventh gave them their second and last run.

The features of the game were Stanton and Sebring at the bat, Teufel's stop, and the fielding of Weidensaul and Adamson.

Chas. H. Miller, 1900, came up from Freeburg, to witness the game between Dickinson and Bucknell on the college campus, Saturday afternoon.

The public meeting of the Bucknell Institute Alumnae will be held at two o'clock on the Tuesday afternoon of Commencement week instead of three o'clock, as heretofore.

The College Men At Home.

Monday evening of last week the young men of the college were "At Home" from four to six o'clock in West College, to their friends in town and gown. The affair was a success in every way. The decorations were uniquely conceived and for several days prior to the reception the young men busied themselves in transforming the first floor of the new building into a palace of beauty. Evergreen trees, ferns and potted plants gave the place a tropical appearance. Handsome pictures well displayed indicated an artistic taste. From all over the college buildings in fact from every building on the campus, came ornaments and fancy articles of every description. Students rooms were robbed of their best furniture and choice decorations. The collection of college cushions, over 150 in number, attracted considerable attention by their variety and beauty. The decorations were tastefully arranged, and showed that some master hand among the college men had general oversight of the affair.

The large room for the use of the College Y. M. C. A., was turned into a general reception hall. This room was the center of attraction. A number of cozy corners, artistically arranged, were features in this room. The athletic room under the supervision of C. E. Goodal, contained many photographs of various contesting teams of the University. Athletic trophies tastefully arranged added interest to this room. D. A. Sausser and L. E. Theis had charge of arranging the fraternity room which was distinguished by a collection of photographs of the different chapters at Bucknell, and other decorations of interest. The charter room so named because in it was exhibited the original hand written charter of the University—an act of the general assembly of Pennsylvania, bearing the signature of Gov. Shunk, giving his approval to the incorporation of the University, dated Feb. 5, 1846. A cabinet of photographs of leading alumni, friends, &c., of the University gathered and mounted in 1896, was the source of much interest in the charter room. The Bucknell room contained many college trophies of all sorts and description and a large number of Bucknell girls, done in orange and blue by artist Christy. For the convenience of the guests there was a cloak room for the young women, at the entrance to the building, and a hat and coat room for the young men.

Music of both classical and up-to-date character, was furnished by Messrs E. T. Stevenson, and J. L. Livezy, with their excellent phonograph. Refreshments in charge of Mrs. Helen Huth, were served by a diligent corps of young men. From a social standpoint the affair was a pronounced success and Mr. Samuel C. Smith and his co-laborers deserve hearty felicitations for the energy displayed in making the first "At Home" by the young men a successful undertaking. The function was distinctively a college men's affair. The following heads of the committees together with their assistants, are receiving the congratulations of their friends upon the meritorious and tireless work they performed to make the occasion a success:

General Executive Committee, Samuel C. Smith: Refreshments, R. G. Pierson; Flunnces, J. Fred Seigel: Flowers, J. L. Livezy, Decorations, H. A. Trax; Reception, Yencer Weidensaul; Picture, C. B. Lesher: Tree Committee, J. W. McCracken.

The "At Homes" at the Institute have been delightful factors in the social life of the school, and the one given by the young men is sufficient to show that they know how to entertain as well as to be entertained.

ALUMNUS.

Freshmen vs. Susquehanna Reserves.

On Saturday afternoon 1904 defeated the Susquehanna Reserves at Selinsgrove in an extremely interesting game. The freshmen put up a splendid article of ball, excelling their opponents both in batting and fielding. The game abounded in sharp fielding: Daniels, Harshburger and Taylor making sensational catches. Johnson, Carrier, Harshburger and Taylor did excellent work at the bat. Edwards played a nice game at first. In the sixth, Jones while sliding to third was stunned severely, but in a few minutes pluckily resumed play.

Gilbert was at first a trifle wild, but soon settled down and pitched a masterly game of ball. His delivery was speedy and proved effective throughout.

For Susquehanna, Gunderman and Benfer did the best work.

On Monday evening of last week, immediately after the Freshman Girls' contest, the annual Sophomore Oratorical Contest in argumentation took place in Theta Alpha Hall. All recited the same selection: Toussaint L'Ouverture by Wendall Phillips: The young men who took part declaimed in the following order: Cook, Bresnahan, Terrel, Sheldon, Lesher, H. K. Williams, Singiser, Bartholomew. Inasmuch as the contest was hard fought and close, each one is worthy of commendation. The judges were Messrs. Gundy, Bower and Prof. Simpson. The name of the successful contestant will be announced on Commencement Day.

It is proverbial that Americans are overworked, a people who live constantly under high pressure of hard work and lofty ambitions. It is remarkable, nay even appalling, to note among your own acquaintances how few are perfect specimens of healthy manhood and womanhood. In the midst of an athletic age, when athletic sports have never been so popular as now, we find the value of health depreciated as perhaps never before in older civilizations. Mind and will are the forces which drive the body into abeyance yet it never yields without aiming back a well-directed blow.

Why do men need sound bodies? Chiefly for two reasons: the first, because the mind works in conjunction with the body; the second, because otherwise men will fail in times of severe mental strain.

It is a fact that men have accomplished wonderful things with diseased bodies but it is the exception and not the rule. Rather they have attained their success in spite of their bodies. The mind and body work together; the one supplements the other.

Then there come times in the life of every business or professional man when he must work under great strain and pressure. Perhaps for weeks he must work continuously twenty hours out of twenty-four. He must not only work but he must work effectively. He must put forth the best that is in him. He must call into play his reserve fund of energy and vitality, and the best reserve power to call on is that of a sound, vigorous constitution. Blaikie says "To attain success and length of service in any of the learned professions, including that of teaching, a vigorous body is well-nigh essential. A lawyer, editor, minister, physician, or teacher has need of greater physical endurance than a farmer, trader, manufacturer, or mechanic. All professional biography teaches that to win lasting distinction in sedentary, indoor occupations, which task the brain and the nervous system, extraordinary toughness of body must accompany extraordinary mental powers."

When men can once be made to realize the power and the personal magnetism of a magnificent physique the work will be more than half accomplished. It is not necessary to-day in the light of all the common sense knowledge possessed by every one on the subject of general athletics to explain how to get strong or how to stay so in spite of mental pressure and strained nervous system. Suffice it to say that there must be daily, systematic, persistent exercise. Of what sort it shall be must be determined by the individual need. Excess in any exercise is always detrimental. Daily gymnasium work should supplement the out-door work because there are muscles which never come into hard use except by special gymnasium exercise for development. Particularly is it valuable to take exercisewhich will broaden and deepen the chest and increase the lung capacity for greater lung power means increased

This matter of general athletics is one that is passed over too lightly and is deserving of careful attention by every student. The tendency is too much toward one extreme or the other,—all athletics or no athletics. The one, through over-training, may lead to poor health as well as the other. What we need is the symmetrical physical development of the whole physique.

A. F. Meschter, 1901, has secured a position in the laboratory of the Sterling White Lead Co., New Kensington, Pa.

Dr. Harvy Smith, 1894, who is at present engaged in coaching Dickinson's base ball team, accompanied his nine to Lewisburg on Saturday.

Fred Cortright, of Mauch Chunk, was the guest of Walter Bertolette, 1903, on Thursday. They attended the production of "The Palace of the King." at Williamsport in the evening.

At a reunion of the survivors of the Fifth Pennsylvania Reserves at Watsontown, on Wednesday, Col. Chamberlin was elected president, and Capt. John M. Rhodes, vice president for the ensuing year. These gentlemen are both former graduates of Bucknell.

The committee in charge of the "College Men's At Home" wishes to take this means of thanking President Harris for the kindly interest he took in the affair by allowing us the college drays, employees and helping us defray the expenses. Our warmest thanks are also extended to our genial Registrar for the interest he manifested in making the "Charter room" such a success, and in the direction of the University employees.

Track Men Break Records.

The results of Wednesday,s handicaps were in marked contrast to the outcome of Saturday's contests, when no records were broken, and the scratch men failed to come near the records. On Wednesday all the performances were good, while one new record was established and two old ones broken. Slifer ran the ½ mile in 3 min. 40 sec. This is a new event at Bucknell and these figures stand as the official record for that distance. In the high jump Pearse cleared 5 ft. 7 in., breaking the former record of 5 ft. 6 in. held jointly by Earl and himself.

Theis succeeded in negotiating 9 ft. 10 in. in the pole vault, breaking the former record of 9 ft. 9 in. held by himself. Gillis did over 99 feet with the hammer, which comes within less than 2 feet of the college record of 101 feet held by Cober, '98.

Owing to the lateness of the hour the broad jump was omitted.

Institute Elocution Contest.

The annual Institute contest in elocution was held in Bucknell Hall on Saturday evening. Although the weather was very unfavorable, the hall was filled to overflowing. To say that everyone was well pleased and doubly repaid for coming is putting it very mildly. The elocution was of a high standard, and after the contest, the reciters received much well-merited praise. The decorations which were very pleasing, added much to the appearance of the stage. Lack of space prevents giving a detailed account of the contest, so we append the program.

1903 Wins Field Day Contest.

The annual inter-class Field Day meet was held Tuesday afternoon. The Sophomores won out easily by a large score, making more points than the Seniors, Juniors and Freshmen combined. The time made throughout was fair and several new records were established. The points were divided among the classes as follows: Seniors 15, Juniors 30, Sophomores 74 and Freshmen 20.

The final in the hundred yard dash was won by Tiffany, '03. Pierson, '01, was second, Stanton, '02, third and Morris, '04, was fourth. Time, 11 seconds.

In the one mile run Ruhl, '03, was first, Young, '03, was second and Kyle, '02, third. Slifer ran an exhibition mile in 4:55 establishing this time as a new record.

Two mile run. Fetzer, '03, first, 11 min. 9 sec., Snow, '03, second, Lesher, third.

220 yd. dash. Tiffany, '03, first, Goodal, '02, second, Stanton, '02, third. Time 24½ seconds.

Pole vault. Theis, '02, first 9 ft. 7 in., Barrett, '02, second, Daniels, '04, third and Dershimer, '03, fourth.

880 yd. run. Fetzer, '03, first, time 2.21½. Ruhl, '03, second and Pierson, '01, third.

Slifer made a new record for the mile at 4:55. Pearse, '01, broke the college record of 5 ft. 6 in. in the high jump bringing the record up to 5 ft. 8 in.

Fetzer lowered the record held by himself, for the two mile run, making a splendid spurt of 100 yards at the finish. As last year there was no one to push him to make the record still lower.

Field day is very important as it decides the entering of the men for the meets that follow. The showing made this year encourages the runners and the student body for the meet with Dickinson college on Tuesday.

"Christy" Mathewson, 1902, was a feature at the Manhattan-Bucknell game on Thursday.

Bucknell's New York Trip.

The college team left Lewisburg Wednesday afternoon, stopping over night at Philadelphia, and went on to New York Thursday morning when they played the strong Manhatten team in the afternoon. After the Manhatten game the team left for Myerstown via Philadelphia and played the Albright College team. South Bethlehem was the next stop where Bucknell wound up her trip by defeating Lehigh in an interesting game

Thursday Bucknell lined up against Manhatten at Jasper Oval in a very close game. The feature of the game was Hess in the box, who struck out thirteen men. Inability to bunch the hits at the right time lost the game for Bucknell. The game was close from the start. First inning resulted in a tie score 2-2. Manhatten took the lead in the fifth and kept it throughout the rest of the game.

Tennis Tournament.

The six tennis clubs in the College and Academy have agreed to a tournament to determine the championship of the University. The clubs that will participate are the Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Gamma Delta, Cornelius, Round Top, Clover and Academy. A meeting will be held this week to arrange a schedule and complete all the details of the tournament. The games will be played on the Σ A E court.

Tennis has not occupied a prominent place in the athletics of the Institution, and lovers of the sport hope that the proposed tournament will be the means of reviving interest in it. An inter-collegiate tournament including those colleges in this vicinity would indeed be a very interesting event, although such a thing is not contemplated for this season. At an informal meeting of the representatives of the various clubs last week, Ed Stevenson was chosen to arrange the details of the inter-club tournament.

Bucknell vs. Albright.

Bucknell lost to Albright college at Myerstown, Friday, in a lively ten inning game. Blough, Chester's pitcher of last season, run in for the occasion was hit for eleven hits. Bucknell would have won with ease had fair treatment been accorded us. Veil pitched a fine game and kept his nerve although the support he received was ragged at times. Albright got the lead in the first and kept it until the fourth when the score was tied. Bucknell brought the score up to seven in the fifth and Albright followed suit in the sixth. Two errors in the sixth together with the rank decisions of the Umpire were accountable for Albright's runs. Albright made the winning run in the tenth inning.

Bucknell lost a run when the Umpire called Milligan out at the home plate. Another was the put out of Little, being chased out of the box by Bleistein on two strikes.

Bucknell-Lehigh.

For the first time in B. U. baseball history, the wearers of the orange and blue crossed bats with the Lehigh boys at South Bethlehem on Saturday. Both teams were greeted with loud cheering from the bleachers on either side of the diamond. The grounds were in ideal shape and both teams played their best. Lehigh made a good many errors but they were not costly. Carlisle lined out the second ball plethed for a home run. The Brown and White scored two runs in the third and kept the lead until the fifth when Bucknell bunched her hits and tied the score. In the next our boys came in for two more runs closing the scoring for the game. The boys are all loud in their praise of the treatment received while at Lehigh.

Junior Exhibition in Oratory.

The annual oratorical contest of members of the Junior class was held in Bucknell Hall on Friday evening at eight o'clock.

A large audience was present and showed in various ways their appreciation of the efforts of the class representatives. The subjects were well chosen and the orations well prepared. Each oration was delivered in a clear forcible manner and every speaker is deserving of great praise. Several pieces of music which gave a pleasing variety to the programme were rendered by ladies of the Institute. Although each speaker is worthy of individual remarks, we have neither room nor ability to criticise and so append the programme.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting.

The symphony male quartet of Sunbury entertained a large audience in Bucknell Hall on last Sunday afternoon. Mr. Brumbaugh of the P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. was expected to speak at the same time, but through some unavoidable circumstances was unable to be present. Mr. Bridgens however, of Northumberland, gave a few informal words between the songs of the quartet. His address was chiefly of a Biblical character, and with the aid of an extraordinarily retentive memory he quoted many portions of the Scriptures, grouping several verses under some general head. The speaking was instructive and helpful, and the songs were inspiring and well rendered.

Spring is here. What does it mean to the student? Anything besides spring fever or the hope that comes from blossoming springtime when Wordsworth says:

"One impulse from a vernal wood
May teach you more of man
Of moral evils and of good
Than all the sages can."

Yes, it means much more than all this.

To the Senior the spring recalls the mingled thoughts of joy and sadness of Commencement and departure from the good, old days. Regrets and new inspirations come trooping in all too late. Possible candidates for Commencement orations anxiously watch the calendar and mentally tear up the Faculty. An occasional cap and gown brings thoughts of what the next few weeks will bring about.

The Junior occupies his days in declaiming and his nights in dreaming over the most oratorical sentences of his Junior ex and wondering when The L'Agenda will be out and how surprised the other fellows will be at its marvelous achievements. The few chosen elect of the Junior class, the quartette on the Junior debate,—diet on the Congressional reports of the past, carpet their floors with them, sleep upon them at night,—but do not smile, for when Commencement comes the desert will blossom as the rose.

The Sophomore and Freshman,—well they imitate their older brother and are learning nicely how to take their class sisters for a stroll on a balmy morning.

The Cadites and Semites,—yes they all do much the same. You stroll off somewhere and think you are alone. But no, you hear a voice as of someone declaiming to unseen multitudes and you see posted against some tree the notice of a certain contest. If you go to Bucknell Hall upon that specified evening, you will see how in the springtime the latent talent grows beautifully verdant and occasionally blossoms into flower.

Freshmen Win Again.

The Freshman baseball team won its second victory of the season on Saturday, defeating a club representing Northumberland High School by a score of 9 to 3. A steady downpour of rain before the game rendered the grounds in poor condition, making perfect fielding almost impossible; but notwithstanding this fact both teams played well and although the game was never indoubt, it was very interesting.

The Arden Club.

The importance of literary societies and literary clubs can hardly be overestimated and so we are glad to note increasing interest along this line. Recently a new literary club has been organized known as the Arden Club. The first meeting of the club was held on April 29th, when the following officers were elected: President, T. E. Cule; Vice President, M. C. McGiffen; Secretary, L. W. Robey. Dr. Perrine was present at this meeting and delivered a very interesting lecture on Shakespeare's works.

C. B. Renn, 1904, has quit school for this term and gone to Emporium, where he will teach in the Normal school recently established by Prof. C. P. Bastian, ex-principal of the Lycoming Normal school.

Plank, who pitched for Gettysburg against the local team two weeks ago, twirled for the Athletics against Washington in the American League on Saturday, giving them six hits and winning by a score of eleven to six.

The field and track team of Dickinson College will contest for supremacy against Bucknell's team on the college campus, Tuesday afternoon. A very interesting meet is anticipated. Let everybody be present. Admission, 25c.

I have made preparations to haul baggage from the "Hill" to the stations at Commencement. Shall have two teams in use so that there will be no delay in taking your baggage on short notice to meet all trains. Please put your names on the trunks. This will avoid a great deal of trouble and confusion. D. W. THOMAS, '03. 32 East Wing.

Bucknell Defeats Franklin & Marshall.

Bucknell left Lewisburg on Thursday to play Franklin & Marshall, Villa Nova and Penna. R. R. Y. M. C. A. The team played at Lancaster, Thursday where they defeated F. & M. in a very interesting game. Villa Nova was the next game.

As last year there was no game with the P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. team on account of rain.

Franklin and Marshall opened the game at bat and were treated to a shut out. Bucknell in her half began with Carlisle at bat. Weidensaul got a two bagger but no runs resulted.

F. & M. were shut out until the fifth when they made a run by the means of two hits. After the fifth F. & M. made no runs and got only three hits.

Bucknell failed to get any runs until the sixth when Milligan made a pretty home run by hitting the ball over the fence after two men were out.

The seventh opened with Grimminger at the bat. "Jimmie" flied out to the right fielder, Little made a single, Davis was caught out by the second baseman, Carlisle got to first on an error and Teufel brought in Little and Carlisle by a two bagger.

The features of the game were Milligan's home run and Vell's pitching.

Bucknell vs. Villa Nova.

Villa Nova defeated Bucknell for the second time this season, Friday, by heavy hitting in the eighth inning. Bucknell played a fine game up to the eighth when Villa Nova got a batting streak and made seven runs. The game began with Bucknell at bat and our players were retired in one-two-three order. Villa Nova was treated in like manner for two innings. In the third Little made first and second on errors and was brought in by Davis' two base hit. Donohue tied the score with a home run. Villa Nova took the lead in the fourth by two runs and increased it by two more in the fifth. Bucknell failed to cross the plate again until the seventh when a brace was taken. Four runs resulted from two singles and two doubles. Score at the end of seventh 5-5. Villa Nova after a shut out in the seventh opened hard on Hess for six hits which netted them seven runs.

Bucknell batted well making four two base hits and one triple, but the hits were not bunched except in the seventh.

The Tennis Tournament.

A remarkable interest is being shown in the proposed tennis tournament by the tennis players in the University and the students in general. During the past week two additional competitors for the championship were secured, Sigma Chi and Kappa Sigma, making in all eight teams that will contest.

The first contests will be played on the ΣAE court on next Thursday forenoon, as follows: ΣAE vs ΦΓΔ; Round Top vs Clover. The Cornelius Club will play the Academy team, and the ΣX the KΣ at a date to be selected. Doubles will be played, two sets out of three being necessary to decide the contest.

The second series of contests between the four clubs winning in the first series, will proably be played next week, to be followed by the final between the two winning clubs.

An alumnus of the college suggests that the alumnus be allowed to participate in the finals, which proposition will be considered by the clubs.

Commencement Speakers.

The following is the list of speakers selected from the Senior Class for Commencement: Messers. A. M. Allison, Frank Anderson, P. M. Bullard, C. B. Lesher, H. A. Trax. Misses Jennie Davis, Mable Grier, Katherine Johnson, Edith Philips, Jennie Wood.

Lawrence Rittenhouse, 1904, has accepted the position of solicitor for the Scranton International Correspondence school.

Bucknell Wins Dual Meet.

Bucknell defeated Dickinson on Tuesday in one of the most successful dual track meets ever held on the campus by a score of 61-43 points. Bucknell won eleven firsts and two seconds.

All events were hotly contested and good time was made in the track events. Bucknell lost the hammer throw in the field events. Pearse for the second time this week broke the high jump record, this time making the record 5 ft. 10 inches. Theis made 10 ft. 3 in. in the pole vault, breaking the college record by six inches.

The 440 yd. dash promised to be very fast and exciting but just beyond the 220 mark Appleman, in trying to take the pole away from Goodall spiked the latter and was himself thrown.

Fetzer ran his usual strong race and finished a third of a lap ahead. Slifer ran a fine race both in the mile and two mile events taking first in the mile and running away from his man at the finish in the two mile.

The 100 yd. and 220 yd. dashes were won by Tiffany in fine manner.

Summary of track events is as follows:

100 yards dash. Winner, Tiffany; second, Wood; third, Pearson. Time, 10⅘ seconds.

100 yard hurdle. Winner, Tomkinson, of Dickinson; second, Edwards; third, Glaspey. Time, 18⅘ seconds.

One mile run. Winner, Slifer; second, Carver; third, Malick. Time, 4 minutes, 59 seconds.

Fourth Form Reception.

The fourth form reception given by Dr. and Mrs. Harris on Thursday last was a decided success in every respect. During the progress of the evening cards were handed around containing a series of questions concerning fish, which brought forth many amusing answers causing no end of mirth. After refreshments had been served the company was entertained by several duets by Prof. Edwards and Miss Hanna.

Miss Schillinger gave several selections which contributed greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. Messrs. Prout and Thayer entertained the company by selections on the piano and several duets.

Everyone seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves and the only regret was that it came but once a year.

Dr. Harris' Reception.

It was a truly delightful evening which the Seniors of the College and Institute spent as the guests of President and Mrs. Harris last Tuesday. In the furnishings of the handsome home which has recently been remodelled in the presence of their sombre-gowned, learned class-sisters, and the graceful "Senior Sem" who floated here and there, wearing their gayly colored gowns and assuming their most fascinating features, Ye stately Senior forgot the dull cares which characterize conscious existence. Little does he care, midst such a scene, whether "Something is; if something is, something always has been," etc. In fact, all the arguments of the puzzling Professor Flint were forgotten in those scenes of pleasure. Neither does 1901 need to worry his far-too-capacious brain for fear the much-coveted diploma does not arrive on schedule time,—for our host is wearing his most genial, reassuring smile.

There is an atmosphere of cordiality about the president's home that makes all who share its hospitality deeply regret that such events are not of more frequent occurrence.

During the evening, a mandolin club, selected by and under the leadership of Dr. Aviragnet, rendered selections of a classical and charming nature. The repeated encores given the productions attest to the appreciation in which the club was held.

On the walls of the spacious library and parlor were hung creations of the masters, and tapestries of rich and various designs. Numerous potted plants were placed in various places throughout the rooms, giving them an enchanting appearance.

At 10 o'clock the guests adjourned to the dining room, where a sight most pleasing greeted the eye. Many tables arranged with chairs for three couples, and sparkling with cut glass which showed to perfection on the snowy whiteness of the table linen, were loaded with delicacies of a most tempting nature. Bouquets of honeysuckles graced each table, creating a sweet perfume throughout the room. Carnations and apple blossoms, interspersed with twining ivy and very artistically arranged, tended more to increase the gastronomic capacities of the seniors for the treat which followed. At this juncture it does not seem out of place to remark on the quality and welcome quantity of the delicious refreshments; —indeed our hosts were generous!

In conclusion let us say that our warmest thanks are extended to Dr. Harris, under whose auspices the affair was given, and also to Mrs. Harris, under whose most capable direction and management the Senior reception proved to be the delightful success it was. "1901."

The Exposition at Buffalo which has already been formally opened will attract many intelligent sight-seers, that like others of its kind, will prove to be a great educator.

The magic of twentieth century methods has wrought a wondrous work in the construction of the Exposition. Although it was only on June 4th of last year that work was begun upon the buildings, yet, since that time, a magnificent city of more than one hundred buildings has sprung into existence. The total cost of the exposition is estimated at $10,000,000. The grounds consist of three hundred and fifty acres in the northern part of the city. The general plan of archictecture follows the Spanish Renaissance and was worked out by a board of eight leading architects representing several of the leading cities of the country.

It is interesting to note that the wheel chairs, used as a means of transportation about the grounds, will be pushed by guides, most of whom will be college men. Six or seven hundred may be in use broughout the summer. All the leading Universities will be represented among the guides. It is said that applications from over three thousand college men have been received for this purpose.

In perhaps no other way will the magnificence of twentieth century achievements be more wonderfully displayed than in the electric lighting. The results of electricity grow yearly more marvelous and some of the effects produced by the use of the incandescent lamps seem almost beyond comprehension. When thousands of them are combined the brilliant coloring of the various architectural features is seen as plainly as in the light of the sun, only the effect is much more weird and dazzling.

O. S. V. Martz, 1902, has accepted a position in the post office at Narragansett Pier, Rhode Island.

Freshmen Win Another Game.

The Bucknell Freshmen won hands down from the Sunbury High School team on the college campus on Friday afternoon, the score being 17-2. The playing of the Freshies was exceptionally good and in spite of the onesidedness the game was interesting to witness. Taylor pitched a fine game, giving but three hits, two of which were of the scratchiest order. The Freshmen twirler also batted well, his home run with two on bases being a feature. Jones made a brilliant play by scooping up a hot grounder with one hand while on a dead run and throwing the man out at first.

Concert by the Lenora Jackson Company.

The concert given last Monday afternoon in Bucknell Hall was in every way a success.

The hall was comfortably filled with people of the university, town and vicinity.

Miss Jackson's playing came up to the expectation of all present, and her modest bearing, her skill and the feeling she gave to her playing called forth great applause. Miss Elburna's singing was delightful and Mr. Pratt made a fine accompanist for both these artists.

Many persons who have since expressed their opinions say this concert surpassed everything in this line that has been held in Lewisburg in recent years. The committee wish to thank the lady patronesses and all who helped make the affair a success.

Chas. I. Boyer, 1902, spent a portion of the week at his home in Mandata, Pa.

On Thursday afternoon the young ladies of Π Β Φ gave a very pleasant reception to their friends in town and college for the purpose of introducing Misses Darlington and Johnson, fraternity sisters from Swathmore college, who were paying the Bucknell chapter a visit. The afternoon was very pleasantly spent in the Institute grove, hammocks, chairs, cushions and cosy nooks being in evidence. Everything was done for the comfort and enjoyment of those present and all the guests report a most enjoyable time. The young ladies of Π Β Φ are indeed to be congratulated upon their success.

On account of rain the dual meet between the Carlisle Indians and Bucknell, which was to be held at Carlisle on Saturday, May 25th, was postponed until Saturday, June 1st.

For the eighth consecutive time Matthewson, the Bucknell University boy, pitched the New York baseball team to victory Friday at the Polo Grounds, the Cincinnatis, who were deposed from the lead in the championship race on Thursday, being the victims of his powess. But two hits were made by the visiting club Friday, and as it failed to send a man across the plate, it makes the fourth shut-out of the season for Matthewson. Thus far he has not lost a game, and in the eight contests in which he has taken part but thirty-four hits have been made from his delivery, an average of less than five hits to a game. In these eight game the opposing clubs have been able to send only seven men across the plate, and to Brooklyn belongs the honor of having scored the highest number of runs in one game, the club across the bridge making three runs in the opening game at the Polo Grounds. Indians vs. Bucknell.

Saturday's postponed meet between Carlisle and Bucknell proved very exciting, and remarkably close, almost as close as last year when the final score was 52-52.

That Bucknell succeeded in winning out by the score of 53-51 is remarkable when their hard luck is considered. The track men are deserving of the highest praise for their splendid display of grit in the face of the heavy odds. Throughout it was a most decent struggle.

In the first event, the 100 yd. dash, after one false start, the bunch got off at the crack of the pistol. Before the 50 yards from the start Tiffany appeared staggered and would have fallen had not help been at hand. He had worked loose a ligament in starting. Carlisle won both places in this dash. They repeated the trick in the 220 yd. dash. This was indeed discouraging as Tiffany should have been a sure winner. In the 120 yd. hurdle Gilliis was beaten at the finish by Johnson in the final heat. Slifer won his heat hands down in fine shape, but Bucknell's hopes again sunk when Gilliis' all was beaten out in the quarter.

Gilliis' failure to win the shot was the last show and victory was impossible. Then things began to come our way. Pearse and Thomas both places in the high jump. Fetzer romped away from Hurlbird in the two miles in 10 minutes seconds leaving that much worn runner badly done up. The half was a glorious surprise. Slifer ed into pace, gained a lead and only gained but kept it, finishing with Goodall close up for Gilliis took second in the hammer and Pearse made the Redmen like three cents with his magnificent jump of 22ft. 1 inch. Carlisle still ahead, and Bucknell in both of the remaining events the meet. In the vault Rogers himself, going seven or eight above his record but was beaten Bucknell. This tied the score. Johnson and Glaspey lined up deciding race, the 220 yd. Johnson had a slight lead for dred and fifty yards then "Bi passed him and won out in sprint, amid great enthusiasm. Dickinson men were on hand to cheer Bucknell and their courteous treatment was fully appreciated. The track season is over and has been a success. When it is considered that ten men have done the whole work it is nothing short of wonderful and the college should be duly appreciative It means that every man has done faithful, conscientious work and has never faltered when the test came. Nothing should be too good for the trackmen.

Summary:

100 yard dash—Beaver, Indian, first; Cusick, Indian, second. Time, 10 4-5 seconds.

120 yards hurdle—Johnson, Carlisle, first; Glaspey, Bucknell, second. Time, 17 2-5 seconds.

Mile run—Slifer, Bucknell, first; Metoxen, Carlisle, second. Time, 5 minutes, 2-5 seconds.

440 yard dash—Cusick, Carlisle, first; Goodall, Bucknell, second.

VOL. I LEWISBURG, PA., JUNE 1, 1901. NO. 1

Issued by the General Alumni Association.

OFFICERS OF ALUMNI.

PRESIDENT—H. M. Wolfe, Jr., '80.
VICE PRESIDENTS—J. H. Haslam, '90. Martin Bell, '69.
SECRETARY—W. G. Owens, '80.
TREASURER—L. T. Butler, '97.
ORATOR FOR 1901—Charles A. Soars '88.

Salutatory.

The Fifty-first annual Commencement of Bucknell University will take place June 15th to 19th, inclusive. This bulletin is sent out to the Alumni to inform them in a general way concerning the events for that occasion. The Official Program issued by the University, will contain information as to time and place of the various exercises. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of the Alumni at this Commencement. The University has enjoyed unusual prosperity this year, both in material welfare and increased attendance. The success of the college is, in large measure, due to the loyalty of the Alumni. So let us gather at Alma Mater this year in large numbers and thereby attest our love for our fostering mother.

The Alumni Oration will be delivered by Charles A. Soars of the class of 1888.

Alumni Meetings.

The Annual Business Meeting of the Alumni will be held in Bucknell Hall, Tuesday morning June 18th, immediately after the Chapel exercises. The annual election of officers will take place and the Alumni Orator and Poet selected for the following year. Other business will also be transacted.

The public meeting of the Alumni will be held on Tuesday evening in Commencement Hall, immediately after the twilight concert. The Alumni will assemble in front of the main college building.

Prospects for 1901-1902.

The prospects for a large attendance for the scholastic year beginning next September are very bright. By the help of the Alumni and friends of the school it is hoped to maintain the present large enrollment of over five hundred. All information concerning prospective and available students should be sent to the Institution at the earliest opportunity.

Commencement News.

This paper will be issued daily, as usual, during Commencement week. The paper will be sent postpaid by sending fifteen cents to J. Lloyd Kalp, Lewisburg.

Senior Debate.

This was the first Senior Debate to be held at Bucknell. The faculty has arranged to have one each year, and award honors to each of the four debaters. We would suggest that the winners should be given more honors than the losers hereafter.

John A. Hague, 1901, has been retained by the University for the summer.

Prof. Ed. Bell acted as referee and umpire. The Cornelius Club team defeated the Theta Phi, (Academy) team in an interesting contest. The following scores were made: 6 to 2; 6 to 0; 6 to 1. George and Spenser Harris played on the Theta Phi team and put up an excellent game. They were outclassed, however, by Elliott and Galbrath, their opponents. Fred Siegel acted as referee and umpire.

The two remaining clubs—the Bachelors and Kappa Sigma, will play in a day or so and the four winners in the first series will draw lots to determine their opponents in the second series, which will likely be played the latter part of the week.

Indians vs. Bucknell.

Saturday's postponed meet between Carlisle and Bucknell proved highly exciting, and remarkably close, almost as close as last year when the final score was 52-52.

That Bucknell succeeded in winning out by the score of 53-51 is remarkable when their hard luck is considered and the track men are deserving of the highest praise for their splendid display of grit in the face of the heavy odds. Throughout it was a magnificent struggle.

In the first event, the 100 yd. dash, after one false start, the bunch was off at the crack of the pistol. Fifteen yards from the start Tiffany stopped, staggered and would have fallen had not help been at hand. He had torn loose a ligament in starting. Carlisle won both places in this dash and repeated the trick in the 220 yd. dash. This was indeed discouraging as Tiffany should have been a sure winner. In the 120 yd. hurdle Glaspey was beaten at the finish by Johnson in the final heat. Slifer won his mile, hands down in fine shape, but Bucknell's hopes again sunk when Goodall was beaten out in the quarter.

Gillis' failure to win the shot put, was the last show and victory seemed impossible. Then things began to come our way. Pearse and Theis won both places in the high jump and Fetzer romped away from Hummingbird in the two miles in 10 minutes, 50 seconds leaving that much vaunted runner badly done up. The half mile was a glorious surprise. Slifer started into pace, gained a lead and not only gained but kept it, finishing first with Goodall close up for second. Gillis took second in the hammer throw and Pearse made the Redmen look like three cents with his magnificent jump of 22ft. 1 inch. Carlisle was still ahead, and Bucknell must win both of the remaining events to win the meet. In the vault Rogers outdid himself, going seven or eight inches above his record but was beaten out by Bucknell. This tied the score. Then Johnson and Glaspey lined up for the deciding race, the 220 yd. hurdle. Johnson had a slight lead for a hundred and fifty yards then "big Bill" passed him and won out in a final sprint, amid great enthusiasm. Dickinson men were on hand to cheer Bucknell and their courteous treatment was fully appreciated. The track season is over and has been a success. When it is considered that ten men have done the whole work it is nothing short of wonderful and the college should be duly appreciative It means that every man has done faithful, conscientious work and has never faltered when the test came. Nothing should be too good for the trackmen.

Summary:

100 yard dash—Beaver, Indian, first; Cusick, Indian, second. Time, 10 4-5 seconds.

120 yards hurdle—Johnson, Carlisle, first; Glaspey, Bucknell, second. Time, 17 2-5 seconds.

Bucknell vs. Harrisburg A. C.

Bucknell met defeat on all sides in the last series of games away from home. The student body in general was much disappointed that the Princeton game was cancelled because of rain, this being the first time Bucknell has had Princeton on her schedule. The team left Tuesday afternoon for a four day trip. The first game was played at Harrisburg with the Athletic Club of that city. Bucknell earned the first run in the fourth inning, Milligan coming in on Veil's single. Harrisburg was shut out until the fifth, when a single, a base on balls and two doubles gave them three runs. The sixth passed in one-two-three order but in the seventh three singles netted two runs for Bucknell while Harrisburg made one run and in the ninth brought their score up to five.

St. Marys' Game.

St. Marys, at Emmitsburg, gave Bucknell her third defeat in a closely contested game on Saturday. Bucknell played a hard game and should have won out, St. Marys made the first inning interesting by taking two runs as a result of a single and a double. Little scored first for Bucknell in the third; score 2-1. St Marys added another run in the sixth making the score 3-1. Bucknell failed to score again until the eighth when Little brought in her last run.

Inability to bunch the hits at the proper time lost the games of this series. The fielding work of the team was excellent out it is evident that our boys need practice at the bat.

The Senior Debate.

On Friday evening, May 31st, the Senior Debate was held in Bucknell Hall. At eight o'clock the speakers marched to their places, the march being played by Mr. Prout of the Academy. After the invocation by President Harris an excellent mandolin duet was rendered by Messrs. Walkinshaw and Kalp, after which Dr. Perrine introduced the speakers.

Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States follows the flag of the United States, was the subject discussed. Messrs. G. W. Alexander and F. E. Burpee, who spoke on the affirmative, occupied the left of the rostrum, while the negative speakers, Messrs. E. T. Shields and A. S. Bechtel, occupied the right. The question was one in which every one is interested, and the recent decision of the supreme court in the insular cases was freely drawn upon by all of the speakers.

Bucknell Loses to Gettysburg.

Gettysburg for the second time this year proved too much for the college team in a well played game. The game was an open question until the end. Bucknell took the lead in the first and kept it until the sixth inning when Gettysburg made four runs.

In the first inning Carlisle led with a single, Teufel was caught out at first, Weidensaul scored Carlisle on his two bagger, scoring himself on first baseman's error. Bucknell failed to score after the first.

Gettysburg won the game in the sixth, two hits and an error letting in four runs. The feature of the game was the pitching of Winters for Gettysburg.

The Tennis Games.

Three of the four games of the first series in the tennis tournament were played off on the Sigma Alpha Epsilon court, last week. On Thursday afternoon the Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Gamma Delta teams met, the latter winning three consecutive sets by the following scores: 6 to 3; 6 to 4; 6 to 3. The games were very interesting and exciting and were much enjoyed by the spectators. The teams were composed as follows: Φ Γ Δ Burrows and Harris: Σ A E Evans and Goodman. P. B. Linn acted as referee and umpire. On Saturday the Round Tops were defeated by the Clover Club by the following scores: 6 to 0; 6 to 3; 6 to 0. The former were handicapped by lack of practice and were no match for their adversaries. The teams were made up as follows: Round Tops, W. S. Robinson and Woodard; Clover, Williams and Singiser. Prof. Ed. Bell acted as referee and umpire. The Cornelius Club team defeated the Theta Phi, (Academy) team in an interesting contest. The following scores were made: 6 to 2; 6 to 0; 6 to 1. George and Spenser Harris played on the Theta Phi team and put up an excellent game. They were outclassed, however, by Elliott and Galbrath, their opponents. Fred Siegel acted as referee and umpire.

The two remaining clubs—the Bachelors and Kappa Sigma, will play in a day or so and the four winners in the first series will draw lots to determine their opponents in the second series, which will likely be played the latter part of the week.

Vacation, the long vacation is coming. Some will hie away to the hills and like Thoreau

"Live all alone
Close to the bone
And where life is sweet
Constantly eat."

Some will work and others will study. A few will even aspire to the conquering of two honors.

What will you do?—It all depends.—Idleness is the best policy for those who need rest, work for the doubly energetic and study for a very few who have much vitality to spare.

But, whatever you do, wherever you go, do not forget Bucknell. Be loyal to her colors, be true to her standard. By this I mean that you shall always have in the front the standard which you set up for yourself when you came to Bucknell and which was the purpose of your coming. In other words, for four years you have joined an army whose chief aim is to obtain an education. Hence, in your vacations do that which will best further your work when you come back in the fall.

Examinations are coming. Do not altogether despise the system of cram. It is a good chance, a last chance, to learn what you did not get before. 'Tis folly to say that one forgets everything he crammed for. It might be true in a case where the student attempted to cram everything, but, taking it for granted that he knows some things to start with, the rest may be crammed and much of it retained. Work done under pressure of any kind is not without its good results. What you did not get before 'twere better to get now than never to get at all.

Ernest E. Johnson, 1900, Professor of Organic Sciences and Chemistry in North Carolina College, is home on a visit. He has been successful in his newfield and likes the south very much. At present he is taking post-graduate work at Bucknell. His wife and son Boyd, came north with him and will remain until fall.

The Class Day Play.

The annual class play given by the senior class of the college will be presented in the Lewisburg opera house on Tuesday morning, June 18th, at eight o'clock. The play which has been selected and on which the cast has been at work all of this term, is entitled "The Boomerangers: a comedy of today." It is a famous farce, by a well-known American author, who translated it from the German. Admission will be 30, 20 & 15c, proceeds to be devoted to the University library. Reserved seat chart will be opened at Baker's drug store Friday, June 14th, at 9 o'clock a. m. The play occupies two and one-half hours in presentation. Through the courtesy of Registrar Gretzinger a special orchestra, selected from the celebrated Germania Band of Reading, will play during the entire production. This announcement will be hailed with delight by the music-loving public.

Prof. Davis' Meteorite.

Prof. Davis last week came into possession of a meteorite which will be a valuable addition to the mineral collection of the university. It was secured from a man residing in the vicinity of Pottsgrove, Northumberland county, who had it in his possession for four years. It was discovered by this man four feet underground resting on a bed of limestone. The lump is bowl-shaped, about 14 inches in diameter, 6 inches deep and weighs 70 pounds. Prof. Davis will analyze it in a few days.

It is the general belief of the people residing in the vicinity of the farm on which the meteorite was found that it fell in 1824. In that year a ball of fire was seen to pass through the air and alight a few miles from Pottsgrove. The incident created some excitement at the time and a systematic effort was made to locate the phenomenon without avail.

Dr. Frank Catherman, a Bucknell graduate, hardly received his diploma last week in Philadelphia until he was elected Resident Physician of the Atlantic City Hospital. Dr. Catherman began his medical course at the Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia, and completed the four years course in three years with high averages. Entering a competitive examination, in Atlantic City, New Jersey, in which many doctors from various colleges competed. Dr. Catherman was the successful one and will enter upon his work in a few days as Resident Physician in the Atlantic City Hospital. The authorities of the hospital are to be congratulated upon the selection of a man of sterling worth and ripe scholarship and in every way fitted for the important duties and responsibilities that have been invested in him. The ORANGE AND BLUE joins with his many friends in wishing him success.

The Freshman baseball team added to its credit on Memorial Day by winning from the Sunbury High school and the Northumberland High school at Sunbury. The former were defeated in the foremoon by a score of 21 to 1. McGiffin pitched a fine game and had excellent support. The score of the Northumberland game was 10 to 6, ten innings being required to decide the contest. Gilbert pitched in good form, striking out 15 men, but the boys did not play up to their best form.

Prof. Fisk, recently an instructor in the University, has removed his family to Hamilton, N. Y., where they will reside in the future.

Dr. Hulley delivered the Memorial Day address before a large and appreciative audience in the Lewisburg Opera House, Thursday afternoon.

Bucknell will play the Cuban X Giants, Wednesday, June 5th, on the campus. Let everybody turn out. Admission, 25c.

The Annual Business Meeting of the Alumni will be held in Bucknell Hall, Tuesday morning, June 18th, immediately after the Chapel exercises. The annual election of officers will take place and the Alumni Orator and Poet selected for the following year. Other business will also be transacted.

The public meeting of the Alumni will be held on Tuesday evening in Commencement Hall, immediately after the twilight concert. The Alumni will assemble in front of the main college building.

The prospects for a large attendance for the scholastic year beginning next September are very bright. By the help of the Alumni and friends of the school it is hoped to maintain the present large enrollment of over five hundred. All information concerning prospective and available students should be sent to the Institution at the earliest opportunity.

Copies of the annual catalogue will be mailed to those seeking information concerning the University. Alumni will confer a favor by sending to the Registrar the names of young people in whose hands it would be profitable to place University literature.

A limited number of the Quinquennial Catalogues of the University are on hand. Alumni can have copies by writing for the same.

The Commencement News will be issued daily, as usual, during Commencement week. The paper will be sent postpaid by sending fifteen cents to J. Lloyd Kalp, Lewisburg.

Bucknell Defeats Monarchs.

Bucknell defeated the Monarchs, Champions of Western Pennsylvania, on Saturday, in a very exciting game.

The Monarchs hold a very creditable record and their defeat immediately after that of the Cuban X Giants gives promise of some well played Commencement games.

Bucknell again had her batting eye in working order and made eight hits off the Altoona pitchers while Veil gave them but three. The Monarchs did very ragged playing in the field during the first part of the game which proved costly to them.

Stanton brought in Bucknell's first run in the second on Grininger's single; Grininger scored on Little's double. In the third inning Weidensaul opened with a single, got second on Milligan's sacrifice and scored on Veil's three bagger; Veil came in on Stanton's single. In the Monarch's half Rollin scored bringing in their only run and ending the scoring. The features of the game were Veil's pitching and his errorless support.

Bucknell Defeats Cuban X Giants.

The Cuban X Giants were defeated on the home campus, Wednesday, in the most interesting game of the season. Bucknell played gilt-edged ball and easily blocked the visitors attempt at scoring after the second inning. The game was full of exciting plays and grandstand catches.

Bucknell was first to bat and tried the Giant's short-stop who gathered in two while the center fielder caught Hess out for the third. The Giants were treated to a one-two-three, a pretty double figuring. The second gave the visitors two runs.

Bucknell went in with a dash in the fourth. Weidensaul hit out a pretty two bagger, Milligan was hit by the pitcher, Hess scored Yencer on a single and Stanton rapped out a single bringing in Milligan. In the fifth Milligan won the applause of the spectators by a phenomenal one hand catch in deep left field, shutting out the side.

The Giants kept the hits well scattered until the eight when a double and three singles netted two runs. The ninth opened with Carlisle's single. Teufel scored him with a double while Hess brought in Teufel with a single.

The features of the game were Milligan's catch, and the support given Hess by the whole team.

Freshmen Win Again.

The Freshman base ball team added another scalp to its collection on Saturday by defeating the Susquehanna Reserves in a rather dull and uninteresting game. The Freshies made an inauspicious start, but after the third inning the boys gathered themselves together and played in old-time form, outplaying the visitors at every point. Taylor who has been suffering from a sore arm twirled for the Freshmen and while he was wild at times pitched a good game. The visitors were able to secure but 3 hits off the lad, all but one of their runs being uncarned. Walters, who started to pitch for the Reserves, was succeeded by Deibler, the 'varsity twirler who pitched against the Bucknell 'varsity boys at Selinsgrove a few weeks ago. He proved an easy mark for the first-year boys. Myers put up a good game at first and Harshberger batted well.

Senior Banquet.

It was 8 a. m. that the hefty lads of 1901 donned their glad rags and put in an appearance on the empyreal throne of Cupid's Resort, better known as the Institute front porch, and there waited the arrival of the whole show. At that time the girls were receiving detailed instructions on the horrors of late hours, but eventually they appeared with a look on their man-enticers that said too plainly, "If we're back at twelve, were it; this is our last class banquet, and there is going to be something doing."

And they certainly looked great: Spring gowns, the creations of local Redferns, and opera capes whose charming daintiness would make a Madison Square Garden audience look like a discarded deuce, added so much to my lady's natural charms that even Maize the silent permitted a smile of delight to flit over his erstwhile legal physiog. Lovelines? Lovelines galore!

The two huge hacks hired for the occasion were about as full as they could get; so was the driver, but that's neither here nor there. On the way to the Hotel Haag thirty-five happy voices joined in most unharmonious unison to execute all the latest and popular songs of the day. Some cruel pup on the Milton Plaisance remarked that the execution was perfect, the guillotine method probably being used;—nevertheless, Sousa Goodman continued leading to beat four of a kind.

On our arrival, games were played, jokes were cracked by such recognized merry-makers as Fathomless Bechtel and Alexander the Great, until Chairman Pierson came to the relief of the class by directing their attention to the feast spread in the room beyond.

The best part of the banquet, however, consists in the toasts that come twenty minutes late. So it was with the senior banquet. President Charles had his kidders on, and introduced the speakers with all the wit characteristic of himself. Byron Lesher spoke on the subject of "College men out of College;" better "College men out of a job." This was a rather retrospective and inspiring treatise, in the key of D flat. Miss Bower next told us of "Our social stunts." From the event enor of her brief remarks, we gleaned the fact that every one in the class was a social success, welcome anywhere from the ballroom to the kitchen.

"The Last Lap," was the rather vague title of Charlie Pearse's toast. It was gotten up in a masterly style, probably due to Charlie's rather exhaustive honor study in Robert's Rules of Order. "The Last Lap" was enjoyable.

Miss Allen gave everybody all that was coming to them in "It Might Have Been." It was good, though, very good; every man in the class was roasted, with one exception. ? Miss Wood, in a truly masterly style, recited the "Psalm of 1901." Then came the rich, rare and racy treat of the evening; Ducky Bevan delivered a toast on "The Man with the hammer." It seems that Frankie's motto was, "Knock, and it shall be opened unto you." His Antikamnia joke was excellent,— ask him about it.

Miss Probasco played a very sweet solo on her mandolin, accompanied by Mr. Sausser. Then we had some mewsick,—Goodman, Ayers (Lynden), Sausser and Samuel C. didn't do a thing to the class song; before it was finished somebody made a motion to start for home, so here we are.

Possibly you heard the noise on our arrival at the hill; well, pardon us, fellows: 'twas our last class banquet, and we wanted you to know it. When you are seniors, you'll do the very same thing. And now, Au Revoir; when next you receive the "ORANGE AND BLUE" 'twill contain no more articles written by 1901.

Baseball Dance.

The last of the baseball dances was held in armory hall last Wednesday night. The affair was very successful in every particular. The Trate orchestra of Watsontown furished music under the personal management of Mr. Chas. Trate and has won renown at Bucknell during the past two years playing for nearly all the social functions of town and college.

It is Commencement week. Two stately black-gowned seniors are strolling on the Campus. Their mein is pensive, their countenance is sad. They are talking as only seniors can when the end is near. It was not befitting me to hear their conversation but as I was sitting at the foot of a tree a squirrel came running up and chattered so fast I thought it must have something important to tell.

"You are a Junior. You look trustworthy. I have dreadful news. Bucknell will soon be no more."

"Why! what is the matter?" I asked in astonishment.

"Listen, until I repeat the conversation of those two seniors over there."

"The one said to the other, 'Too bad we have to leave just now when the college is in such good condition. It has been coming up steadily for the last four years. I wonder what will become of it next year, but perhaps one or two of our class may come back for a post course. They would be sufficient to keep things from going to rack and ruin.'

'Whatever will become of the ORANGE AND BLUE and the Mirror without one single member of the class of 1901 to manage things?'

'Yes, and there is the department of athletics. However will it get along?'

'Oh! the dear old college! I don't think I shall ever come back again, for I should not want to witness such destruction.'

The poor, little squirrel was in such a fright at the ominous words foretelling destruction to its home that I had hard work to quiet it. I told the squirrel that every year it might hear the seniors talk that way but after all they were very dear people and that we should all regret their departure. But the "most unkindest cut of all" came when the little squirrel looked up at me and ventured, "Next year when you are a senior will you, too, talk that way?"

Not daring to be untruthful I stammered, "I suppose we shall, little squirrel."

We take this opportunity in this, our last issue, to thank you all for your co-operation and kindly spirit. Both of which any paper in order to be successful must have from its readers.

We wish you all a pleasant vacation. But—a moment ere we bid you adieu. It is the eve of another Commencement. Nothing should so stir the heart of an undergraduate; nothing ever does so arouse the emotions of the Senior; nothing ever will so kindle the imagination of the alumnus; nothing about the college is so exciting as the stirring scenes of commencement. Soon our halls and groves will be thronged with strangers. Let us rally to the assistance of our Alma Mater. Let us give them a right, royal welcome. Let us by our presence and hearty good cheer show them real B. U. hospitality.

Extract from Webster's Dictionary:

"BOOM-ER-ANG, n. A very singular missile weapon, used by the natives of Australia: when thrown from the hand, with a quick rotary motion, it describes very remarkable curves, according to the manner of throwing it, and finally taking a retrograde direction, so as to fall near the place from which it was thrown, or even very far in the rear of it. In inexperienced hands the Boomerang recoils upon the thrower, sometimes with very serious results."

The senior play, "The Boomerangers: A Comedy of to day." In the Lewisburg opera-house Tuesday morning, June 18th, at eight o'clock.

"Nuff sed." Only be on hand early Friday morning, at Baker's Drug store, if you wish to secure choice seats for yourself and friends. The chart opens at 9 A. M. Admission, 30, 20 & 15c.

"The event of commencement week."

LOCALS.

Mr. Raub, of Bradford, spent Saturday and Sunday with his son, Raub, '04.

James A. Brady, of Union City, was the guest of the members of Penna. Gamma Chapter, Φ K Ψ over Sunday.

Lee M. Goodman, 1901, is entertaining at the Chapter House his brother, who will remain in Lewisburg until after commencement.

The Zeto literary society recently presented a new book-mark to the chapel. It is artistically worked in gold and is a very beautiful gift.

A well-founded rumor is to the effect that Prof. A. B. Stewart is likely to sever his connection with this institution at the end of the present school year to accept a more lucrative position elsewhere. Bucknell will in this case lose one of her ablest instructors, and the students one of their best friends. The loss of Prof. Stewart would be felt elsewhere, as well, as he holds the following positions: President of the Northumberland S. S. Convention; Vice President of the Union County S. S. Convention; President of the Lewisburg Union Teacher's Association; Superintendent of the Lewisburg Baptist Sunday School: and Trustee of the Lewisburg Baptist church. Any institution that secures the services of this able and efficient instructor and Christian gentleman is to be congratulated.

Special rates on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Philadelphia and Reading Railway and the Central Railroad of New Jersey have been secured for the Bucknell University Commencement. Tickets will be sold only on card orders to Lewisburg and return Tickets will be good, going from June 12th to 19th, and return to 22nd. Card orders can be secured from the Registrar.

The appointment of Lincon S. Walter, Esq., as judge of the new court established in Northumberland county, calls attention to the large number of judges among the Bucknell Alumni. There are the following: Hon. Wm. A. Marr, class of 1860; Hon. Martin Bell, class of 1869; Hon. Harold M. McClure, and Hon. Edmund H. Reppert, class of 1877; and Lincoln S. Walters, Esq., class of 1886. In its earlier years, the college did not graduate many who entered the legal profession, but in recent years the number has greatly increased. We may expect that with the introduction of a sufficient number of legal studies to enable the graduates of Bucknell to enter the second year of law schools, the number of men from Bucknell who will enter the legal profession and take part in public life will be greatly increased.

Exhibition of Water Colors.

Mr. J. W. Little's collection of water colors, was on exhibition in the Bucknell Hall on Saturday from 9.30 to 3.30. A large number of people from town and college were present to inspect this elaborate collection.
